WETS IN HOUSE PLAN HEARINGS ON RUM BILLS

Unofficial Committee to Be Set Up to Consider Repeal Proposals.

AIRING OF CONDITIONS PRINCIPAL OBJECTIVE

Cause Will Be Helped by Disclosure of Facts, Bloc Believes.

LINTHICUM RENAMED CHAIRMAN OF GROUP

Storm Expected to Break When Senate Finishes Tariff Debate.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The House wet bloc yesterday decided to set up an unofficial committee to hold hearings on various pending bills to modify and repeal the prohibition law.

Decision to do this was taken at a meeting in the afternoon at which Representative Linthicum, of Maryland, was reelected chairman of the group. The committee to hold the hearings is to be announced later.

In this way the wets hope to get an airing of prohibition conditions. Nothing they do about any of the pending wet bills will mean anything, of course, but their hope is that conditions brought out in their investigation will go far toward helping their cause.

Many Witnesses Expected.

The committee will have no power of subpena, but it is not believed that it will have any difficulty in getting voluntary witnesses. These witnesses will, of course, have to pay their own expenses unless a general expense fund is raised, an action which is not expected.

In such a manner the House wets hope to hold the center of the stage until the Senate gets through with the tariff bill, when it is being freely predicted a storm will break that will leave some casualties.

Before this storm subsides it is believed that it will develop into another struggle of embattled farmers and the administration. Senator Borah and other Western senators contend that the present enforcement breakdown is largely attributable to the diversion of industrial alcohol. Prohibition Commissioner Doran says that it is the sugar corn that the senator's farmers raise that is responsible. Diversion of industrial alcohol has become a minor phase of prohibition enforcement, Mr. Doran contends, while the manufacture of alcohol from sugar corn has assumed gigantic proportions. This industry has done more for the farmer than all of the administration's farm relief measures combined, it is said.

Attention Focused on Industry.

So while there is no suggestion that the attitude of Borah and other Western senators is designed to this end, it is nevertheless an attitude tending to protect this great industry by focusing attention on diversion of industrial alcohol.

Commissioner Doran is preparing to fight back, however, as his recent statements have indicated. His statement Sunday that recent attacks on the prohibition enforcement personnel were responsible for the killing of two agents at West Palm Beach was generally taken as directed at Senator Borah. The senator has been in the forefront of these attacks and he, in fact, accepted the statement as aimed at him.

"I have an idea," he said, referring to the man who killed the two agents, "that he was guarding some alcohol which Dr. Doran permits him to get."

Wants to Finish Tariff.

In line with his efforts to try to hold the prohibition storm back until after the tariff has been disposed of, this is all he would say, but as some one suggested he will keep the Doran statement in mind.

The Senate judiciary committee made a stab at getting the President's reform enforcement recommendations underway. The bill by Senator King, pending some time, to provide for the concentration of all prohibition detection in the Department of Justice, was given to a subcommittee composed of Senators King, Herbert, of Rhode Island, and Waterman, of Colorado, while that much controverted proposal to enlarge the powers of United States commissioners was turned over to a subcommittee composed of Senators Herbert, Steiwer, of Oregon, and Overman, of North Carolina.

Senator King immediately called for a meeting of his committee for today.

There is no serious belief in any quarter that the bill regarding United States commissioners will be passed at this session, or, more important, before the congressional elections, and there is a serious doubt that it will ever be passed.

Chairman Norris, of the judiciary committee; Senator Borah and others

ARMY BANS LIQUOR AT MILITARY POSTS

Order Provides for Drastic Punishment to Bolster Prohibition Act.

HAS HOOVER'S SANCTION

The War Department, with the full approval of President Hoover, has made its contribution to the prohibition laws, it became known yesterday, in the form of an Army regulation requiring "strict compliance" from the military personnel with the national liquor laws.

From yesterday on—or rather the date of the regulation, October 16, 1929—the military man who takes a drink on a military reservation, or has any liquor in his quarters, and is caught, will be subject to both the military and the civil punishment for his offense.

In official circles it is believed that it will not be long before the Navy, the Marine Corps and the Coast Guard will issue orders similar to those contained in the Army regulation.

In the regulation, Gen. C. P. Summerall, chief of staff, specifically orders all commanding officers to "take adequate measures to prevent or detect violations of the statutes on all military premises," in other words to constitute themselves prohibition enforcement agents.

Apparently the War Department has come around to the point of view of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, of the Marines, who at one time in his prohibition enforcement career, preferred charges against one of his colonels in whose house liquor was served.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley yesterday declared that there was nothing extremely new in the regulation. He called it an "administrative act in order to call more specific attention to the prohibition case."

"At the outbreak of the world war," he said, "Congress, by act of May 18, 1917, prohibited the possession of any intoxicating or spirituous liquor at any place under military jurisdiction. This is permanent legislation and is still in effect. It was published in orders to the Army but not embodied in Army regulations.

"Army regulations for some time past have prohibited the possession of intoxicating liquors on Army

Air Tragedy Which Cost 16 Lives Is Laid to Ocean Storm.

Board of Inquiry Meets Today to Find Cause of Catastrophe.

Los Angeles, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—A pitiful, crumpled mass of wreckage in a muddy California bean field 80 miles south of here today marked the greatest disaster in American commercial air transportation. Sixteen persons, eight women and eight men, went to a quick death there last night when one of the most modern sky liners, a trimotored all-metal monoplane of the Transcontinental Air Transport-Maddux line crashed up and burned. All on board were lost, the two pilots and fourteen passengers.

It was a sacrifice to the storm, the snuffing out of human life, in the opinion of officials in the preliminary stages of investigation. A sudden squall from the sea pressed the great monoplane down to earth and its destruction as the pilot was seeking to turn and scurry back to safety, in the opinion of D. W. Tomlinson, chief of operations of the owning company, who today surveyed the wreckage.

Independent investigations are being carried on by the United States Department of Commerce, division of aeronautics, the coroner of San Diego County and the T. A. T. line. A formal inquest legally to identify and release the bodies of the victims to relatives will be held tomorrow at Oceanside, near the scene. Resumption of the inquest to determine the cause of the accident and to fix responsibility will not be had until later in the week when field examinations are completed.

It was dark shortly after 6 o'clock last night when the sky liner with its capacity load was speeding from Agua Caliente, Lower California, to Los Angeles, a run of some 120 air miles.

Over Oceanside, less than half way, a low ceiling was encountered. Some 12 miles north Pilot Basil Russell found the clouds lowering with a rain squall. Then came the end, while other planes behind him were scurrying back to San Diego.

Passengers in the Western Air Express monoplane on the same run, which turned back to San Diego safely, witnessed the flames of the gasoline explosion. So did many motorists on the nearby San Diego-Los Angeles highway.

Mr. Tomlinson, summoned to the scene last night, today made the following report:

HOME IS SEARCHED IN BOMBING DEATHS

Third Arrest Looms After Officers Go Through Brady Dwelling.

TRUCK DRIVERS GRILLED

A third arrest in the sensational Seat Pleasant bombing case, which has been under investigation for the last 20 days, loomed last night following a search of the home of the mother of the Brady boys, Herman and Leroy, in Mitchellville, Md.

Although Sergt. Charles Schalter, of Baltimore, and County Detective Frank Prince, who made the search after a warrant had been obtained from Justice of the Peace Harry W. Gore, of Marlboro, Md., declined to reveal the results of their examination of Mrs. Brady's home, it was understood they found nothing startling. It is rumored that they were looking for gun powder.

The detectives are also understood to have talked to Herman Brady, who is staying with his mother temporarily, for some time.

Herman Brady is at liberty under $1,000 bond as a material witness for the State, while his brother, Lawrence Leroy Brady, 26 years old, Washington automobile mechanic, is being held in jail upon the order of the coroner's jury.

Any persons who are believed to have passed in the vicinity of the homes of John Buckley and John Hall for a few days prior to the day of the blast are being questioned in an effort to determine at what time and by whom the fatal bomb was placed on the Buckley porch.

Route drivers for milk companies and truck drivers for bakeries are the objects of the most direct queries, as they pass the houses daily and probably could at least tell whether the package was on the porch when they made their morning deliveries.

A detailed report on the fragments of the bomb which was sent to the Bureau of Standards for examination has been received by former State's Attorney J. Wilson Ryon, who is collaborating in the prosecution with State's Attorney J. Frank Parran.

Ryon said last night that he had not had an opportunity to peruse the report which is very lengthy.

It is believed that the report on the bomb fragments hooks up with investigations that have been carried on for the last several days by detectives.

Mysterious Dirigible Seen Over New Jersey

Officials at Lakehurst Naval Station said none of the ships stationed there were in the air.

WALKER MADE TOP CHOICE AS COMMISSIONER

Wealthy Realty Man Held to Be Leading Field of Possibilities.

HAS NO INFORMATION ON CHANCES, HE SAYS

Confirmation Kept Back at White House Also as Rumor Persists.

TALIAFERRO'S RETURN PRESSED BY FRIENDS

Commissioner Would Regard Reappointment as Reply to "Unfair Critics."

Ernest G. Walker, wealthy real estate man and former newspaperman, yesterday was reported to be leading the field of those being considered by President Hoover for appointment as District Commissioner to fill one of the vacancies caused by the expiration of the terms of Commissioners Proctor L. Dougherty and Sidney P. Taliaferro on February 4.

Confirmation of the report was refused at the White House yesterday and Mr. Walker declared flatly that he had not received any information that the President had selected him to be District Commissioner. Despite the reticence of both the White House and Mr. Walker, however, it was believed that Mr. Walker stood in the forefront of those who are under consideration or are seeking appointment.

Rumor was less definite about the other civilian commisioner who will be named by President Hoover. Former Senator Miles Poindexter has been mentioned as the man selected to be the beneficiary of the Jones bill, introduced in the Senate last week. The measure would amend the existing District code by eliminating the requirement that the civilian commissioners of the District must have been bona fide residents of the District for three years prior to their appointment. It would make eligible for appointment persons who have maintained offices or a business in Washington for three years, even though they maintained a legal and voting residence elsewhere.

Poindexter Would Be Eligible.

Mr. Poindexter would be ineligible for appointment under existing law, but would be eligible if the law were amended as proposed in the bill introduced by his former colleague from Washington State in the Senate. It was reported that the Jones measure had been given at least the tacit approval of President Hoover, although it is not expected that the President would seek to force it through Congress in the face of vigorous opposition. Whether the opposition will be effective remains to be seen, but it is certain that it will be vigorous so far as the organized citizenship movement and other civic organizations are concerned.

Senator Jones has refused to discuss his measure beyond saying that his purpose was to broaden the field of available men from whom the President could choose the District Commissioners. He refused to say that he had discussed the question with the White House or to say that former Senator Poindexter was the person for whose benefit the bill was introduced.

Taliaferro's Return Sought.

Report that Commissioner Taliaferro may be reappointed persists, and it is known that important influences in District affairs are seeking to convince the President that Mr. Taliaferro's record entitles him to reappointment, especially in view of what his friends and admirers describe as the unjust criticism against the present Board of Commissioners. It is known that Commissioner Taliaferro would accept reappointment as an honor and a full answer to what he believes has been unfair criticism.

Mr. Walker's name has continued to be prominently mentioned despite the lack of official confirmation and the evident desire of the man himself to keep his name out of the newspaper accounts of the commissionership fight. As he is a man of wealth, it was regarded with surprisee in some quarters that he would accept appointment to the Commissionership.

Mr. Walker was born in Embden, Me., in 1869, went to school there and subsequently taught school there in his youth. He was graduated from Harvard University in 1892. He came to Washington soon afterwards and entered the service of the Smithsonian Institution and in 1893 became a special writer for The Washington Post. Subsequently he became a reporter, city editor, telegraph editor, covered the Capitol and became the chief political writer of The Post

STIMSON VOICES HOPE FOR PERMANENT STEP TO PEACE AT PARLEY

Text of Stimson's Speech At Banquet on Parley Eve

London, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—An earnest plea that the powers of the world take their places at the London naval arms limitation conference with a will to obtain results beneficial to mankind was made today by Henry L. Stimson, United States Secretary of State, at the British government banquet preliminary to the opening of the meetings.

The American Secretary spoke of the conference as one of the rare occasions of history out of which a permanent step toward peace for all nations might be given impetus.

"It is a great pleasure," he said, "to acknowledge the gracious hospitality with which we have been received by our hosts on this occasion. It also is a great privilege to speak for the visiting delegations to the conference and to voice our appreciation of this invitation and of the importance of the occasion for which we are met. I am confident that each of our nations appreciates the greatness of this opportunity.

"The people of the United States realize this as one of those rare occasions of history out of which, provided only the necessary conditions of spirit are present, a long and permanent step foward on the road toward peace may be taken for all the nations of the earth. Those conditions are mutual good-will and an honest effort on the part of each one of us to understand the circumstances and difficulties which surround our sister nations here represented.

"I earnestly plead for such good will and such an endeavor. I earnestly plead that we approach this conference table with no desire to overreach our fellow-countrymen, but with a sincere will to obtain a result which will be faithful and beneficial to all. No other result will stand the test of time. No other accomplishment of this conference will be permanent.

"The chief purpose of our meeting is to transform the process of naval armament from a method of competition to one of mutual agreement and limitation. Economy is only an important by-product of such an end. Our real aim is to remove the secrecy, the rivalry, the mutual irritation which inevitably attends the precedent of competition in armament and to leave each nation free to have an adequate national defense which will yet not be a source of worry and suspicion to its neighbors.

"Manifestly such a result can only be obtained by frankness and good will. Manifestly if any one of us

Speaks at Dinner Given Delegates by British Government.

URGES FRANKNESS IN ALL DISCUSSIONS

Hopes Limitation Will Supplant Competition as Navy Policies.

MACDONALD LAUDS VARIOUS DELEGATES

Final Preparations Made at House of Lords for Conference Opening.

London, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The five-power effort to curb the ever-mounting costs and risks of naval armaments was launched tonight by a welcoming banquet at the Savoy Hotel given by the British government.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald described the hope and confidence of his government to the assembled representatives of France, Italy, Japan and the United States. Henry L. Stimson, United States Secretary of State, in replying for the visiting delegations, expressed the conviction that the conference was one of the rare occasions in history out of which a permanent step toward peace might gain impetus.

The leading representatives of the five powers were welcomed during the day as a body by Premier MacDonald at 10 Downing street and by King George at Buckingham Palace. Tonight after the banquet Mr. MacDonald held a large reception for all of the delegates, experts and advisers and their wives.

Final Touches Made on Setting.

Meanwhile the final delicate touches were made to the magnificent setting for their labors in the royal gallery of the oHuse of Lords.

In the shadowed spaces of the great gallery, where King George will convene the inaugural plenary session at 11 a. m. tomorrow, a minute inspection of the arrangements for the historic meeting was carried out. From the golden throne chair and the king's silver microphone to the lighting effects that will enable photographers to get pictures without flashlights every detail was pronounced perfect.

The eve of the conference has arrived and passed without the cropping out of a single incident to mar the progress toward successful evolution of a program for naval disarmament and furthering the peace of the world.

MacDonald Lauds U. S. Leaders.

Mr. MacDonald at the banquet tonight paid a stirring tribute to the leadership of the United States in the search for peace and to its present leaders, President Herbert Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson.

Of the latter, he said: "Both in so far as his country and his own merits are concerned we welcome Mr. Stimson as the leader of the colleagues he has brought to help us in our task."

The British prime minister then became very grave as he said slowly and as if in deep and intense thought:

"The United States is far away, but the United States is near at hand. Far away geographically, but, nevertheless at our elbow every hour of the day. The United States has been leading every peace movement of modern times. They gave us the Washington conference. Their Secretary of State, acting with M. Briand, gave us the pact of Paris, while the President's words, personality and noble ideas, everything that goes to compose his being, have gone to supply the impulse in political movement and in idealism that has brought us here on this occasion to open the five-power naval conference."

Secretary Stimson spoke to the assembled delegates, pleading for a

U. S. TO SEEK DELAY ON NAVAL DEMANDS

FULL DEBATE IS SOUGHT

London, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The American delegation tonight, on the eve of the five-power naval conference, was prepared to discourage vigorously injection of technicalities and figures on naval needs at the outset of the parley. It appeared certain tonight that the Americans would approach the work in quite different manner from the Hughes policy in 1921.

Charles Evans Hughes, at the opening session of the Washington conference, had offered a specific program with mathematical ratio. Henry L. Stimson will carefully avoid figures and pay special attention to putting the conference in a frame of mind of confidence and good faith.

In other words, the United States enters the parley prepared to fight against entrenchment by each delegation behind a mask of figures and demands at the outset, desiring the fullest discussion, first, of the political and economic needs of the nations, with exploration of the grounds on which these could be rescued.

It was disclosed at the American headquarters tonight as a result of the talks between Secretary Stimson and other heads of delegations that there is no expectation the parley will include any immediate striking for advantage over others.

A point which has generally been cited in connection with this is that while the Rodney and Nelson are usually regarded as giving the British navy a superiority in battleships, some British experts believe the vessels have not been worth the irritation caused.

Another point emphasized is that no nation should leave the conference dissatisfied, as the French did in 1921.

While there have been no definite indications of the trend of the speeches by delegates on Thursday

NAVAL ISSUE RAISED BY GERMAN CRUISER

Ersatz Preussen, Carrying 11-Inch Guns, Creates French Dilemma.

STUDY TO BE REQUESTED

London, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—When the five-power naval disarmament conference opens tomorrow, one of the things in the background in the minds of many naval experts here will be the authorized German cruiser Ersatz Preussen armed with 11-inch guns and looked upon as the most powerful ship of her size in the world.

French naval opinion considers France in a dilemma as the result of the appearance of this cruiser of the Admiral Scheer class which Frenchmen frankly admit is the fruit of German genius. A report to the French Chamber of Deputies prepared by France's former minister of the navy, J. L. Dumesnil, one of the French representatives at London, says that one of two things must be done—either stop the construction of German 11-inch gun cruisers, or secure an increase in the total tonnage of 175,000 tons accorded to France for the construction of battleships. M. Dumesnil prefers the first alternative.

He realizes, however, that the London conference can not change the naval stipulations of the Treaty of Versailles, especially with Germany absent from the London conference, but thinks this problem must be studied at London to take into consideration the swift and heavily armed German cruiser.

Former Minister Dumesnil is against utilizing the authorized battleship tonnage in the construction of a cruiser battleship of 15,000 tons, for if Germany builds six of the Admiral Scheer class this would oblige France to give up 90,000 tons of her battleship allowance and leave only 85,000 tons for maximum sized

Policeman's Trial Ordered After Gift From Prisoner

$18 Coat Not in Proportion to Kindnesses, Rules Maj. Pratt.

An $18 leather jacket is too much for a policeman to accept from a prisoner as a reward for getting the prisoner a pack of cigarettes and some food, Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, decided yesterday when he ordered Private Julius Moeller, of the Third Police Precinct, before the trial board for improper conduct.

Private Moeller is charged with having accepted the leather coat from Jack James Finley, a prisoner, while the latter was in a cell in the Third Precinct station. He said Finley had given him the leather coat because of his kindness in getting him cigarettes and sandwiches.

The affair was brought to light when another policeman discovered Finley wearing a policeman's old uni-spirit of frankness and good will for the realization of the lofty purposes of the conference, and his words seemed to call a deep note of response from the other delegates and the distinguished guests.

His tributes to King George and to Prime Minister MacDonald, and then to France, Italy and Japan were received with great applause.

Affirming that "no other result will stand the test of time" Mr. Stimson asked his fellow delegates to "approach this conference table with no desire to overreach our fellow countrymen, but with a sincere will to obtain a result which will be faithful and beneficial to all."

He defined the chief purpose of the meeting as "to transform the process of naval armament from a method of competition to one of mutual agreement and limitation."

Economy Only a By-Product.

In this process economy was "only an important by-product."

"Our real aim is to remove the secrecy, the rivalry, the mutual irritation which inevitably attend to precedent of competition in armaments and to leave each nation free to have an adequate national defense which will yet not be a source of worry and suspicion to its neighbors."

He pledged the American delegation, carrying out President Hoover's purposes, to enter the conference "in such a spirit of frankness and good will."

Paying tribute to the importance and efficacy of Prime Minister MacDonald's visit to the United States, Mr. Stimson was careful to state that his visit was "neither intended to nor did in any way negotiate changes in the official relations of the countries."

MacDonald Reception Host.

Immediately after the banquet Prime Minister MacDonald hastened to Lancaster House, next door to St. James Palace, and there at the famous old London mansion that once was the center of the capital's social life, the Labor chieftain, with his daughter, Ishbel, at his side, received 2,000 guests at an official reception.

In the charming informality of the MacDonalds' hospitality the wives of the American and the other delegates were conspicuous. The ladies appeared in the official conference picture for the first time at the banquet tonight, and for the second time at the reception.

The conference activities today began with the gathering of the 27 chief delegates in the British cabinet room at No. 10 Downing street, where important questions of procedure were decided upon.

The meeting was not without a very human incident of interruption. The British dirigible R-100, slipping through the haze over London, attracted the attention of the delegates with the steady hum of her motors, and the statesmen went to have a look at her.

Will Adjourn Until Thursday.

The delegates agreed that Prime Minister MacDonald should be elected chairman of the conference tomorrow. After the inaugural session they will adjourn until Thursday, reassembling at the permanent conference hall in St. James Palace.

Wednesday will be devoted to the further exchange of views among the five delegations, and on Thursday morning each of the chief delegates will make a general statement of his country's naval needs. Prime Minister MacDonald, Secretary Stimson, Premier Tardieu, Foreign Minister Grandi and former Premier Wakatsuki will speak.

Returning to Buckingham Palace from Sandringham, King George today entered his share of the conference activity. After a great welcome from the people of London, his majesty received the delegates at the palace.

Mr. MacDonald introduced each visiting delegate to the king, who chatted informally with the visitors and expressed to each delegation his hopes for a successful termination of the great work to be launched tomorrow.

King's Appearance Informal.

On no similar important occasion in history has a British monarch planned such an informal journey to the houses of Parliament as King George will make dressed in ordinary morning attire and leaving aside the usual pageantry of a royal trip to Westminster. He will drive in an ordinary limousine to open the momentous meeting. There will not be a single soldier along the route from Buckingham Palace by Birdcage Walk and Parliament Square to the entrance of the House of Lords.

Usually, on such occasions, every foot of the route is lined with troops. The honor of maintaining order goes entirely to the bluecoated bobbies of the metropolitan police force.

There has been much speculation in conference circles about the length of time necessary to wind up the business.

Premier Tardieu is reported to think that the conference will mark time for the first ten or twelve days, but that afterward the general progress will be rapid. He is not one of those who feel the conference may last for three months. He hopes for results within a much shorter period.

Will Meet Grandi Today.

The French premier expects to meet Foreign Minister Grandi, of Italy, tomorrow afternoon, when it seems likely there will be an exchange of views on Franco-Italian problems, and perhaps also on the possibility of negotiating a general Mediterranean pact of nonaggression and mutual guarantees.

The following official report on this morning's meeting of the naval delegates at No. 10 Downing street was issued by the foreign office this afternoon.

"At an informal meeting at No. 10 Downing street this morning, at which all of the principal delegates to the London Naval Conference were present, the procedure for the conference was discussed and the following proposals unanimously adopted:

Procedure Is Outlined.

"(1) That the prime minister of the United Kingdom should be elected chairman of the conference at the opening plenary meeting on Tuesday, January 21, and that on completion of the speeches there the conference be adjourned until 10 a. m., Thursday, the 23d of January, when it would reassemble at St. James' Palace. Wednesday would be devoted to consultations between the various delegations.

"(2) The agenda for the meeting on the 23d of January should consist of (a) appointment of the secretary-general to the conference and a committee consisting of all the delegates to carry out the main work of the conference, and (b) a general statement by the heads of the delegations of the needs of their countries."

The government dinner tonight was an elaborate menu with a list of wines including vintages going back to American Civil War times.

Mr. MacDonald sounded the keynote of the preconference conversations among the delegates. "We have been hard at work all today," he said. "If the delegates behave during the next six weeks—shall I say, M. Tardieu?—or two months—shall I say, Mr. Stimson?—as you have all behaved today, it will be the happiest, most harmonious and most pleasant six weeks I have ever spent in my life.

Patience Is Needed, He Says.

"I know, however, we will have our difficulties. One thing people all want, as well as delegates, is patience. Fortunately, all delegates here have two treasures in common. One is the faculty of patience and the other is great experience in public affairs."

In the course of his tribute to the American leaders, Mr. MacDonald said: "During the last few months of my own personal contact with him, Mr. Stimson has revealed to me his charming sincerity in everything he says and believes in, and his single-minded devotion to the cause of peace."

The British prime minister seemed in high spirits on the eve of plunging into sea power problems and delivered his welcome with great eloquence. Premier Andre Tardieu, of France, he said, was responsible for the large measure of success which had just been achieved at The Hague conference. Prolonged applause accompanied his mention of the name of Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, in connection with that of M. Tardieu. "M. Briand is doyen, the father, of international conferences," said Mr. MacDonald.

Italian Secretary Is Praised.

With regard to Foreign Secretary Dino Grandi, of Italy, Mr. MacDonald said: "Whatever he has put his hand to has been successful. He has borne the burdens of many offices with youthful buoyance."

Reijiro Makatauki, leader of the Japanese delegation, was said by Mr. MacDonald to have devoted himself loyally to Japan and with equal loyalty to the peace of the world.

Guests at the banquet numbered 500, including the wives of American and other delegates. This first social function of the conference was in keeping with the informality of negotiations thus far. No uniforms were worn and the guests were not seated by delegations but were scattered about the various long tables.

Even the speaker of the House of Commons, who is one of the ranking commoners of Great Britain, occupied an inconspicuous position away from the head table. Premier MacDonald sat between Mr. Stimson and M. Tardieu. His daughter, Ishbel, sat between a Japanese delegate and Ambassador Gibson.

Nations' Rulers Are Toasted.

The prime minister began the formalities by proposing a toast to his majesty, the king. He followed it with toasts to the President of the United States, the President of France, the King of Italy, and the Emperor of Japan. The drinking of each was accompanied by the playing of the national anthem of the toasted country.

Talks with various delegates after the reception indicated that the speeches of Mr. Stimson and Mr. MacDonald had made an excellent impression.

Several French representatives and some others especially remarked with satisfaction on the statement by the American Secretary of State that the special position of each country should be taken into account. The whole tenor of his speech was regarded as most favorable.

DEFINITIONS ARE ASKED

(Associated Press.)

Advocating that all categories of naval ships be defined clearly at the conference opening in London today, Representative French (Republican), Idaho, urged in the House yesterday the abolition of the battleship from the navies of the world.

After a White House conference with President Hoover, the Idahoan addressed his colleagues for an hour. Significance was attached to his views by many because of his position as chairman of the subcommittee which handles appropriations for the Navy Department.

French said that if the London conference failed to attain definiteness in all categories of naval vessels and reasonable limitation in each category, the construction race between the powers would begin again on those ships on which there is no limitation.

Discussing the entire subject of armaments from an economic view, the Idahoan said the naval construction program of this country would amount to $2,000,000,000 within 15 years besides the $400,000,000 annually for maintenance and operation should the London parley fail. He advocated the scrapping off all vessels which had passed from the use for which they were built, and listed the battleship as the first which should be abandoned.

French contended the battleship was no longer the backbone of the fleet, saying the submarine and aircraft would make it necessary for these largest combat vessels to seek the safest harbors in the next war.

"Then from another standpoint," he continued, "56 nations have adopted the Kellogg peace pact in which we promise not to engage in an aggressive war. If that is so, and the nations have faith in what they have done, then eliminate this one great expense type of ship—a ship whose greatest use ought to be and will be in attacking another ship of the same type."

The Idaho representative made plain, however, that he would oppose the United States scrapping the battleship unless other nations agreed to do likewise.

Although deploring that the Washington arms conference had failed to reach a definiteness in all categories with a result that the powers had built more cruisers, French said it had saved the United States $250,000,000 annually in construction costs. The cruisers were not needed, he said, but were built because Great Britain thought she needed them and the other countries felt they needed more ships of that class.

"This keeping up with the Jonses is the cause of this program," he said.

Women Peace Crusaders Ask Naval Parley Audience

ISHBEL MACDONALD, daughter of British premier, who aided her father in receiving delegates to the naval conference and their wives last night at brilliant governmental function.

American Group Linked With Foreigners in Movement.

London, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—Serious-faced Ishbel MacDonald stood beside her premier-father tonight to receive delegates to the naval conference and their wives at a glittering governmental reception at the eve of the conference opening.

Meanwhile organized bodies of women from America, Great Britain and Japan anxiously awaited answer to their petition for permission to send representatives to appear before the conference in the cause of peace.

The British women's peace crusade, representing eighteen organizations interested in world peace, has joined the American Conference on the Cause and Cure of War in asking the naval parley to receive their delegates. If granted the privilege, British and American women with two Japanese women leaders will present a joint petition asking actual reduction in naval armaments.

Mrs. Allen Parsons, of the Conference on the Cause and Cure of War, will arrive shortly with the two Japanese delegates. The British women are planning elaborate entertainment for these foreign peace crusaders.

The reception at Lancaster House tonight was the official opening of the social side of the conference. It gave delegates and experts their first opportunity to meet or renew acquaintance with the eldest daughter of Mr. MacDonald, who is his official hostess. Many of the American delegates met her durng her visit to the United States last October.

In these days before the meetings begin in St. James Palace clerical staffs of girls who do much of the work behind the scenes have been at the forefront of the news. British journalists have written at length and in detail concerning the slim red-headed girl in the pressroom of the American delegation who confronts them when they seek news of women's activities.

After the American contingent, the French have the largest group of feminine clerks. The Italian experts brought five girls to assist them. The tall and black-haired Signora Olivia Rosetti Agresse is the official interpreter of the delegation but can not attend conference sessions since no woman will be admitted either to the House of Lords or St. James Palace except in the press sections. Signora Agresse began her international work with the signing of the peace treaty, was attached to the League of Nations staff, and came to London by way of The Hague and Geneva meetings.

The Japanese are the only ones to have a completely masculine delegation at headquarters.

Lady Takarabe, wife of the Japanese minister of the navy, speaks no English, but that has not prevented her from having a thrilling time since arriving in London. She has even enjoyed London theaters although unable to understand a word spoken. She particularly enjoyed the antics of clowns and acrobats at a circus.

Although in Japan she is just plain Mrs. Takarabe, in England she is addressed everywhere as Lady Takarabe, for her husband was knighted by the British government several years ago.

Text of British Premier's Welcome to Navy Envoys

London, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The following is the text of the welcoming speech by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald at the government banquet tonight.

"The delegates have come not merely to attend the conference but, I am perfectly certain, to strive with heart and soul to make it a conspicuous success. We hope while they are in our midst they will all feel most comfortably at home.

"Those who have been abroad from time to time and have experienced the open-handed hospitality of the countries represented here will strive to do our best to show that it is not merely native hospitality that inspires us, but very pleasant memories of past experiences.

"I would like if tonight we could forget the conference altogether and say the words which Antony addressed to Cleopatra: 'Let us not confound the time with conference harsh.'

Work Hard All Day.

"I can report thus far that, although the conference only formally opens tomorrow, we have been hard at work the whole of today. If my colleagues at the conference, the chief delegates, behave during the next six weeks—shall I say, M. Tardieu?—or two months—shall I say, Mr. Stimson?—as you all behaved today, it will be the happiest, most harmonious and most pleasant six weeks or two months I ever spent in my life. I assure my colleagu in the House of Commons that if the naval conference is as pleasant in days to come as it has been the day before it opens, they are going to see very little of me.

"I know, however, that we are to have our difficulties. It is very easy for any of you to imagine the difficulties of our task. But we are to be inspired by something else as well, for if difficulties are apparent so are the great blessings to the world of a successful issue. We are going to have much work and, I hope, a little play, just a little. We shall not be hard taskmasters.

"I understand that some of the delegates, in spite of the finger which admonition has wagged at them, have come armed not only with memoranda supplied by their naval departments, but also with bags of golf clubs.

Patience Is Desired.

"There is one thing people all want, not merely delegates, but also the public, and that is patience. When I look around the delegations, when I remember whom I have met during the last two days, I know perfectly well there are two treasures they all have in common. One is the faculty of patience and the other is great experience in public affairs.

"When I cast my eyes round the delegates whom do I see? There is first of all M. Tardieu, prime minister of France, who is not quite recovered yet from his voyage from The Hague, but whose presence at The Hague, whose wonderful skill as a diplomatist, has contributed very largely to that most satisfactory result which has been reported this afternoon.

"With him he brings a very old personal friend of mine, M. Briand. He is held in friendship and respect by a large number of international diplomatists whom he has come across during the years of his long and successful career. M. Briand is doyen, father, of international conferences.

Grandi, of Italy, Lauded.

"Further on my left is Signor Grandi, representative of Italy. He has been engaged on many matters, financial and political, and I do not exaggerate in the least when I say that whatever Signor Grandi has put his hand to has been successful. On his brow I can see a leaf of the laurels of Locarno.

"To my right is Mr. Wakatsuki, representative of Japan. He had already taken up temporary abode with us when he was attache of the Japanese embassy in years gone by. He has been prime minister of Japan and I have heard he is the possessor of most wonderful political resources.

"There are also representatives of the dominions, all distinguished for conspicuous public service. I am not quite sure how far those representatives of dominions are hosts and how far they are guests.

New Success Predicted.

"The British Empire has done wonderful things in its time. It has done things which many men have united in declaring it never could succeed in doing what we are doing today, and we invite the attention of all constitutional students to our experiment. It is to combine in a great political unity of nations, free and independent and yet united by common allegiance in this apparent independence and disunity alongside organic unity and cooperation. I believe we shall contribute one more successful experiment for the enlightenment and guidance of the rest of the world.

"Up to now I have refrained from catching with my eye my friend, Mr. Stimson. I have done so for one reason only—that his name is associated with the toast (the toast of the delegates).

"Both in so far as his country and his own merits are concerned we welcome Mr. Stimson as the leader of the colleagues he has brought to help us in our task.

U. S. Peace Leader.

"The United States is far away, but the United States is near at hand—far away geographically, but nevertheless at our elbow every hour of the day. The United States has been leading every peace movement of modern times. They gave us the Washington conference. Their Secretary of State, acting with M. Briand, gave us the pact of Paris, while the President's words, personality and noble ideas—everything that goes to compose his being—have gone to supply the impulse in political movement and in idealism that has brought us here on his occasion to open the five-power naval conference.

"During the last few months of my own personal contact with him Mr. Stimson has revealed to me his charming sincerity in everything he says and believes in, and his single-minded devotion to the cause of peace.

"That is the theme, those are the delegates with whom we are going to work the next few weeks. I am sure you will rise with great alacrity and pleasure and drink to their health and to the success of the conference."

Gladys Parks Gets 25 Years in Deaths

Woman Hears Sentence in Coolness but Later Threatens Suicide.

Camden, N. J., Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The State Prison at Trenton tonight housed Gladys Hay Parks, who was sentenced today to spend the next 25 years of her life there for the death of two motherless children.

She was convicted by a jury late Saturday night of murder in the second degree for the death of Timothy Rogers, 2 years old, and of manslaughter for causing the death of his 4-year-old sister, Dorothy. This morning Supreme Court Justice Frank T. Lloyd imposed a sentence of 25 years for the death of the boy and 10 years for the killing of the girl, the terms to run concurrently.

The 35-year-old prisoner, into whose care the two children had been given after the death of their mother, listened calmly as the justice said he agreed with the verdicts given by the jury and then pronounced the penalty. But as she was led from the courtroom she stamped her feet, flung aside the helping hands of attendants as she was escorted to her cell and declared she never would serve out the sentence, but would commit suicide.

Favorable Report For Judge O'Toole

Senator Heflin Withdraws Request for Hearing on Nomination.

The nomination of Judge Mary O'Toole for another term on the Municipal Court bench was favorably reported yesterday by the Senate judiciary committee, and the Senate itself is expected to confirm the nomination at its next executive session.

The committee approved the nomination yesterday after Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama, had withdrawn a request for hearing on the nomination.

Heflin was under the impression that Judge O'Tole handled cases involving the commitment of girls to the House of the Good Shepherd. He said he had received a complaint from the family of a Protetsant girl who had been sent to that institution. He withdrew his request for a hearing when he learned that Judge O'Toole did not handle such cases.

Bloodless Knife Made for Surgery

(Associated Press.)

Development of a bloodless surgical knife said to be particularly effective in cancer operations was described here yesterday by L. J. Williams, director of patents of the Grigsby-Grunow Co., of Chicago, makers of radio sets, in testimony before the Senate interstate commerce committee.

The knife, he said, through the use of an electrical current generated by radio vacuum tubes, sears arteries as incisions are made and prevents flow of blood.

The device, he added, was developed by W. C. Grunow, vice president of the company, who made 200 for distribution among surgeons.

Results of operations, Mr. Williams said off the stand, have proved that in many cancer cases there has been no recurrence of the disease. When ordinary instruments are used he asserted, the disease usually is transmitted to other parts of the body through the blood stream.

SIX-YEAR PACT PLAN FINDS FRENCH FAVOR

Short Term Agreement Can Escape Geneva Conflict, Envoy Points Out.

DEFINITE OUTCOME AIM

London, Jan. 20 (N. Y. W. N. S.).—That a six-year naval limitation agreement, if negotiated at the five-power parley opening here tomorrow, would avoid conflict in authority between the London naval conference and the Geneva general disarmament committees is the opinion of leaders of the French delegation privately expressed today.

It is the French view that such an agreement would also obviate a clash within the present conference over battleships, as its short duration would make it possible to escape discussion of battleship strength now. It is further pointed out that it would give time for the latest naval development, such as that already shown in Germany by the construction of the Ersatz Preussen and other scientific changes to decide the fate of this type of fighting craft.

Other Advantages Noted.

French interest centers primarily in other advantages of a six-year agreement which affect France directly. From an important member of the French delegation I have the following line of argument:

France wants to come to a definite agreement at London, but wants that agreement to be in a form which won't interfere with discussions of general disarmament at Geneva. In 1921-22, when the Washington conference was held, the Geneva discussions had not started, so this difficulty did not present itself.

The Geneva discussions having started meanwhile, France, or, for that matter, any other member of the League of Nations, is not in a position to tie herself indefinitely to an agreement not subject to revision at Geneva when questions of limiting land and air forces are also settled there. A short-term agreement, however, which would not affect eventual limitation, could be made definite at London, and the French could sign it without any question of revision at Geneva arising.

Wants to Keep Program.

France would more readily accept such a six-year agreement, it is inferred, if it would permit her to keep on with her present construction program, as France by 1936, according to her present program, would have nine of the latest model cruisers, which are all she would build by that time in any event.

If at Geneva France were to agree to further cuts, along with other signers of a London agreement, there would be no question of the London agreement prejudicing such cuts, and therefore no reason not to make it definite.

Premier Andre Tardieu, after the preliminary program for the conference had been fixed, said the discussion of the political side to the conference was bound to be slow, as the consequences of each method of procedure had been considered and he did not expect "the hooks to sink in and the load to move" for ten or twelve days.

Asked whether the method of procedure by which each participant in the conference is to make a statement of naval needs on Thursday did not develop in the course of his talk with Secretary of State Stimson yesterday, the spokesman for France replied:

"It was unnecessary to convince Stimson of this, as he had the same idea."

dreadnaughts, whereas Italy could construct 175,000 tons of big dreadnaughts.

Originally Asked 250,000.

He adds: "Here we put the finger on the great error of the Washington conference which put us on the same footing as Italy for battleships, despite the possibilities for Germany contained in the treaty of Versailles and the possibilities of the rebirth of Germany."

M. Dumesnil recalls that at Washington France originally asked for 250,000 tons of battleships, and insists that experience has proved the wisdom of this request.

The French expert declares there is no possibility of building a modern French cruiser of 10,000 tons, armed merely with 8-inch guns, which could hope to rival the new German warship on the sea of battle. Hence the possibility of being driven to build bigger cruisers, which would be really small-sized battleships and which would use battleship tonnage, unless some other solution is found at London.

U. S. WOULD DELAY PARLEY DEMANDS

when they will lay their needs before the conference, the American headquarters tonight indicated that they anticipated nothing which might approach being a final demand.

The reported authoritative statement from Washington published in the London afternoon papers that the United States would accept a six-year battleship holiday, scrap eleven ships and thereafter reduce the size of the dreadnaughts below 25,000 tons was received without comment at the delegation headquarters. It was said that no information pertaining to this question had been received, but that during the coming meetings all possible grounds would receive the most thorough exploration.

Couple Fights Eviction From Apartment House

William F. O'Brien and Mary E. O'Brien filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court seeking to obtain an injunction to prevent directors of an apartment at 2540 Massachusetts avenue northwest from evicting them from their apartment. The building is said to be largely occupied by Army officers and their families.

Mr. O'Brien and his wife State that they purchased stock in the apartment house which permitted them to occupy an apartment, and that they are about to be evicted because he is not a commissioned officer of the Army. They state that they are willing to vacate if directors will reimburse them for their stock. Attorney R. E. Wellford appears for the couple.

ITALY IS CONFIDENT ON CONFERENCE EVE

Naval Parity With France to Be Chief Aim of Group From Quirinal.

SEA SUPPLY LANE CITED

London, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The Italian delegation to the naval conference on the eve of its opening expressed a greater confidence in its success than perhaps they had felt in earlier days.

They admitted the principal cause they would defend here was the right to naval parity with France.

They stated today that it was incorrect to assume that this parity is sought purely as a matter of prestige. They believe they are defending very material interests of their country.

Viewpoint of Italy.

The Italian viewpoint is that the respective strengths of the navies of the world as fixed in London are likely to be permanent or at least regulated for a considerable period of years. To accept anything less than parity with France would therefore bind them to a position of inferiority in the Mediterranean, where they look for the greater part of their supplies both in peace and war, they believe.

It is the Italian contention that the naval needs of a country can not be expressed in absolute terms, but that the strength required for security of any country is necessarily dependent on the strength of navies of other countries.

They claim that it is therefore impossible for the French to say "for our security we need so many tons of ships, while for Italy a lesser tonnage is sufficient," because this argument applied to other nations would lead to the conclusion that England requires a navy many times larger than the United States. Instead, these two nations have agreed on a basis of parity.

Supplies Problem Raised.

The Italian spokesmen dwelt again upon their claim that France has other means of obtaining needed supplies from abroad while Italy is solely dependent on keeping the Mediterranean open.

In addition to these practical considerations, however, prestige admittedly plays an important part in the Italian demand for parity. In London they feel that a kind of heirarchy of nations is being established which may quite possibly become permanent. Italy, they hold, is a rising nation which has made gigantic strides in the last few years and intends to make ever greater strides in the near future.

It is impossible for a nation under these conditions, they maintain, to resign itself for all time to taking second place in a sea which is practically its only means of communication with the outside world.

VICE CONSUL DENIED ALIMONY IMMUNITY

Supreme Court Declares U. S. Wife of Roumanian Can Sue in State Court.

CITIZENSHIP IS RETAINED

The immunity granted diplomats and consular agents, the Supreme Court held yesterday, does not extend to alimony due an American wife. Under the decision, in which the opinion was rendered by Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, presiding in the absence of Chief Justice Taft, John C. Popovici, Roumanian vice consul at Cleveland, Ohio, finds himself amenable to the Ohio courts in a divorce action brought by his wife, Helen, in which temporary alimony was granted.

To Popovici's questioning of the right of a State court to assume jurisdiction and his contention that in all cases affecting ambassadors, ministers and consuls the Supreme Court shall have jurisdiction, Justice Holmes said:

"It is true that there are objections to State intermeddling with the domestic relations of an official and subject of a foreign power. But, on the other hand, as seems likely, the wife was an American citizen, and probably so remained one, notwithstanding her marriage. Her position certainly is not less to be considered than her husband, and at all events these considerations are not for us. In the absence of any prohibition in the Constitution and laws of the United States, it is for the State to decide how far it will go."

The Supreme Court declined to grant reviews in nine cases and announced it would pas on two State laws. It will determine the validity of the Louisiana statute providing free text books to school children and the Georgia law assessing stockholders of State banks.

'Arctic Patrol' Flier To Return Here Today

Suffering from a badly frozen face, Hans Adamson, secretary to F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation, will return to Washington today by train from Wausau, Wis., where he has been snowbound in an open observation plane attached to the Arctic Patrol flight of the First Pursuit Group.

Other planes of the group, which landed at Spokane, Wash., their Western goal, Saturday, remained there yesterday. It was thought by Air Corps officers here that they would remain in Spokane until the transport planes carrying their mechanics and the radio plane joined them. They will then begin the return trip to Selfridge Field.

Secretary Stimson's Speech

leaves this conference feeling that his country has been coerced into an unfavorable agreement our chief purpose will not have been attained. A sense of injury will remain as a rankling sore to plague our mutual relations in future years.

"I think I can pledge you that the American delegation, sincerely endeavoring to carry out the lofty purposes of their chief, the President of the United States, will enter the conference in such a spirit of frankness and good will.

"We are honored that his majesty the king, whose hospitality we have enjoyed today and whose subjects from all parts of the British commonwealth of nations are represented at the conference, will open our deliberations.

"We also feel that we are most happy in the personality of the gentleman who is the chief delegtae of the nation which is our host—the Right Honorable Ramsay MacDonald. Mr. MacDonald upon his recent visit to the United States made a deep and lasting impression upon our countrymen. They were strongly attracted by his character. They followed his utterances with approval. To them he seemed the personification of international good will and of a lofty desire for peace on earth.

"His visit was neither intended to nor did in any way negotiate changes in the official relations of the countries. But my countrymen regard Mr. MacDonald's connection with this conference as an earnest of the good will which they hope will animate its councils.

"We feel that we have a fortunate augury also in our friendly and sympathetic relations with each of the other three nations represented here. The feelings of the average American citizen for France are flavored with an affection which dates back to the foundations of our Nation and which received a new and powerful impulse in our admiration for her gallant fight for human liberty in the great war.

"Our ties with Italy stretch between thousands of homes in either country and America has followed Italy's rapid growth in union and nationality during the past century with keen interest and admiration.

"Toward Japan we have not only a friendship and esteem based on long and intimate association since the earliest days of her intercourse with western nations, but also a high appreciation of her vital service to the world as a great stabilizing force in the Far East.

"Knowing these facts and sentiments as I do, I have no hesitation in pledging you the success of the coming conference. I feel confident that each of us in the spirit which I have referred to will join in a common effort to make of this meeting a great and notable landmark in humanity's progress toward that time when nations will dwell together in permanent confidence and amity and when all of their questions will be settled by the methods of justice and friendship and never by the arbitrament of force."

PROTEST MEETING CALLED AT SCHOOL

Pupils' Strike Is Deemed Proble Over Their Proposed Transfer.

EDUCATION BOARD IS HIT

Opposition of the Burroughs Citizens Association to a proposal of the Board of Education to transfer seventh and eighth grade pupils from the Burroughs School to the Langdon School developed last night into a call for an open meeting of protest January 30 at the Burroughs School.

With a strike among pupils at the Burroughs School called probabel if the matter is not settled satisfactorily, the announcement for this gathering was made at a meeting of a special fact-finding subcommittee last night.

All interested persons, and particularly the Board of Educatoion, are invited to attend.

A subcommittee returned a finding that the Board of Education had failed to provide ample school space in the section by not constructing a junior high school in an adopted five-year building program; that only sixteen classrooms had been provided in the Burroughs School with 24 classrooms in the Langdon School, although the number of pupils were about the same; that pupils would be forced to cross Rhode Island avenue as an arterial highway if the change was made; that it would be possible to accommodate all grades full time in the Burroughs School by use of supplemental rooms, and that the Board of Education has never acknowledged a resolution adopted by the association at its November meeting.

POLICEMAN ORDERED BEFORE TRIAL BOARD

form coat in place of the leather coat he wore when arrested. The discrepancy was noted because the leather coat was an item in the description broadcast by police headquarters through the department asking for the apprehension of Finley. Moeller readily admitted having been given the leather coat by Finley when questioned by Capt. William G. Stott, commander of the precinct, but declared he had no intention of doing anything improper and pointed out that the coat transaction charges were the first to be lodged against his service record of several years. He said he gave an old uniform coat to Finley.

Capt. Stott said that he had previously ordered Moeller to keep out of the cell block and had ordered the cell block keys kept by the station clerk, and that only specifically authorized members of the police force were to be admitted to the cell room. He recommended that Moeller be sent to trial for disobeying his orders.

Although Maj. Pratt refused to discuss the case beyond admitting he had ordered Moeller sent to trial, it is known that the police chief is determined to put an end to transfer of property either through purchase or gift from prisoners to policemen. Investigation of the escape several weeks ago of John Wilbur Hand from a cell in the Fifth Police Precinct Station disclosed the fact that Hand had been negotiating with several members of the Police Department to sell them his automobile while he was a prisoner. The chief of police was emphatic in expressing his disapproval of such transactions at that time, but the deal was not completed and no formal action was taken.

"Private Moeller had a good record, and I am sorry that it is necessary to send him before the Trial Board now, but policemen must realize that transactions between prisoners and policemen are not in good taste at any time, although the transaction itself might, under other circumstances and conditions be entirely proper," Maj. Pratt said. "Too often a prisoner is willing to make unusual and unfair sacrifices, and no policeman should take advantage of that circumstance."

TWO ARE GIVEN RANK OF MAJOR GENERAL

Brig. Gen. Hugh Drum and Col. John L. DeWitt Win Promotions.

HAVE VARIED CAREERS

Two important Army promotions were announced yesterday by President Hoover, Brig. Gen. Hugh Drum, commander of the First Division at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., is promoted to the rank of major general and appointed inspector general of the Army to succeed Maj. Gen. William C. Rivers, who retired last week. Col. John L. DeWitt, assistant commandant of the Army War College, likewise is elevated to the rank of major general and appointed quartermaster general of the Army to succeed Maj. Gen. B. F. Cheatham, whose four-year term expired Friday.

Gen. Drum, a native of Michigan, has been a member of the regular army since 1898, when he was appointed a second lieutenant, at Boston. After participating in numerous engagements during the Philippine Insurrection he returned to the United States in 1901, where he remained until he was sent again to the Philippines in 1902, at the time of the Moro uprising.

In 1906 he was promoted to a captaincy, and with that rank he served as assistant chief of staff to Maj. Gen. Frederick B. Funston, at Vera Cruz.

Sailed For France in 1917.

He sailed for France in May, 1917, and served for about a year at general headquarters of the A. E. F., with the operations section of the general staff. In July, 1918, he was made chief of staff of the First Army and served throughout the active operations at St. Mihiel and the Meuse-Argonne.

In 1923 Gen. Drum was assigned to duty with the War Department here, where he remained until 1926 when he was returned to New York.

Gen. Drum is the holder of many decorations, including the Belgian Commander of the Order of the Crown, French Commander of the Legion of Honor, Croix de Guerre with two palms, Commander of the Italian Order of the Crown, a silver star citation from the United States for gallantry in action in the Philippines, and the United States Distinguished Service Medal for his service in France.

Col. DeWitt Has Varied Career.

Col. DeWitt also received his first commission as a second lieutenant of infantry in 1898, being assigned to the Twentieth Infantry at Fort Leavenworth. He, too, saw service in the Philippines, and in 1900 he was promoted to first lieutenant. During his years of service he was at various times a member of the Infantry Equipment Board here, quartermaster at Newport News, an officer in the the Quartermaster Corps here, in the office of the chief of staff here, and chief of the coordinating section, First Army, in France during the World War, later becoming assistant chief of staff for supply of the First Army.

On February 15, 1927, Col. DeWitt was assigned to detached service with the State Department as technical assistant at the conference for the limitation and reduction of armaments at Geneva. On June 30, 1928, he was ordered to the Army War College here as assistant commandant. For his services in France he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.

MARYLAND CRASH VICTIM IDENTIFIED

"I have just returned from the scene of the crash. An inspection of the wreckage was made by J. G. Nall, of the Department of Commerce, and myself. We agreed there was no indication of any motor or mechanical trouble.

"I believe the plane was making a left-hand turn. Russell (Pilot Basil Russell), who apparently was at the control, hooked his left wing on the hillside. Weather reported Sunday showed a 1,200-foot ceiling forecast when the plane left Agua Caliente.

"What probably happened was that a sudden local squall came in from the ocean near San Clemente and struck the plane.

"In such circumstances, if a pilot is flying at 400 to 500 foot altitude, the storm will descend directly on top of the plane, forcing him to earth.

Board of Inquiry to Meet.

"It seems that Russell saw this storm and turned, trying to avoid it, but it struck him and threw him earthward. That is as far as we can get now.

"Tomorrow morning I will convene a board of inquiry made up of our company pilots. The meeting will be open to the press."

The analysis is strikingly similar to the story of the disaster of a T. A. T. plane of similar type, last September, when it crashed against Mount Taylor, N. Mex., while fleeing from a storm, and all aboard perished, five passengers and a crew of three.

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 20 (A.P.).—Mrs. Dora McMullen Chester today said the T. A. T.-Maddux plane which crashed near Oceanside last night, killing sixteen persons, was in flames before it struck the ground and exploded. The San Diego woman was an eyewitness to the crash. With her husband, Gordon Chester, and several others, she was returning from a visit to Los Angeles. Their automobile was opopsite the field in which the plane crashed.

Three, Guilty of Theft, Fined and Sentenced

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 20.—James Teets, Henry Kesecker and Walter Manor entered pleas of guilty to petty larceny when arraigned after they were arrested early this morning and found to have in their clothing half a cooked ham, a 3-pound roast, two bunches of celery, three grapefruit, 2 pounds of butter and a skeleton key fashioned from a shoe buttoner. They said they took the articles from refrigerators and back porches at night because they were hungry.

Police searched their rooms and found several dozen empty milk bottles, which police also believed were those reported stolen by residents here. The men were fined $30 each and sentenced to 60 days in jail.

Record Cold Sweeps Valley of Shenandoah

Harrisonburg, Va., Jan. 20.—The Shenandoah Valley shivered again today in record subzero temperatures, the official thermometer at the Dale Enterprise weather station recording 13 degrees below zero, 1 degree colder than the reading on Sunday. The temperature moderated during the day, rising above the freezing mark from the 1 degree below at sunrise this morning.

The last two days have been the coldest recorded consecutively at the Dale Enterprise station since 1916.

COURT HERE CALLED LAST RADIO RESORT

Highest Tribunal Concludes Hearing on Station WGY Abruptly.

PLEA MAY BE DISMISSED

(Associated Press.)

Abruptly terminating its hearing of the case of broadcasting station WGY, the Supreme Court yesterday indicated its opinion that the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia is the tribunal of last resort in cases brought to it from the Federal Radio Commission.

In view of this action, it was expected last night that the Supreme Court at an early date would dismiss the petition of the commission for a complete review of the case. This action would sustain the Court of Appeals in its ruling that WGY may use the frequency of 790 kilocycles without time limit.

Declaring it was unnecessary to hear counsel for the General Electric Co., owner of WGY, Schenectady, N. Y., Justice Holmes—who was presiding in the absence of Chief Justice Taft—halted the hearing after counsel for the commission had completed their arguments.

In the course of the hearing, members of the court restricted the commission's attorneys to arguing the question of the high court's jurisdiction in the case and disagreed with their contention that the District court's decision was a judicial action and as such subject to review.

Counsel for the commission indicated that no further court action would be taken in the WGY controversy.

3,200 FAMILIES SEEK RELIEF FROM FLOODS

St. Francis River Levees Are Broken for Tenth Time Within Week.

RED CROSS AID RUSHED

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The St. Francis River broke through its levees today for the tenth time in a week, releasing another sheet of water into the lowlands of its basin.

Approximately 1,200 families have been affected by the floods in southeast Missouri and eastern Arkansas, and the American Red Cross began relief work.

The latest break came in the dyke 18 miles southwest of Marked Tree, Ark. A crew worked frantically in freezing weather to choke the gap, but the skill of Government engineers availed nothing and the river poured through, inundating valuable timber and farm lands.

Water Spreads in Basin.

Released by five breaks near Bertig, Ark.; four near Kennett, Mo.; one on Big Lake, Arkansas, and one near Marked Tree, water from the St. Francis and Big Lake spread fanlike over the basin.

The Red Cross estimated that 500 families had been affected by the Missouri breaks, 500 by the Big Lake break and 200 by the Marked Tree crevasse. Some of the families were sheltered in box cars, others will receive National Guard tents from Little Rock while others went to homes of friends.

The reckless stayed in their own homes, although water was over the porches, and would not listen to pleas of Red Cross workers that they leave.

There was no extensive suffering and no food shortage. Fuel was needed by many families and their needs were being supplied.

Red Cross Supplies Boats.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The Midwestern branch of the American Red Cross tonight was notified that between 100 and 150 families were marooned by the floodwaters of the St. Francis River in the Big Lake district of Arkansas. They were without means of rescue, the Red Cross was told.

The Red Cross made arrangements for construction of six flat-bottom boats at Blytheville, Ark., to bring the families out and shipped outboard motors from here to power the craft.

"The situation steadily grew worse today," the Red Cross said, and a 2-foot rise is forecast by tomorrow night. The water is up to the eaves of some of the houses already. The families are from the rural districts of Mississippi County, Ark., and they are on the opposite side of the river from Blytheville. The reports to the local office were made by Walter Ower, disaster representative of the Red Cross, who was sent to Blytheville to direct relief operations.

Wabash Country Flooded.

Vincennes, Ind., Jan. 20 (A.P.).—Ray Sisson, justice of the peace at Decker, and two other men, today made another trip down White River in a powerful motorboat, to deliver supplies to approximately 100 flood victims marooned on the Orrville hills along the Wabash River, in southeastern Knox County.

A quantity of dynamite also was taken to blow a hole in the Brevort levee at that point to release water 7 feet deep which has piled up since the break in the White River levee several days ago. The flood water is about 30 inches higher than that in the Wabash River.

Mr. Sisson and his crew made their way down the swift waters of White River yesterday, the first persons to reach the Orrville community for nearly a week. People living in the lowlands had fled to the hills and were found living in the schoolhouse and homes on the highland.

No Loss of Life as Yet.

No loss of life had been reported, Mr. Sisson said. He reported some illness among the refugees on the Orrville hills and said that Dr. E. F. Small, of Decker, would be taken there tomorrow.

There are some refugees in Decker and Hazleton as well as other nearby towns, Mr. Sisson said, but all are receiving care.

Both Wabash and White Rivers continued to fall today.

Kennett, Mo., Jan. 20 (A.P.).—A ray of hope was seen in this flooded area today after reports from Holcomb that the rampaging St. Francis River had started to recede there.

Holcomb Is Inundated.

Holcomb, except for about 100 square feet in the center of the business district, was under water to a depth of from a few inches to several feet.

Business was suspended while merchants battled to save their goods. Many persons went about the streets in boats while others waded in boots.

All highways out of Holcomb were flooded. Many farmers drove their live stock into their homes which were on higher ground than farm buildings.

The Frisco Railroad announced it would provide box cars for the homeless.

Two thousand families in the flood areas along the White and Wabash Rivers in Indiana and Illinois have suffered as a consequence of the high waters, H. B. Williamson, director of relief operations for the Red Cross, has reported to national headquarters.

Nine hundred families have been forced to abandon their homes, Mr. Williamson said. The chief need is for food for the families and fodder for the stock. Snowfall continues. Cooperation of service airplanes has been requested to survey the territory, and it is not now possible to tell whether the snow covers land or flooded sections.

Prompt relief work of Red Cross chapters in the territories affected materially aided in lessening the suffering, Mr. Williamson said.

Every cooperation is being lent by the disaster relief staff of the national organization, it was said here, so that the relief work will be handled expeditiously.

transports. They also contain a general requirement that commanding officers enforce all laws and regulations and a specific requirement that they enforce the anticanteen law.

"While Army regulations were sufficient to secure compliance with existing prohibition laws, it was believed that they should contain a specific clause publishing the provisions of the act of May 18, 1917, establishing prohibition on military reservations with an appended reference to the national prohibition act. As a consequence, on October 16, 1929, Army regulations 600-10 were amended to provide for the foregoing."

WARRANT TANGLES DRY AGENTS' KILLING

Whether Document Allowed Raid at Night Argued by Officials.

ENTRY RIGHT IN DOUBT

West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 20 (A.P.).—A blood-stained search warrant took the center of the stage today in the investigation into the slaying of two dry agents here last Saturday night.

Whether the time element in the search warrant authorized the entry of the agents into the residence of George W. Moore was disputed by Federal officials and Moore's attorney.

The warrant found beside the body of Robert K. Moncure, one of the slain agents, bore the usual printed form day or night," but it was declared that after examination it was found the words "or night" had been stricken off with ink.

Document Thought for Day.

Robert E. Tuttle, prohibition administrator for the Ninth District, said the document was a day-time warrant, but he believed the agents were within their rights to search the Moore place. On the other hand, E. M. Baynes, attorney for Moore, asserted that the entry was made illegally after nightfall.

Police, who arrested Moore, following the shooting, said they were first summoned to the place at 6:17 o'clock Saturday night. The warrant was issued by United States Commissioner Earnst about 5 p .m.

The warrant was issued on information by Harold Burton Arnold, who said he had purchased a half case of liquor at the Moore home Saturday. Arnold was in jail today charged with possessing and transporting liquor.

Other Agent Faced Warrant.

County officers said today that F. R. Patterson, the other slain agent, had been served with a warrant some time ago charging him with assault and battery on E. Kuscher during a raid on a roadhouse near the Kuscher home.

Moore, who has been held in the county jail since the shooting, has made no statement.

Tuttle said today that so far as he knew no liquor was found in the Moore home Saturday night. County officers and police also did not know if any liquor had been found.

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Jan. 20.—Robert K. Moncure, Federal prohibition enforcement agent who lost his life at West Palm Beach, Fla., Saturday night while engaged in a liquor raid, was a native of Fredericksburg and lived here until he reached manhood. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Eustice Moncure and is survived by a sister, Mrs. H. K. Sweetser, and a brother, R. C. L. Moncure, both of this city.

Ortiz Rubio at Home.

WETS IN HOUSE PLAN RUM BILL HEARINGS

Liquor Bloc Will Set Up Unofficial Committee to Argue Measures.

ATTENTION IS CHIEF AIM

doubt its constitutionality. Just to have something to do, however, the committee asked Attorney General Mitchell for his opinion. Inasmuch as he sat with the National Law Enforcement Commission which advanced the proposal, he quite naturally thinks it constitutional.

While a lot of bitter talk will revolve around the bill placing prohibition detection in the Department of Justice, it is believed that in the end it will be passed, although there is a strong sentiment for placing the supervision of alcohol permits in the Department of Justice also. The Treasury would keep this under the pending bills.

Both Might Lose Out.

If the supervision should be transferred to the Department of Justice, and it is not at all unlikely that this will be done, then Commissioner Doran and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman might both lose out.

The House expenditures committee is to meet tomorrow to consider the transfer bill, and Chairman Williamson announced that Secretary Mellon and Attorney General Mitchell will be the first witnesses. The prevailing impression is that Mr. Mellon wishes the Department of Justice would take over the whole prohibition thing, alcohol permits and all.

Representative Black, of New York, was called down in the House for saying that Senator Brookhart and Commissioner Doran were "so light they couldn't enforce the law of gravity." He also referred to Senator Brookhart as "snooping to conquer."

Reference Is Withdrawn.

Representative Cramton, of Michigan, objected to his referring so unparliamentarily to a member of the upper house, and Mr. Black later withdrew his remarks from the record.

Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, introduced a resolution calling for a referendum on prohibition, to be taken in the next election and the result to serve as binding. It will never get anywhere except a hearing, possibly, before the unofficial wet committee. Mrs. Norton said, however, that before all of this additional money is to be poured out on the enforcement of prohibition that the people should be permitted to speak upon it.

Representative Sirovich, of New York, is making progress on his proposal that industrial alcohol be made unpalatable through the injection of emetics instead of poison. He went to the White House and got Mr. Hoover's ear on the proposal, and reported that the President appeared to be interested.

'YOLANDA' IS GIVEN CAPITAL PREMIERE

Beautiful Natalie Hall Is Given Praise for Fine Performance.

HIGH STANDARD IS SET

Washington operagoers at Poli's Theater last night enjoyed the double pleasure of welcoming the American Grand Opera Company on its annual visit to the Capital and hearing sung for the first time in this city the new grand opera "Yolanda of Cyprus," a lyric drama in four acts, the score by Clarence E. Loomis, composer, and the libretto by Cale Young Rice.

The representative audience also was pleased with the novel experience of hearing a complete grand opera sung without cuts of any kind in exactly two hours.

The American Grand Opera Company is under the general management of Vladimir Rossing and the local management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

Natalie Hall Scores Triumphant.

The star of the evening was that beautiful prima donna of the future, Natalie Hall, whose personal pulchritude was matched by the loveliness of a coloratura soprano richly endowed with gorgeous tone coloring and whose histrionic ability was most marked.

After a brief overture the orchestra, under the direction of Isaac Van Grove, rendered a good account of itself throughout the opera in an orchestration which sometimes subordinated the singers and at times was decidedly futuristic in composition.

The typical American Opera Company presentation, young singers, with fresh, appealing voices, trained in acting and enunciating the English words of the libretto with a clarity that was a real joy to the listeners was given to "Yolanda of Cyprus." It was apparent that the opera company is adhering to its announced program of having an ensemble of soloists capable at short notice of sustaining principal roles. Last night the ensemble was outstanding in its singing of its choruses for the most part a capella, that is without any accompaniment.

Miss Hall had several arias and numbers which were notable in the presentation. These solo parts gave the prima donna an opportunity to display her high notes to great advantage, her middle tones are not so distinctive, but they were adequate to last night's demand upon them.

High Standard of Excellence.

Charles Kullman, as Amaury, and Clifford Newdall, as Camarin, were not only rivals in love but for histrionic and vocal honors as well last night. The same high standard of vocal excellence one has come to expect from American Grand Opera Company singers was maintained by them with Clifford Newdall the most convincing, perhaps, as Camarin.

Miss Hall was supported for feminine leadership splendidly by Harriet Eells as Vitta Pisani. Miss Eells portrayed a musical gift of a high order.

Among others in the cast who lived up to the American Opera Company tradition was John Moncrieff, as King Renier; Mark Daniels, as the priest; Thomas Houston, as the Warden, and Walter Burke, as Tremitus, the physician.

The scenery, mounting and costuming was of special beauty.

Tonight the opera company will sing Puccini's "Madame Butterfly."

Joe Opportunity Says Roll Call for Participants in $20,000 Award Drive Will Aid in Getting Subscriptions From Friends and Well Wishers.

There was a scuffling, bumping sound in the corridor and shortly the figure of Old Man Opportunity appeared in the doorway of the city room. He was balanced awkwardly on a pair of snowshoes and his beard was tucked under his derby on either side to protect his ears from the cold outside.

"It's been another glorious day," he greeted the assembled staff, as he stepped from the rawhide thongs and threw the shoes out a convenient window. "No. That isn't wasting them," he remarked. "Remember, I am Opportunity himself, and I just knocked on the head of a guy down there who has been wanting to go showshoeing.

"Well, I've been visiting candidates in The Post's $20,000 Opportunity Campaign today," he said, brushing a couple of coats from a desk and making an "opportunity" for some dry cleaner. "Had to tell them that the campaign damager, pardon me, the campaign manager, would print the list of candidates in The Post within a very few days. Of course, this will let me get in a little fine work by letting people know who of their friends are entered in the race. Naturally, they will place their subscriptions with the candidates whom they know and run up thousands of votes with little effort upon the part of the contestant."

"How's the campaign going?" asked the inquiring reporter (there's one in every office).

"It's all coming," answered Joe. "Subscription after subscription, new candidate after new candidate. And I'm still knocking for more."

"Aren't new candidates at a disadvantage, Joe?"

"Not a bit of it. This campaign extends until April 5, and a man or woman who enters today has an equal chance with the person who entered a week ago. Of course, it takes a little extra energy to overcome a lead, and that's why I'm advising every one to get in now—right at the start of the contest.

"Who's got a cigarette? Thank you, my friend. That's one of the advantages of my position. I make it possible for you to buy cigarettes, so it is right that you should share with me.

"Well, I'll go get my bicycle and pedal around the town awhile. Got to remind a few people to send in their first subscriptions, so I can figure them in on that list.

"Auf Wiederschen, which in the Vulgarian tongue means put that in your pipe and smoke it."

Planes to Drop Bombs On South Africa Rebels

Johannesburg, South Africa, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The government is sending airplanes to bomb rebellious members of the Adjuzi Tribe, living in the Louis Trichard District in the wildest part of Northern Transvaal.

This section of the tribe recently rebelled against a new chief and fled to the mountains where pursuit is most difficult.

WITNESSES DEMAND PHILIPPINE FREEDOM

Hushings, Labor Chieftain, Says Emigration to U. S. Is Hurtful.

BINGHAM, HAWES CLASH

(Associated Press.)

Four appeals for independence of the Philippines were heard yesterday by the Senate territories committee as it resumed hearings on the bill by Senator King (Democrat), Utah, which would grant the Filipinos self-government.

The advocates were Chester H. Gray, of the American Farm Bureau Federation; A. M. Loomis, of the National Dairy Union; Fred Brenckman, of the National Grange, and W. C. Hushing, of the American Federation of Labor.

Saying that 80 per cent of the exports from the Philippines to the United States consisted of agricultural products which came into this country free of duty, the representatives of the farm organizations contended this was unfair to American agriculture.

Mr. Hushing read a number of resolutions adopted by the American Federation of Labor which favored independence, and added that this would limit the number of Filipinos coming to the United States. He said it was unfair to American workmen to permit unlimited emigration.

Several sharp exchanges occurred between Chairman Bingham, of the committee, and Senator Hawes (Democrat), Missouri, with the latter charging that "the chairman does not want independence for the Philippines at any time."

The committee adjourned after the hearing.

Mr. Gray, the only witness questioned at length, asserted that if independence were delayed another generation, it would be "delayed in perpetuity," on account of economic conditions.

"Penetrative Lubricity" MEANS

1. Freedom from Friction.
2. A "Carry-Over" Film by Metal Penetration.

TO lubricate, an oil must decrease friction between metal surfaces. A motor oil does this by separating the metal surfaces, and theoretically keeping them separated under all operating conditions. It may amaze you to know that many oils frequently fail to do this.

Think how this "separation" of moving parts is accomplished. The oil forms a wall or "film" between opposing surfaces . . . and it is upon this film that the reputation of every oil must rest. The film is thin, of course, for it must ride in the tight crevices of bearings, cylinder-walls, etc. . . . But it must also be of extraordinary strength . . . it must cling tenaciously . . . or the pressure of your motor will squeeze and hurl it from the vital points that must be kept separated.

Penetrative Lubricity . . The New Gauge of Motor Oil Merit

Penetrative lubricity is the outstanding characteristic of the new Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oils. This characteristic is the direct result of Germ-Processing.

You must know this story of Germ-Process.

Briefly, it is the patented result of 16 years' experimentation by the British scientists, Wells and Southcombe. Back in 1901, when everything of fundamental importance was known about the refining of mineral oils . . . these two scientists foresaw that additional improvements must be made, in order to keep lubricants abreast of the future development of the "gasoline buggy."

They knew that animal and vegetable oils were "oilier" than mineral oils could ever be, but were impractical for use in internal combustion motors which operated at high temperatures.

Finally the Germ-Essence, containing the "oily" property lacking in mineral oils, was isolated. And a method was devised for combining this essence with highly refined mineral oils.

Only Conoco Oils Are Germ-Processed . . This Gives Them Penetrative Lubricity

Continental Oil Company now owns the exclusive right to Germ-Processing for North America. Only with these new oils can you secure a fracture-proof film which actually penetrates the metal surfaces of your motor! What does this mean? . . . It means that the all-important film no longer may be hurled and squeezed from moving parts. The Germ-Essence carries the oil into every minute crevice . . . into the very metal itself. And there it clings — clings when the heat of high speeds seeks to scorch and drive it away . . . clings when bearings try to squeeze it out . . . clings, too, when you stop your motor. And this is most important . . . for the oils you are now using drain away as the motor stops, and require 5 to 15 minutes to resume their guard duty when you next tread on the starter. That's why 40% to 60% of your motor wear occurs in those first minutes of operation.

Save your motor by the use of this new oil. Introduce it to Conoco Germ-Processed oils today at the sign of the Red Triangle.

VIRGINIA EPISCOPAL BISHOP'S RITES HELD

54 Clergymen Take Part in Services for Dr. Tucker in Norfolk.

FREEMAN ALSO ATTENDS

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 20 (A.P.).—A large assembly of churchmen and laymen from all parts of Virginia and North Carolina gathered at old St. Paul's Church this afternoon to pay last tribute to the Right Rev. Beverly D. Tucker, D. D., Bishop of the Episcopal diocese of southern Virginia, who died in a Norfolk hospital Thursday night.

Fifty-four Episcopal clergymen, among them four visiting bishops and seven Negro ministers, participated in the funeral services, which, despite the presence of such an assemblage of the dignataries, were simple and brief. A large number of men and women from Richmond attended the services.

Attending the ceremony, too, were eight aged men who had worn the gray of the Confederate Army with him. This little group of veterans, one lone squad of them, gathered about him in his last hours. Eleven of his thirteen children also were present. Two sons, missionaries in China, were unable to attend.

The Right Rev. Arthur C. Thompson, who succeeds Bishop Tucker as head of the diocese of southern Virginia, assisted by Suffragan Bishop Arthur S. Lloyd, of New York, and the Rev. R. H. Covington, D. D., rector of the church, conducted the services. With them were the Right Rev. William Loyall Gravatt, Bishop of West Virginia; the Right Rev. Robert C. Jett, Bishop of southern Virginia, and the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington.

Immediately after the services the body was taken to the Washington steamer, to be carried to Washington tonight, and from Washington by rail tomorrow to Charles Town, W. Va., where it will be laid beside the body of Mrs. Tucker, who died several years ago.

One thousand dollars was voted to be used in building a connecting road between Culpeper and the Hoover fishing camp, which will shorten the distance from Washington to the camp by about 6 miles. Other moneys have been provided for this work and this amount was needed to complete the fund.

Harold G. Brown, the outgoing president, refused a fourth term after an unusual record of accomplishment.

WALKER IS REGARDED COMMISSION CHOICE

Was News Correspondent.

Later he became the chief of the Washington bureau of the Boston Herald, a post he held for ten years. During that time he was Washington correspondent for many papers scattered throughout the world, including newspapers in England, Hawaii, the Philippines and elsewhere.

He married Miss Romaine Mannix, daughter of Capt. D. Pratt Mannix, of the United States Marine Corps, whose family had resided in Washington many years. The old Mannix mansion still is standing on Missouri avenue. The Walkers have one son, Mannix Walker, and reside at 2112 S street northwest.

Pressure of his increasingly heavy personal affairs gradually forced Mr. Walker out of active newspaper work to devote his time to his growing real estate holdings out of which he has made a fortune. It is estimated that his purchases and improvements of properties added the better part of $3,000,000 to the District real estate assessment.

Since retiring from active newspaper work Mr. Walker has continued his writing and recently published a 760-page history of a section of Maine and is considering writing a history of the State of Maine, a task he has been asked to undertake by friends and admirers there.

Foiled by Moderation!
THE HEARTLESS SHADOW that threatens the modern figure

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*
By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion
Avoid the snags along the common-sense path to fitness and fashion. Don't let over-indulgence deprive you of the tantalizing contour of the modern figure. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately—when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the graceful, modern figure with its captivating curves.
Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.
"Coming events cast their shadows before"

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

THE NAVAL CONFERENCE.

All eyes are turned toward London, where the five leading naval powers will begin today their effort to reach an agreement to do away with competitive building. The heads of delegations have exchanged expressions of good will, and so far as personal contacts are concerned the conference opens in a favorable atmosphere.

In order to abolish competition the powers must agree to limitations upon their navies, and these limitations must be relative. All of the powers wish to economize, and it may be assumed that no one of them is in favor of competitive building, since all except the United States are hard pressed financially.

The power that can easily outstrip any competitor is the United States. But with the exception of occasional comments from British imperialists and Russian reds the foreign world is firmly convinced that the United States is not seeking domination of the seas. The United States is given credit for good faith in its cooperation for limitation of naval force.

The American delegation is handicapped in its effort to bring about limitation based upon the relativity of fleets because of the fact that the United States has nothing to sacrifice to that end. It has no superiority in battleships, cruisers or submarines, the scrapping of which would equalize the leading navies. Great Britain is stronger than America in cruisers, and France and Japan are stronger in submarines. There is no suggestion that any foreign power is willing to scrap a single ton of any category for the purpose of facilitating limitation and the abolition of competition.

Political considerations of an extremely complex nature are pressed before the conference by the French delegation. The fundamental thesis of the French government is that political agreements must precede naval agreements—that unless the security of each power is assured by political agreements the security maintained by naval force must be retained. France is in a very strong position in presenting this thesis. The only answer thus far made is by the British government, which suggests that the covenant of the League of Nations, the Locarno pacts and the Kellogg pact ought to reassure France that it is now possible to limit naval armament without endangering the nation's safety. But M. Briand, in accepting the invitation to London, expressed the opinion that the Kellogg pact did not guarantee security.

The cruiser question, and even the battleship question, is affected by Germany's wonderful accomplishment in building a vessel that possesses the characteristc of a battleship within the tonnage limit of a cruiser. The Ersatz Preussen has made the Washington treaty obsolete in some respects. As the conference continues it may develop that Germany's contribution to naval armament is of a revolutionary character. Certainly the 10,000-ton cruisers about which there is so much controversy would be no match for the German "pocket battleship," except in speed.

HEALTH OF AMERICANS.

Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming, of the Public Health Service, recently submitted to Congress vital statistics of the United States for the year 1928. The year was characterized by an outbreak of influenza, largely as a result of which the death rate showed an increase as compared with the preceding year. The birth rate decreased, as compared with 1927. The actual figures for births per 1,000 population were 20.7 in 1927 and 19.7 in 1928; for deaths, 11.4 in 1927 and 12.1 in 1928. During the year, 3,000 more cases of smallpox were reported than in the year preceding, and the number of cases of cerebrospinal meningitis reached a peak higher than in any year of the ten preceding. The death rate for typhoid fever, however, reached a new low, namely, 4.8 per 100,000, a rate that may be compared with 34 per 100,000 in 1900, and the tuberculosis death rate was the lowest ever recorded.

Generally speaking, the report proves that Americans are a healthy people, and that, at present, there is no danger of "race suicide." In 1927 the favorable balance between births and deaths was 9.3. In 1928 it had dropped to 7.6, but the drop was caused largely by epidemics that, experience proves, may be considered unusual. The fact that smallpox cases increased from 25,000 to 38,000 may well give rise to concern. Medical science is in general agreement to the effect that vaccination and revaccination afford a sure medium of control over smallpox. The fact that the disease is on the increase indicates a lack of cooperation on the part of the public—an unwillingness to accept a well-proved preventive.

The campaign against tuberculosis is being waged with great success. In 1900 the death rate from the white plague was more than 200 per 100,000 population, whereas in 1928 it had dropped to 77.5. While it is to be expected that improvement will be less rapid now that the rate has reached a low level, there is reason to hope that ultimately tuberculosis will be completely conquered.

ANOTHER AIR HORROR.

It was the irony of fate that the California airplane crash in which sixteen persons were killed should occur immediately after publication of the rosy report of the Department of Commerce on the subject of airplane casualties. The department found that in 1929 air transport planes flew 1,022,371 miles for every fatality, a record indicating that air travel is relatively safe.

The plane that crashed Sunday was owned and operated by the T. A. T.-Maddux Airlines. It had carried fourteen holiday-makers from Los Angeles to Agua Caliente, Mexico, and at 5:30 that evening it started on the return trip. The weather was not good. The pilot had been forced to a dangerously low altitude by fog, and the crash occurred when, to avoid an oncoming storm, an attempt was made to turn the plane back on its course toward San Diego. The left wing tip was driven into the ground; the wing itself crumpled and the plane crashed in flames. Fourteen passengers and the crew of two were killed, and their bodies were practically consumed in the blaze.

This is the second terrible tragedy that has befallen a T. A. T. plane. On September 4 last, the airliner City of San Francisco crashed on a mountain peak in New Mexico, carrying eight persons to their death.

Transcontinental Air Transport, of which Maddux Airlines is an operating division, was established by persons prominent in the field of aviation with the purpose of providing the American people a modern, safe, responsible medium for travel. The better part of a year was consumed in building an organization, establishing airways, designing and constructing equipment, and training a trustworthy personnel.

Why have these tragedies occurred? Is it that the airplane has not reached a state of development that justifies its utilization as a common carrier? Is it that T. A. T. officials, interested, naturally, in establishing a record for performance, order or permit their pilots to take to the air in the face of dangerous weather conditions?

A ROAD TO ALASKA.

A movement is under way for construction of a highway to Alaska. The House committee on roads has approved a measure authorizing appointment of a commission to meet with delegates from Canada and work out plans for the project. The proposed highway is of vital interest to the Canadian government as well as to the United States, since it would open up the expansive Yukon territory.

The War and Interior Departments, the government of Alaska, and many civic and commercial organizations are sponsoring the project. A satisfactory highway already connects Seattle with Hazelton, British Columbia. It is proposed to extend this road to Fairbanks, Alaska, by construction of approximately 800 miles of road in Canada and 250 miles in Alaska. The estimated cost of the highway is $12,000,000, but engineers believe that the Alaskan stretch could be built for $1,000,000 to $2,000,000. Army engineers familiar with the country that would be traversed believe that the road could be kept open all winter.

Construction of this highway would be of much importance to the United States. Alaska is an attractive scenic country, but its coasts, mountains, lakes and glaciers are not yet available to motoring tourists. The opening of a highway up the Pacific Coast would no doubt stimulate travel to Alaska and British Columbia. In view of the large areas of land that would be opened up to settlement, Canada also would reap material benefits. Both countries will doubtless regard this proposed Canadian-Alaskan highway as one of their big road-building projects of the not distant future.

PAYING BY CHECK.

Secretary Davis, of the Department of Labor, is advocating payment of wage earners by check instead of cash, to curb the growing evils of pay roll banditry. This is one form of crime than can be overcome by precautionary measures. As long as large sums of money are transported through the streets for pay roll purposes, desperate characters will continue to murder, rob and kidnap to gain possession of them. Companies which persist in this practice are unwittingly contributing to crime.

The special committee of the National Crime Commission which was assigned to study this problem recently reported that seventeen persons were murdered last year in connection with pay roll holdups. In addition, approximately 100 were shot or otherwise seriously injured, 9 were kidnapped, and large sums of money were stolen. Men who engage in this type of banditry usually do not hesitate to murder if it becomes necessary to carry out their plans. Elimination of pay roll robberies would result in a considerable reduction of crimes of violence without the necessity of employing a single new officer or further congestion in the courts.

Secretary Davis points out that there can be only one objection to payment of wages by means of checks. It occasions slight inconvenience to employes. Nevertheless many great commercial and industrial concerns have adopted the check method and found it satisfactory. It is a matter of custom. No one questions the security of his employer's check. As the custom becomes more general there is likely to be less objection to this method of payment. Mere convenience to workmen does not justify continuation of a practice which costs such a heavy toll in lives, injuries and loss of funds.

NATIONALITY OF WOMEN.

The campaign of women's organizations for equal rights in determining nationality are particularly interesting at this time because of the agitation against Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen as a member of the House of Representatives from Florida. When Mrs. Owen married a foreigner she forfeited her American citizenship under the law then in effect. But the Cable act of 1922 removed this discrimination against women citizens, and provided that a woman marrying a foreigner could, by naturalization, regain her previous status. Mrs. Owen was naturalized in 1925 and elected to the House in 1928. Her opponents are attempting to construe her election as a violation of that provision of the Constitution which requires that a member of the House shall have been a citizen for seven years.

The question of women's nationality is in such an involved status that Representative Cable is sponsoring a resolution which would authorize the President to call a conference of governments with a view to giving married women equal nationality rights with men. The laws of 25 countries now give women independent nationality, but the varying provisions of other national laws involve the question in a welter of confusion. The principle of equal nationality rights is supported by eminent international jurists, and the general tendency in all countries is to recognize the altered position of women.

It is proposed that the principle be clarified at the world conference on international law to be held at The Hague this year. But certain groups in this country, notably the National Woman's Party, are apprehensive lest a compromise will be made under which women will lose some of the rights they have already acquired. Whether the conference on international law will be able to handle the subject adequately is questionable, but some headway might be made if the American delegation should sponsor a multilateral treaty abolishing distinction as to sex in laws and practice relating to nationality.

Prospects for ironing out the wrinkles in this question in a single conference are not bright. The status of women in Europe and the Orient is still quite different from what it is in the Western Hemisphere. But there is only one position that the American delegation can consistently take, and that is a stand for independent nationality for women.

It is rumored that Doc Cook will be paroled March 5, about the time that Admiral Byrd will be pulling out of Antarctica.

MECHANICAL MUSIC

From the London Times.

Sir Hugh Allen, in his presidential address to the annual conference of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, had many hard words to say of the indiscriminate use of mechanical music. Most people of sensitive ear will echo his lament; for them the gramophone, the loud-speaker and the "talkie" have certainly added to the discomforts of life. They find, in Sir Hugh's words, the rivers, lakes, lanes, moors and woodlands made hideous in the summer time by this new form of torture; and, if they have a growing family, they are lucky to escape it even in the seclusion of their own homes. It is easy to sympathize with the musician's irritation, which most people have shared at one time or another. But there is another side to the question. The position with regard to music today, in view of the invention of cheap mechanical methods of reproduction, is not unlike that of literature since the discovery of cheap methods of printing. An amount of literary trash, badly printed on bad paper, is in circulation which compares with the output of the gramophone and the "talkie" of which Sir Hugh complains. But the art of cheap printing has enabled thousands, who would never otherwise have had the opportunity, to acquaint themselves with the literary treasures of their language. It has extended to the million what used to be the privilege of the few.

Is not that true of the mechanical reproduction of music today? Has it not done much to raise the general level of musical knowledge and musical taste as an offset against the widespread indulgence in bad music played on bad gramophones from bad records? In the report of the proceedings of the conference we find Mr. Dodds saying definitely that, though gramophone and wireless performances had made it harder for singers to make a living by concert work, their influence on the whole has been for good. Attendance at good concerts has certainly not fallen off since the invention of mechanical music. To hear a record of a great piece of music adequately rendered is to most people an incentive to hear it directly without the intervention of any mechanical device. Now that music can be heard by the turn of a screw, Sir Hugh Allen complains, many people wonder whether it is worth while to go through the drudgery of learning to play or to sing. But surely it is all to the good that so many unfortunate boys and girls who would never make musicians are now spared the misery of strumming five-finger exercises. The inventive genius of man has put into his hand powers which he has not yet learned to use with discrimination or with consideration for others. At times and in places the gramophone and the loud-speaker have become almost a public nuisance. But protests from musicians will be the more effective in proportion as they recognize the real debt that music owes to the machine.

IGNORANT.

He knew Latin and he knew Greek,
But the plumber who came to mend the tap
Thought him a strangely ignorant chap
Who couldn't fix faucets when they leak.

He stopped with a farmer once to chat
And he looked at straw and called it hay,
And the farmer said as he moved away:
"I'd certainly hate to be dumb as that."

All the ancient writers he could quote,
But sailors laughed when he went to sea,
And said: "What an ignorant fool is he
To call a splendid ship a boat!"

So in spite of the knowledge man has earned,
There is so much to this worldly scheme
That down to the last a fool he'll seem
To the man who knows what he hasn't learned.

The Big Jobs Never Are Entrusted to People Who Have Nothing Else to Do.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE most unfortunate of women is the one most envied by her sisters—the woman whose sex charm enabled her to marry well.

She is miserable because she has nothing to do.

She cannot enjoy idleness or find hobbies to make it endurable, as those do who have been long accustomed to wealth, and her inactive life results in ill health, burdensome fat and boredom.

Children might prove her salvation, but the soft idleness that makes her selfish and neurotic causes her to shudder at the thought of bearing children.

Thus Nature gives proof of her wisdom, denying children to this woman because they would be like her—worthless and unfit.

Is it a mere coincidence that the poor have many children and the rich few?

You know it isn't.

Nature moves in a mysterious way to perfect and preserve a species—strengthening the qualities needed for survival, weeding out the weaklings—and she denies children to the soft because their children would be unfit to survive.

Those who abominate children are prompted by a wise Nature that will not trust them with the destiny of a species.

There are exceptions, as there are in all of Nature's works, but it must be clear to the most casual observer that the privilege of preserving the race is entrusted to the poor and the hardy.

Is there virtue in adversity?

Compare the hardy weed that fights for the right to live and the hothouse flower that is killed by the first touch of frost.

Adversity makes character and moral fiber and fires the soul with ambition and inspires the sublime discontent that is the foundation of greatness.

The big men of this generation came up out of poverty.

Hoover, Coolidge, Edison, Ford, Lloyd George, MacDonald—statesmen, publishers, bankers, builders, artists—call the roll of the great and nine in ten answer from the homes of the poor.

The rich can succeed, but there is little incentive to labor if one now has enough.

Adversity and struggle are natural and essential, and those who grow soft in luxury are discarded to preserve the species.

The ease to which men aspire is their death warrant.

LONG-LIVED ANIMALS NOT NUMEROUS.

Current stories of long-lived animals, says the New York World, are discredited by Prof. A. D. Peacock, of University College, Dundee, Scotland, in a recent tabulation of the greatest recorded ages of all kinds of animals, made for the British publication, the Wonders of Animal Life, now being issued in London. For the elephant, usually supposed long to outlive man, the longest authentic record which Prof. Peacock has found is 70 years. The maximum attested age for a whale is 40 years.

Only four creatures are regularly apt to live longer than man. These are the giant tortoise, for which 150-year age is unquestionable, and 200 years a probability; the German carp, which may live for 150 years; the white-headed vulture, for one which bird there is a record of 118 years, and the eagle, which has an attested record of 104 years. Four other birds, the crow, the parrot, the raven and the eider duck of the Arctic, may live about as long as long-lived men or women, their maximum records being about 100 years each.

Two fish, the salmon and the shark, probably equal this record; and one variety of shell fish, the giant mussel, called Tridacna gigas. A sea anemone once lived in a zoological laboratory for 66 years. The insect record is held by a fire beetle found alive in a piece of wood which the insect must have entered 37 years before. Ant queens have been known to live for 13 years, but the longest-lived flea is 18 months. The record louse is 7 weeks, and the housefly, ignoring doubtful cases, lives only 34 days or less.

A toad is known to have lived for 36 years, an alligator for 40, and an eel for 60. The record for a goose is 57 years, and for a hen 30 years. Lions and tigers live only about 25 years, but at least one domestic cat lived to be 40. The record age for dogs is 35 years; a horse has lived to be 40 and a cow 25. The shortest of lives are among the insects, while the winged male of the insect called Stylops may live, Prof. Peacock states, for only 1 to 3 hours, although the female lives for several days.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Story of the Dream of a Chinese Emperor, Who Sent Ambassadors to Find a New-Born Holy One.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A letter in the London Times gives a chance for historical investigators to make a possible great discovery. It says:

"Sir: A Chinese scholar, who has made his special study the ancient history of this great country and requested me to explain to him the signification of our Western festival of Christmas, has written to me on the same subject, and says:—

"'It may interest you to know what is related in the annals of our empire of the time when your honoured Prophet was born. Our people believed in an all powerful Holy One. Our great emperor, Ming Tee, was informed, in a dream, that this Holy One had come down to earth, and was born, as a man child, somewhere in Western lands. Under the influence of his dream the emperor appointed ambassadors to go to the West and find the birthplace of the Holy One. As the ambassadors journeyed westward they met some priests of Buddahism who informed them that the Holy One had already appeared as man, and that they (the priests) were his messengers. So the ambassadors turned back, and brought the Buddhist priests to the court of the Emperor Ming Tee. This happened 500 years after the birth of Kon-fu-tze (Confucius), and about the time you calculate as the date of the birth of your honored Prophet.'"

Historic Relics in Alexandria Should Be Preserved—Carlyle House in Danger.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The restoration of the former Virginia boundary line of the District of Columbia looks good to me. This is so because, the City of Alexandria, standing within that line, the restoration and care of its precious colonial relics would fit in splendidly with the Government's program for the beautification of the National Capital.

I confess that at present moment I have especially in mind the old Carlyle House. Next to Mount Vernon, it is the historic reminder I like best in the vicinity of the Capital. George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, John Paul Jones, Lafayette, are in the list of the local and world-famed worthies who were guests beneath its roof. Indeed, in its day it was the center not only of social, but of political life in colonial Virginia.

Today it is shut off from the street by an apartment building through whose lobby it must be approached. Its old gardens are dilapidated, and there is the possibility that it may yet be destroyed by fire.

The cost of its restoration in a proper setting would be considerable, much more than Alexandria could afford for a long time to come. The restoration by the National Government would be a comparatively small item in the total cost of capitalne improvement.

Nothing can quite take the place of sentimental historic associations in the strengthening of the intangible bulwark of government which we call patriotism. And the sentimental value of the Carlyle House and other Alexandria relics, the preservation and proper display of which should be made certain, ought to have a great deal of influence in determining whether the restoration of the old town to the District should take place.

GUNSTON.

Believes There Are No Conscientious Reasons for Repeal of the Prohibition Amendment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the wide prohibition discussion now absorbing the interest of the American people there seems to be one paramount question, namely, Will the eighteenth amendment stand?

It is needless to say that there is more opposition to it now than at any time since 1920. Whether, if put before the American people at a coming election, it would stand or not remains to be seen.

It is regrettable that there are such large numbers of people in this country who want it repealed. However, it is my personal opinion that a majority of these objectors are not the so-called conscientious objectors, but those who merely exploit their views for self-entertainment. It is to such people that this letter is directed.

Violation of the eighteenth amendment is a violation of the laws of man and God and under no circumstances can there be offered any conscientious reasons why it should be repealed.

At this time, when there is such a sentiment for repeal, the defenders of justice and right must put up a more strenuous fight than ever.

PERCY GILLESPIE.

Down Again, Up Again, Ripped Again, the Streets Are Full of Furrows and Humps.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I pass along a bit of verse clipped from Saturday Night, Belfast, Ireland. Perhaps it will amuse and interest your readers, especially those, if such there be, who are in the employ of the District government. The verse follows:

THE KING'S HIGHWAY.

They took a little gravel and they took a little tar,
With various ingredients imported from afar.
They leveled it and hammered it and when they went away,
They said they had a surface that would last for many a day.

But presently they came along to lay a water main
And then they called in the workingmen to put it back again.
To run a local tramway line they took it up once more,
And then they tried to put it back just as it was before.

They laid a shallow conduit to run a telephone
And they put it back again as hard as any stone.
They took it up and laid a wire to feed the electric light,
And then they put it back again and said it was all right.

Oh, the road is full of furrows, there are patches everywhere;
You would like to ride upon it, but it's seldom that you'd dare.
It's a very handsome throughfare, a credit to the town;
They're always diggin' of it up or puttin' of it down!

YOUNG PLAN SIGNED AFTER FINAL DELAY

Protocol Containing Many Compromises Ends Long Reparations Debate.

NONE FULLY SATISFIED

The Hague, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The Young plan for World War reparations payments, regarded as finally removing the damage bills from the sphere of diplomacy to that of economics where creditor and debtor alike can cooperate, was formally adopted today.

The protocol giving effect to the successor of the Dawes plan was signed in the historic Binnenhof at 4:40 p. m. The many sided problem had resisted solution to the last and even the signing required postponement for six hours to enable an agreement on its Eastern reparations phase.

There are many compromises in the long and complicated document with its attendant annexes and agreements. No one could be found to say they were completely satisfied with it, but British Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden told the final session, "If nobody has had his own way, at least the result was generally satisfactory."

Compliments Germany.

Mr. Snowden added that the almost complete settlement of the Eastern reparations muddle was all the more creditable because the problem for ten years "defied the wisdom of the statesmen of Europe to solve it." He complimented the German delegation on the courageous, firm and fair attitude it had maintained throughout the conference and stressed the fact that "international problems are henceforth to be settled not between allies and enemies, but between comrades and friends."

"A wrong to one is a wrong to all. The interests of one country are the interests of all," he said.

There were revisions of the documents up to the last 15 minutes. It required a whole hour to sign the 22 separate agreements that compose the whole protocol.

Gilbert Is Spectator.

S. Parker Gilbert, the American who has served for years as the agent general for reparations with headquarters in Germany, was an interested and seemingly pleased spectator of the formality which abolished his job. He and his staff, the whole reparations commission and all control missions born of the Versailles treaty have no place under the Young plan.

They are replaced by the Bank for International Settlements the statutes of which were adopted, along with the charter and trust agreement made by the central banks of issue with the new international institution. The bank will be set up in Basel, Switzerland, and Germany will share in its direction with her creditors. The directors now will be named and as soon as they can meet the head of the bank will be chosen. It will be ready to function on payment of subscriptions to the capital and deposit of funds by Germany and the creditor powers as provided for in the plan. The names of five Americans have been submitted as candidates to head the institution and it may be that one of them will be chosen.

20 Months of Negotiations.

The Young plan has abolished war machinery for collecting reparations and has reduced the indebtedness of Germany from the almost astronomical figures of earlier claims to less than $9,000,000,000.

Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia attached reservations to their signature of the protocol which will be examined by the non-German reparations committee which will meet at once in Paris with M. Louis P. Loucheur, French minister of labor, presiding.

The agreement signed today represents 20 months of negotiations that began with the understanding reached at Geneva in September, 1928, between the late Gustav Stresemann and Aristide Briand.

The considerable concession made to Germany in total reparations expected from her is offset by agreement on her part to issue bonds as market conditions justify to cover the unconditional annuities of about 500,000,000 marks a year. The first slice of this serial loan will come to $300,000,000 and will be floated this year.

NORRIS CHALLENGED ON PARTY LOYALTY

with the Republican party and that party only."

Under the law the Secretary of State is the judge and the jury in determining whether a candidate is barred from running on any particular party ticket. Secretary of State George W. Marsh said he would notify all concerned and set a date for a hearing.

The protest caused surprise in the camps of both supporters and opponents of Senator Norris. Some said Mr. Clapp would be urged to withdraw his protest on the theory it would precipitate political rancor. W. M. Stebbins, State treasurer, who has also filed for the United States senatorial nomination, said he deplored the protest, adding that he preferred that the voters decide whether Senator Norris is a Republican.

(Associated Press.)

Commenting on an announcement from Lincoln that Willard Clapp had filed a protest against his certification as a candidate in the Nebraska senatorial primary, Senator Norris, (Republican), Nebraska, yesterday issued the following statement:

"I am not finding fault with Mr. Clapp for filing a protest. It's perfectly proper and I am anxious to have it decided.

"If officials of the State are going to decide that a man can't select his own political party then it's time I found it out. I've assumed I have a right to decide that question for myself.

"If I haven't the right, the quicker I know it the better. If my record in official life is such that on account of it I must be expelled from the Republican party then not only I but millions of other people want to know it."

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

WELL, now, there must be more to those W. C. T. U. cocktails of Mrs. Doran's than one thought; that is, if they were responsible for that audacious statement of Mr. Doran's inferentially attacking Senator Borah.

It is well known hereabouts that one occasionally comes across some of that stuff that comes in from the Maryland swamps and after two drinks or even a good whiff is fit to tackle a buzz saw. But Mr. Doran—why he even bites off more than that. The only thing in the world that saved Mr. Doran from being blown clean out through the ceiling yesterday was Senator Borah's devotion to the tariff which Mr. Hoover proposed but which Senator Borah took away from him.

This was the only thing that saved Mr. Doran yesterday. And he won't be saved long. He won't be saved long, at least, unless he issues so many more statements between now and the time the tariff is disposed of that Sunday's statement will have become lost in the shuffle.

* * * *

IT was most surprising, this statement of Mr. Doran's. He is a most mild-mannered fellow and through some inherent trait has managed to keep out of these prohibition storms. The gales have beaten about the heads of other men, thundering against their temples and receding to leave them gray-haired, if, indeed, with any hair at all.

But not Mr. Doran. He has often relieved himself of some statistical information and periodically made speeches to the drys telling them how wonderfully their cause is progressing, but he had a diplomatic way that never got him into trouble. His fellow prohibition enforcer, Mr. Lowman, is, on the other hand, always in it up to his neck, so much so that a good dull story is that Mr. Lowman is to get fired.

IT would appear now, though, that Mr. Doran has all the time been suffering from suppressed desires. It was not his nature, it would seem, to stay out of these fights. One recalls, indeed, that he is red-headed. He must have been itching for a fight all the time, and it was just his outerself that kept him quiet.

But why did Mr. Doran stick his head into a buzz saw right off the reel? Having been out of fighting practice for so long, it would seem to have been better had he begun on some lesser figure, some senators, say, who hasn't the vocabulary that Borah has?

No, he couldn't do this. It seems to be a complex of some men that when they go looking for trouble they pick out the biggest man in town.

* * * *

OF course, one appreciates just what Mr. Doran has been through. Senator Borah has been bullying him for a long time. Indeed, he seems to be the only one ever to have gotten under Mr. Doran's skin.

He has been muttering to himself and complaining about his lot ever since Senator Borah interrupted his Christmas holidays by saying that what was wrong with prohibition enforcement was its enforcement personnel from top to bottom. Mr. Doran said a few words back at the time.

But one can just see him Sunday bending his restraint, growling that he had stood it long enough; sitting idle and taking Senator Borah's charges when in Mr. Doran's mind it is the farmers whom the senator represents that are causing all the trouble with their sugar corn.

Regardless of how he comes out, one must admire his courage—and have more respect for Mrs. Doran's W. C. T. U. cocktails.

WAKEFIELD FUNDS GRANTED BY HOUSE

UNDER INTERIOR HEAD

Restoration of Wakefield, Va., to the approximate appearance it presented when George Washington was born there 198 years ago, was assured yesterday when the House passed the Swanson-Bland bill.

The bill now goes back to the Senate for concurrence in an amendment adopted by the House yesterday.

The amendment, which was offered by Representative Cramton (Republican), of Michigan, provides that the National Park Service of the Interior Department shall have jurisdiction over Wakefield after its restoration, and thus precludes any possibility that fees shall be charged as now is done at Mount Vernon.

$65,000 In Resolution.

Under the terms of the Swanson-Bland bill, the United States Government will contribute $65,000 toward the Wakefield project, $15,000 for the removal of a monument and $50,000 for the construction of a replica of the old Washington House and for the restoration of the garden and grounds.

However, this is only part of the sum that will be spent on the historic site. The Wakefield Memorial Association has purchased 100 acres of ground around Wakefield, and the Rockefeller Foundation has promised to turn over 200 additional acres.

The Rockefeller Foundation has entered into an agrement to contribute $115,000 toward the restoration of Wakefield, provided the Wakefield Memorial Association had raised a similar amount by January 7.

Rockefeller Offer Stands.

The association was depending on the bill passed by the House yesterday to bring its fund to the required sum, and when the House failed to pass the bill by January 7 it was feared that the Rockefeller contribution had been lost.

It is understood, however, that the association has received assurances from the Rockefellers that their offer still stands.

The House yesterday also adopted a Senate joint resolution designed to speed up the condemnation of land needed for the memorial boulevard connecting Mount Vernon with the Arlington Bridge. The resolution, which now goes to the White House for the President's signature, will permit the condemnation proceedings to be conducted under modern law.

U. S. Officials Spend $4,893 on Foreign Ships

Department of Commerce officials spent $4,893 traveling on foreign ships at Government expense during the fiscal year 1929 and $45,799 in travel expenses on American liners, a report to Congress revealed yesterday. Among the former the name of Assistant Secretary of Commerce Klein was listed.

The excuse of Mr. Klein, like that of many others, was that no American vessel was available at the time of departure. This was the first report in response to the Britten resolution.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; known by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Parliament Sits In London Today

Opening of Naval Parley Expected to Dwarf Session Slightly.

London, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The British Parliament will reassemble tomorrow after the Christmas recess and the experts confine their prophecies to the dictum that "anything may happen."

The simultaneous opening of the naval conference naturally overshadows the parliamentary proceedings somewhat and will largely deprive the House of Commons of the presence of Ramsay MacDonald, the prime minister.

To a large extent the future of the government depends on the attitude of the Liberals during detailed discussions of the coal mines bill, which caused a crisis before Christmas. Political opinion believes, however, that the first big crisis—if any—will come over the budget in April.

PARAGUAY WILL GIVE LEAGUE CLASH DATA

Signatories to Washington Protocol Also to Get Her Version.

BOLIVIA DENIES BLAME

Asuncion, Paraguay, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The Council of Ministers, after a long meeting with President Jose P. Guggiari, tonight resolved to send to the League of Nations and to neutrals, signatory to the Washington protocol, a complete account of the Paraguayan version of the recent clash at Isla Poi between Bolivian and Paraguan forces.

This morning the ministers of the United States, Brazil, Peru, Uruguay and Chile called at the foreign office to discuss the international aspects of the case. It was reported today from Isla Poi that the Paraguayans held the body of Bolivian Lance Corporal Fernandez, who was killed in the skirmish. A Paraguayan also died.

The exchange of shots lasted several hours, but it was believed there were no other casualties.

Bolivia Makes Statement.

La Paz, Bolivia, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The Bolivian foreign office today issued a communique blaming Paraguayan soldiers for the sanguinary clash Thursday on the Bolivian-Paraguayan border. It declared that fifteen Bolivian cavalrymen repulsed a force four times as large, losing one man. The communique says in part:

"Just at the moment negotiations were under way in Montevideo for the execution of the Washington protocol with a plan acceptable to both Bolivia and Paraguay, 60 Paraguayan soldiers, armed with machine guns, attacked on Thursday, January 16, an observation post near Fort Boqueron.

"The position was held successfully by fifteen Bolivian cavalrymen. The attackers were dispersed, but one of our soldiers, Private Fernandez, was killed."

Uruguay Offers Aid.

Shortly before, the Ministry of War also had issued a communique, stating that Bolivia is eager for the success of the Washington protocol for peaceful settlement of the Bolivian-Paraguayan boundary dispute.

"Despite the break in diplomatic relations with Paraguay, it is the wish of this government to do its utmost for the success of the Washington protocol," the war minister said. "However, it is obliged to send a note to Uruguay frankly contrasting this with the attitude of Paraguay, whose border forces on January 16 attacked a Bolivian observation post near Fort Boqueron."

Uruguay, one of the five countries that drew up the Washington protocol, has offered Bolivia and Paraguay its help in settling the Chaco-Boreal incidents.

FOX SPECULATIONS ARE ALLEGED IN SUIT

Film Magnate Charged With Using Corporation Funds in Wall Street.

HE DENIES ALLEGATIONS

New York, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—Charges that William Fox speculated in the stock market with funds of the Fox Film Corporation in a fruitless effort to raise money to meet obligations of the company and its affiliates, were contained in a suit filed in Federal court today for an equity receivership for the corporation. It was the second such suit to be filed in the last three days.

The plaintiff in today's suit was Mrs. Susie Dryden Kuser, of Somerset County, N. J., widow of Anthony R. Kuser, one of the original Fox backers, who died last November.

Unlike Ira M. Gast, of Rutherford, N. J., who filed a similar action Saturday on behalf of Class A—nonvoting—stockholders, Mrs. Kuser owns 11,- in her own right and controls 8,000 more as executrix of her husband's estate.

Charge of Negligence Made.

She charged that until the end of last October Mr. Fox carried a number of speculative accounts both in his own name and in those of his wife and relatives and that in connection with them he employed funds of the corporation.

From July until November, she asserted, he devoted practically all of his time to market, neglecting the Fox Film and allied companies, and when the market slump came the accounts sustained "gigantic losses." The funds were used without the "authority or due legal action of the board of directors" of either the Fox Film or Fox Theaters Corporation, she said.

"In that manner," the complaint alleged, "the said William Fox has foisted upon the corporation a loss of many hundreds of thousands of dollars."

Injunction Is Requested.

In November, 1927, Mrs. Kuser's complaint continued, through the action of "dummy and rubber stamp directors," Mr. Fox was voted an annual salary of $150,000 by Fox Theaters Corporation.

His salary in the case of the Fox Film Corporation was declared to be "the same amount as was received by one Zukor, the president of the Paramount Pictures Corporation"—$200,000.

Mrs. Kuser asks a permanent equity receiver and an injunction to restrain the corporation from employing any funds for the payment of Mr. Fox's salary.

DEAREST GENEVIEVE: Let me remind you to take your surplus books and magazines into the receiving office of the American Merchant Marine Library Association this week. "The men of the sea crave books to read, the weary hours to while away. Will you help to fill this crying need, and leave a book as you pass today?"

Most of the town is concerned with costumes for the Bal Boheme next Monday night at the Willard Hotel. This is the Arts Club's annual frolic, and is more fun than almost any other ball of the season.

Of course, you are going to the opera tonight. The American Opera Company gives the most enchanting presentations. Tonight is "Mme. Butterfly."

Make a Special Trip to See —the window at Underwood & Underwood's this week. Pictures of the most gorgeous children you ever put your eyes upon, fill the window. Such smiles and dancing eyes, dimples and curls! In their usual clever way, Underwood & Underwood have hung the important large portrait prints in the back of the window, with smaller sizes and styles of the same pictures, showing on the floor of the window. In this way, you are able to see at a glance what a variety of treatment is possible in the development of the same picture.

The photographers in Underwood & Underwood are especially apt with children, and have tremendous success with capturing the most fleeting expressions. The pictures referred to, on exhibition this week, are positively lifelike, and may be truly spoken of as speaking, laughing likenesses.

Always remember that you may order pictures at Underwood & Underwood's as low as $20 a dozen.

A Baby's Layette At Herron's

—seemed a trifle out of their usual line, but you never can tell quite what to expect in this attractive shop, up one flight at 1735 Connecticut avenue.

If you want to buy infants' things you will welcome with joy the opportunity to buy such exquisitely made little garments as these little flannel slips, batiste dresses, with real lace and footing. Opera Draws Small House At Premiere

Society Is Represented as "Yolanda" Opens Season Here.

By JEAN ELIOT.

"WELL, how do you like my opera?" asked Mrs. Joseph Leiter of Speaker Nicholas Longworth. That was in 1927, when the American Opera Company made its official debut in Washington, with Mr. Calvin Coolidge, then President of the United States, and Mrs. Coolidge in the audience. So did the rest of the brilliant and enthusiastic audience and Washington has liked it increasingly with each return engagement.

It is still "my opera" to Mrs. Leiter, who has been busily promoting the present engagement, which opened last evening at Poli's Theater with a glamorous production of the new lyric-drama, "Yolanda of Cyprus." She missed the first night, however, being involved with a dinner party, which lasted longer than had been expected while the opera closed earlier—10:20 o'clock, to be exact—than those familiar with the usual long drawn out opera performances might have expected.

Mrs. Hoover had been expected to attend, but sent a message early in the evening that she would not be able to be present.

A strange city, Washington, with scant enthusiasm for novelties. It is safe to prophesy that there will be a much bigger turn out for the American Opera Company's "Faust," which has been produced here twice before, and for such dear familiars as "Carmen" and "Mme. Butterfly" than there was for "Yolanda of Cyprus." Yet if the audience were smaller than this colorful, thrilling and rarely beautiful production warrented, it assayed high by qualitative analysis.

The Spanish Ambassador and Senora de Padilla were in one of the stage boxes, with Senora de Ferrara, wife of the Cuban Ambassador, the Misses Satrustegui, nieces of Senora de Padilla, who are guests at the embassy, and Signor Leonardo Vitetti, of the Italian Embassy. And down in the audience was Miss Rosa Padilla, daughter of Senor and Senora de Padilla, with a young cavalier.

Mr. and Mrs. John Philip Hill, in the next box, had with them one of their young daughters and several other guests. The dynamic Mrs. Hill, who was looking very charming in an eggshell satin gown, with long glittering diamond earrings, has been serving as vice chairman of the Washington committee for the opera, of which Mrs. Leiter is chairman.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Hurley were in one of the boxes on the other side of the house. She was wrapped most of the evening in a lovely cloak of ermine. Next was a box party including Representative and Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins and hard by Capt. and Mrs. John H. Gibbons were hosts to several guests in their box.

Mrs. Lawrence Townsend, who never misses a music event of importance, was in the audience, very decorative in a gown of some thin silvery material with a gracefully flaring skirt. Others glimpsed were Senora de Alfaro, Mrs. Frederick H. Gillett, Representative Florence P. Kahn, Mrs. Chandler Anderson, Mrs. Frederic A. Delano, Mrs. Tracy Dows, Mrs. Geneva Dunham, Mrs. John Hamilton, Mrs. Ralph Richards, Mrs. Walter Hulme, Miss Eloise Sargent, Miss Bess Davis Schreiner, Mrs. Abby Scott Baker, Mrs. Ralph Richards, Maj. George Oakley Totten, jr.; Mr. David Karrick, Mr. David Edward Finley and Mr. George Williams and Col. Wade Cooper.

The French Ambassador and Mme. Claudel were the guests in whose honor the Minister of Poland, Mr. Tytus Filipowicz, entertained at dinner last evening. There were sixteen guests, including the Minister of Jugoslavia, Dr. Leonide Pitamic; the Minister of Czechoslovakia, Dr. Ferdinand Veverka; the Counselor of the British Embassy, Mr. Ronald Campbell; Miss Mary Randolph, Mrs. Chauncey Depew, Mrs. William P. MacCracken, jr., and members of the legation staff.

The Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. van Royen are the guests in whose honor Mr. and Mrs. William Livingston Crounse will entertain at dinner this evening.

Mrs. Crounse will be at home on Wednesday, January 29.

Davis, wife of the Secretary of Labor, who will attend Saturday's show with her four little girls; Judge Mary O'Toole, Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart, Mrs. W. F. George and Mrs. William J. Harris.

Louw, will be the speaker at the fourth meeting of the season of the Huguenot Society of Washington, which will take place this evening at 8 o'clock in St. John's Parish Hall. If South bids a No Trump, how many Hearts would you bid, as West, at Auction? At Contract? What is the final Heart call in each game? Is South's opening bid sound? Can West make game at Hearts? What is North's best opening lead? What is an exit card? Get the answers to these questions, and learn some tactics that only super-experts can show you, by hearing this game. Comment by Mr. Work as usual.
A summary of the game will appear in this paper.

Ambassador Howard Over Radio Today

British Music to Precede World Good Will Talk; Bridge Game at 4:30; Shaw Play at Night; Post News on WOL.

Beginning a series of 55 weekly programs planned by the Columbia Broadcasting System for the furtherance of international good will, Sir Esme Howard, Ambassador of Great Britain and dean of the Washington Diplomatic Corps, will be heard at 7:45 o'clock tonight, over WMAL.

Sir Esme will speak from his study in the old British Embassy and will be introduced by William S. Paley, president of the Columbia System. The ambassador's talk will be preceded by 45 minutes of appropriate British music played by a large symphony orchestra, assisted by choral singers, instrumental ensemble, male chorus, and individual soloists. Most of the musical program was selected by Sir Esme. His taste runs to fifteenth and sixteenth century religious classics and to the old-time madrigals.

England and other foreign countries will be enabled to tune the program via the short wave transmitters W2XE, New York, and W3XAU, Philadelphia. The program will be heard on this continent through a hook-up of national and Canadian stations.

Cleveland, Denver, Philadelphia and Atlanta are represented in the radio bridge game to be broadcast at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, via WRC. The game will proceed under the direction of Milton C. Work, dealt in the following hands:

Henry P. Jaeger, South, the dealer, holds: Spades—A, K, 10; Hearts—9, 8, 6, 4; Diamonds—Q, 7, 2; Clubs—K, Q, 9.

Mrs. Lewis Todhunter, West, holds: Spades—4, 2; Hearts—A, K, Q, J, 10, 8; Diamonds—K, 10; Clubs—A, 6, 5.

Maj. Lewis W. Colfelt, North, holds: Spades—J, 7, 6, 5, 3; Hearts—7; Diamonds—6, 5, 3; Clubs—J, 10, 4, 2.

Mrs. Annie Adair Foster, East, holds: Spades—Q, 9, 8; Hearts—3, 2; Diamonds—A, J, 9, 8, 4; Clubs—8, 7, 3.

A summary of this game will appear exclusively in The Washington Post tomorrow morning.

Aspects of recent government activities will be considered by two skilled observers in the Voters' Service program to be broadcast from coast to coast, but not through WRC, at 7 o'clock tonight. Miss Belle Sherwin, of Cleveland and Washington, will interpret "New Trends in Government," and Richard Broeckel, of Washington, will talk about the "New Commissions," with which the present administration has tackled the problems of reorganization. These addresses may be heard over WEAF, New York; WGR, Buffalo; WWJ, Detroit, and WSAI, Cincinnati.

George Bernard Shaw's play, "How He Lied to Her Husband," will be presented at 8:30 o'clock over WRC and a National Broadcasting Co. network. This is the first Shaw play to be broadcast in America and is under the direction of Cecil Lewis, who is said to hold exclusive rights to produce radio adaptations of Shaw's plays through American broadcasting facilities.

The radio adaptation of "Through the Looking Glass," by Lewis Carroll, postponed from last Tuesday evening, will be the Eveready offering at 9 o'clock tonight. Marcella Shields will play Alice.

Where is the Federal Radio Commission's sense of humor? As a result of the hundreds of letters and telephone calls they have received asking information about Station KUKU (Cuckoo) they are going to request Raymond Knight, originator of this burlesque sketch, heard each Wednesday evening over Station WJZ and associated stations of the NBC network, to hunt up a new set of call letters. The commission's attitude is that this satire is confusing the public and annoying the commission.

The "Publix Radio-vue" from the Paramount Theater in Brooklyn will present Bradford Browne's Nit Wits, Harry Richman, Paul Small, tenor, and several others through WMAL at 11:30 o'clock. This program marks the initial appearance on the stage of any theater of Bradford Browne's "Nit Wits," so well known over the radio.

"Breakfast Brevities" from The Washington Post will be broadcast from WOL at 8:15 o'clock this morning.

Archbishop Michael J. Curley will talk about "The Retreat Movement of Catholic Men" in a broadcast through WOL at 8:15 o'clock tonight.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

LAMB AS YOU LIKE IT.

(Bureau of Home Economics, Department of Agriculture.)

It is economy to buy a leg or a shoulder of lamb for roasting although it may furnish more meat than is needed for one meal or even for two. Roast lamb is one of the best meats for slicing cold, and every left-over can be utilized in a spicy curry or in any one of a dozen other appetizing hot dishes. Bones and trimmings removed before cooking make excellent soups and jellies.

The flavor of lamb combines especially well with certain relishes and vegetables, as suggested in the following list. Green salads with tart and flavorful dressings also add color and zest to lamb menus.

Relishes—Mint sauce, mint jelly, currant jelly, guava jelly, spiced conserves and pickles, horseradish sauce.

Vegetables—Peas, onions, spinach, string beans, asparagus, turnips, cauliflower.

Salads—Lettuce with tart dressing, tomato, cucumber and lettuce, kumquat, endive and watercress, grape fruit and lettuce.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

If January 21 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:15 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10:15 a. m., and from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Occult and spiritual matters are favored on this date, and interesting experiments and unfoldments may be anticipated. Beware of those of the opposite sex, and be careful in whom you trust. Remember that every today well lived makes every yesterday a dream of happiness.

Children born on this January 21 will be disconsolate and inclined to be fretful. They will need healthy food and exercise for both mind and body. They should be clever in mechanics, engineering and drawing of plans.

That indefinable thing which is called "luck" will follow you throughout life. You appear to get on without any great effort—it is seldom that you have to hew from the hard rock. It is true that you recognize your opportunities, when they come your way, but there are few who can mold them to their liking with as little work and thought as you do. You intuitively do the right thing without much concentrated thought. If you stop to reason things out, you are lost.

You are not given to worrying, and you do not imagine difficulties which seldom become realities. Your philosophy of life resigns you to the inevitable. You are a person of sobriety, and virtue of the highest personal character. Your horoscope shows that your life will be quite free from money annoyances, and that you will not be always entirely dependent upon yourself. You will be fortunate in your friendships and will have very few enemies.

You are very affectionate and you are very free in its expression. You have a sympathetic and generous heart which throbs for any one in sorrow or trouble. There is very little selfishness in your make-up and you have the will power to make self-denials.

Successful people born January 21:

1—John C. Fremont, explorer and soldier, "The Pathfinder."

2—Horace Wells, physician.

3—John A. Bingham, jurist legislator.

6—Helen H. Gardner, author.

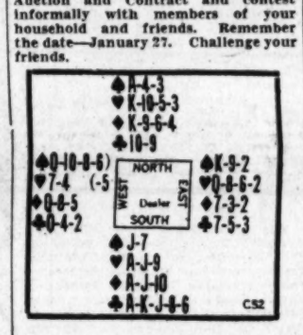
WORK'S BRIDGE

BRIDGERS.

Important Notice!

Beginning Monday, January 27, Mr. Milton C. Work, the international authority, will conduct in this department for two weeks a great Home Bridge Contest. You will find it of intense interest and wonderfully instructive. It will enable you to test and increase your knowledge of Auction and Contract and contest informally with members of your household and friends. Remember the date—January 27. Challenge your friends.



The above hand was played at Contract; South bid two No Trumps and North three. In Auction South's one No Trump would have been the final bid. In Contract, South might have started with two Clubs instead of two No Trumps. Doing so doubtless would have been more conservative, but the outcome would have been the same, as in that event North would have bid three No Trumps.

When the hand was played West led his fourth best Spade. The Declarer played small from dummy, hoping that the lead had been from King-Queen and that the Jack would take the trick. East's King, however, won and the suit was continued, North winning trick 3. North then led the Ten of Clubs, East played small, South ducked, West won and saved game by running his long Spades.

Declarer was heard to complain of his hard luck in finding the Queen of Clubs in the West instead of the East hand. Was the complaint justified?

The Correct Play.

Declarer, when leading to trick 4, knew that West had the two established Spades, so that allowing West to get the lead would cost game, although allowing East to do so would be harmless. Consequently finessing the Clubs was dangerous, but Heart and Diamond finesses could be lost to East and the game still be made by taking three tricks in each of those suits.

Consequently North should have led the Trey of Hearts to trick 4 and South should have won with the Ace, returning the Jack on which dummy would play small. East would win and lead a Club, which South should win with the Ace (a false card) and then lead the Ace and Jack of Diamonds, North finessing the latter if West did not cover. The Diamond finesse would win and Declarer would take one Spade, three Hearts, four Diamonds and two Clubs; but even if the Diamond finesse lost to East, Declarer still would have nine tricks and game.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Paris, Jan. 20.

EVEN though the front decolletage is now the mode, the fronts of garments do not receive a quarter of the attention from the designer that the backs do. Perhaps they think the front decolletage or jewelry is enough?

A perfectly plain back view is unknown in smartest society these days. Either the skirt or the blouse is draped or incrusted, or cut in some unusual way. For instance, there is Jenny's cunning little basque, which is slated to appear on the new models that will be shown within a few days. It's a little flare effect, which ends just above the hips, and usually is in the form of a piece of material sewn to the dress just below the shoulder blades. Occasionally, of course, it comes right from the shoulder seams and is really in the cut of the back of the dress.

Ties and whatnots hung down the back are not so smart, but jabot effects, yes. And boleros. Honestly, you wouldn't recognize a bolero upon its being pointed out to you these days, for it has assumed an air of mystery and importance.

And then from about the waistline on down one encounters a variety of things—perky bows placed bustle-like and trains we have already mentioned often—but odd drapings of materials concentrated at the back we have not mentioned.

Present to the world a smooth front and an artistic decolletage and an intriguing back, and you will be in the mode.

Somebody's going to get fooled, but we don't think it will be either you or your artist-writer. Because in showing you the lovely black taffeta evening gown, with its gray velvet flowers and black and gray velvet ribbon, we can't be other than showing you something very representative of the present evening mode. But to tell you which one of our delightful couturiers sent us the rough sketch of this to interpret for you in our inimitable way we can not—because, just to be human, we darn well lost his, her or its name.

But I think the dress is swell, so there. ('Nif I knew who designed it I probably wouldn't dare say that.)

The Couturier.

Yteb is an English couturier, in Paris, of course, and the name is pronounced "Eee-teb." There is a slight accent on the first syllable, but to play safe I would rather say there is no accent.

• • • •

They're having sales now all over the world—and it's just the time to pick up crepe georgette and crepe de chine and crepe satin, and put it aside for any underwear.

It's just the time, too, to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you so-o-o-o simply how to make a princess nightgown and a princess line combination, both gowns taking just two and three-quarters yards of material together. There will be one of these days when you will wish you had.

Wives of Tomorrow

Believe It or Not.

DEAR MISS McDONALD: I have been reading your advice to the woman who found a love letter in her husband's pocket and decided to write and tell you about my woes and see if you could help me in any way. I have been married ten years and have one child, 8 years of age, and our married life has not been all I would desire. My husband when he gets angry uses only ungentlemanly language, and when I speak to him about it he tells me if I don't like it I know what I can do. One day I came across a letter he had received and it was headed "Dear Daddy" and signed "With love," and a girl's name. I am not supposed to know anything about this at all. I am not one who goes through my husband's pockets looking for letters, &c., but accidentally found this, and it has got me quite upset. I have been faithful to him all through marriage. I have not said anything about seeing this letter, so what would you propose doing?

I will watch the paper closely for your reply.

Yours very truly, B. A. W.

You are wise enough to be doing just what we advised the other wife to do. If every husband who ever received a silly letter from a brainless woman were divorced forthwith the number of divorced men would be increased by about 75 per cent. Such things are not grounds for divorce, and in a more enlightened day will not be considered grounds even for slight dissension.

Most of the misery attendant upon the married state is due to woman's antiquated attitude toward man. When woman begins to be less morbid about her vested rights in the man of her choice, then marriage will begin to be more permanent and more enjoyable. At present the rarest of joys are spoiled by petty and groundless suspicions that poison life and write disaster. A bit of paper in a man's pocket and a home is set in upheaval. For what?

The very best rule any wife can adopt is the "laugh it off" code. If we could change men by howling, tears and threats, it might be worth the trouble, provided we would want them about once they were changed, which seems highly improbable. But we can not change them. If a man is the sort to welcome letters calling him "Daddy," then he is that sort of man, and what can you do about it? You can make him hate his home and hate you, and hate life, but you can not make him hate letters that call him daddy. In our opinion, it would be more reasonable to take a hint and start calling him daddy yourself. You would be astonished at the number of hard-headed business men who come at night to wives who have sense enough to call them "Big Boy" and other seeming idiocies. We all require release from routine, and the man who must be practical and hard-headed all day requires a change of role at night. Wise the wife who understands this fact, and acts accordingly.

Time was when any healthy woman could be a successful wife, but those good old days are all gone. Today it is an art and one worth acquiring if you have acquired a husband. Ignore the trash you find in your husband's pocket, whether chewing gum wrappers or letters that begin "Dear Daddy." They are about equally important in a man's life. Believe it or not!

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help all who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—Mrs. Bertha Reiner, 44, was granted an uncontested divorce today from Fritz Reiner, 41, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra.

The decree was issued on grounds of extreme cruelty and gross neglect. The Reiners were married in Berlin in 1921.

With NELSON B. BELL

ON the assumption that there may be others in the audiences packing the RKO-Keith Theater, to enjoy the rollicking fun and melodious interruptions of "Hit the Deck," who know no more about her than I did, it may be well to explain that Polly Walker, cofeatured with Jack Oakie, former "Follies" prima donna and Broadway's Cinderella, was cursed with unusually tough luck prior to her arrival at her present position of eminence in the amusement world.

She was born in Chicago while her parents were touring the country with the "Scotch Pipers." Three years later Polly had to start earning a living, for her father was shot dead by a drunken man in front of the Robinson Circus tent in a Georgia town. The mother took up stenographic work and when able placed Polly on the stage. Then the period of education intervened and the struggle for livelihood increased.

This condition lasted throughout her young womanhood; until, in fact, she went to New York. Even then producers could not "see" her. She lacked S. A.—if you know what I mean—so they said. Her first role of any consequence, which, by the way, paid little, was in a sterling bit of dramaturgy significantly known as, "Her First False Step." Then along came a road engagement that gave her a lead in "Good Morning, Dearie." That was the beginning that led later to "No Foolin'," "Billie," "The Palm Beach Girl," the Ziegfeld "Follies," "The Merry Malones" and others.

Under the circumstances, it was inevitable that the audible screen should have beckoned—persistently enough to be heeded. In silent pictures I doubt if Miss Walker would have got very far, but with that voice——

In watching Wesley Eddy swing the baton in front of the Palace Syncopators Sunday I was impressed with the fact that he has picked up a large number of new digital tricks that add vast polish to his work as a conductor. They may not mean a thing to the men in the orchestra, but they certainly look swell from out front!

That "Voice of Hollywood" short-reel being shown at the Columbia, in which various screen luminaries pretend to be broadcasting from Station STAR, is an infinitely more entertaining subject than the popular "Screen Snapshots" which it supplants. Among those who come to mind offhand as appearing in the current issue are Don Alvarado, who acts as announcer, Betty Compson, Tom Mix, Ruth Roland, John Boles, Louise Fazenda, Mickey Daniels and Mary Foreman, who long ago outgrew the "Our Gang" comedies, Lupe Velez, Bebe Daniels and Weber and Fields.

Quite a side dish, if you ask me.

Luncheon at the Washington yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. Ned Holmes and dinner at the Willard last evening as guest of one of Washington's few perfect hosts gave rise to a reasonably firm conviction that it must be another Christmas, the last two weeks in August or somebody's birthday, or something.

Mr. Holmes rates a word in this citadel of the celluloids because, although he has momentarily returned to his first love, the "legitimate," as harbinger of Mr. O'Neil's "Strange Interlude," he was for many seasons of the movies and for five years past has made his home in Hollywood, where he has served in high executive capacities with more than one of the foremost producing companies.

It was he who put the Rocket boys' production of "Abraham Lincoln" on the right side of the ledger after they had squandered their roll trying to do the same thing themselves, the premiere presentation having been here at the then Crandall's Metropolitan—next door to the old Ford Theater in which the martyred President was shot—an enterprise in which I, too, had some small part. The premiere presentation, not the shooting.

Last evening's host, being, in a manner of speaking, a bit of a publicity man himself, abhors personal publicity, but still would rate a word in this department, would he permit it, because the two of us a few years back had a pet advertising project snuffed out because we were treading—and none too lightly—on the pet toes of a national advertising agency that had the dog in the manger beaten a nautical mile for cussedness.

Two pleasant times were had by all!

Return of "Westerns" to popularity next year has been predicted by a number of leaders in the industry, who feel that the advent of outdoor sound will prove of benefit to this type of picture. It seems to be in the bag. We have already seen two excellent jobs in "In Old Arizona" and "Hell's Heroes" and Fox production plans embrace two more for early making—"The Oregon Trail" and Zane Gray's "The Last of the Duanes."

Having made the suggestion that I would not be surprised to see "Hit the Deck" run as long as "Rio Rita," at the RKO-Keith Theater, I have been interested to learn that the first three days' business shows the two attractions to have run practically neck and neck. After the count-up last night it was discovered that "Rio Rita" is leading "Hit the Deck" by exactly $1.60—less than four admissions at the top price of the scale.

That is the slender margin by which the Bebe Daniels' vehicle so far clings to the house record.

If you don't know yet what "Give Once for All" means, you will a week from today.

Fifth Ave. Fashions
NEW YORK

WEE maidens demand comfort as well as smartness, for most of their time is spent in play. Of course, they like to look pretty, but they must be comfortable.

The bloomer outfit illustrated is darling of the mode with its full flaring hem and grouped shirring at front forming a French yoke that regulates fullness at same time.

It's a favorite with busy mother too because it is so easily made and so easily laundered.

The back of dress is cut from neckline at center and finished for closing. The front and back are then joined at sides and shoulders. The front is gathered at neckline just about the shirring and it is ready for the round collar to be stitched at neckline and the sleeves sewed into the armholes.

The full cut bloomers are gathered into knee bands or may be made with elastic inserted through hem which is also for hem at waistline.

It is made of sturdy cotton broadcloth in pile green with white novel ring motifs with contrasting of white broadcloth.

Style No. 8155 comes in sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. In the 4-year size, 2⅞ yards of 32-inch material with ¼ yard of 32-inch contrasting, is all it takes to make the entire outfit.

LIKE CHICKEN GRAVY ON DUMPLINGS, FYREWELL ON FURNACE
JUST as golden chicken gravy adds the last touch to dumplings, so Fyrewell adds the last touch to your furnace's enjoyment of Reading furnace size hard coal.
Fyrewell is a specially prepared small size Reading Anthracite that sells at a low price.
Furnace has been the standard size for firing furnaces since houses first had such heating plants.
Used together they give uniform heat with less attention and at lower cost. In fact, the average cost of the combined sizes is so low that it's about what you would pay for smoky fuels, or for synthetic fuels that overheat you one minute and leave you to freeze the next.
And in the long run, counting all the costs of keeping warm, you'll find that the Reading Fyrewell-Furnace combination is the cheapest fuel you can use.
Ask your dealer to send you a supply of these sizes of Reading hard coal. He has them, or can get them quickly. Then enjoy better heat at lower cost.
Ask your coal merchant for a copy of the Reading "Economy" leaflet, showing you how to have better heat at lower cost. Or write us at Philadelphia.

OIL CONCERN'S LAW VIOLATION AFFIRMED

U. S. Court Holds 52 Firms Broke Trust Statute With Agreement.

INJUNCTION IS ISSUED

Chicago, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—Two judges of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals upheld their previous judgment today in declaring that the Standard Oil companies of Indiana and New Jersey, the Texas Corporation and 49 other oil companies violated the antitrust laws in pooling the processes for cracking gasoline.

A decree affirming a verdict of guilty pronounced in the lower court was issued and the court enjoined the companies permanently from further violations.

The injunction, however, and the decree were stayed pending an appeal to the Federal Supreme Court by the oil concerns.

Appellate Judges Evan A. Evans and George T. Page issued the decree. Sitting en banc with Judge A. B. Anderson as Federal district judges last June, they had reversed the finding of a master in chancery who had held the Government had not proved its case. Judge Anderson dissented at the time.

He since has retired from the bench.

If the Supreme Court upholds the verdict the companies must dissolve the agreements under which they shared the cracking process patents, agreements which the Government, in bringing suit five years ago, said constituted a monopoly in restraint of trade. The companies in defense had contended the patent pool was not prejudicial to the independent oil companies and by avoiding expensive patent litigation helped out the cost of gasoline.

Snooks' Counsel Seeks Appeal to U. S. Courts

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—Counsel for Dr. James H. Snook, deposed Ohio State University professor who is under sentence of death in the electric chair for the murder last June 13 of Miss Theora K. Hix, will ask Chief Justice Carrington T. Marshall, of the State Supreme Court, tomorrow to permit them to carry their appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

They said today that they were prepared to ask the chief justice to recognize the constitutional question involved in the case and permit them to have the case reviewed by the highest tribunal in the country. The attorneys claimed that Snook did not receive a fair trial.

How to Keep Well

CLAUDICATION.

It was midsummer, but on a wet and rather cool day, that a gentleman more than 70 years old, and previously in good health, developed an attack which some physicians called neuritis and other called muscular rheumatism. The cramp-like pains were in the legs. For several weeks both he and his physicians took the matter seriously. After awhile the pain became more tolerable and the intervals of ease became longer.

By this time the disorder had taken on the characteristics of a bad case of night cramps. Both he and his physicians accepted that view and the man and his family proceeded to adjust themselves accordingly. The cramps came on every night, but there was no pain during the day. They soon learned that heat was the sovereign remedy. An extra blanket was added to the bed covers. The wife laid in a supply of woolen pajamas for her husband. He began wearing warm night socks at night and an electric pad was kept on a table by the bed, all screwed up in the light socket and ready to work when it was placed in position and the switch was turned.

While this case has most of the earmarks of ordinary night leg cramps, it is in all probability a case of intermittent claudication. It had an acute onset which was incorrectly ascribed to neuritis and muscular rheumatism, just as the aftermath has been called leg cramps. This disorder is one of a group which has to do with the circular muscles in the smaller blood vessels and with the sympathetic nervous system. Presiding over the small blood vessel muscles is one of the duties of the sympathetic nervous system. In this group there are many disorders—some mild and some severe. The very mildest is that condition which so many people call "being cold natured." It is responsible for a tendency to have cold hands and cold feet. At the other end of the lane are certain kinds of gangrene and some other disorders that rank with them.

Physicians have known very little about the physiology and pathology of this group until lately, and, so far as practical relief of symptoms and cure is concerned, they do not know much now. In fact, I do not know what this gentleman could do other than what he is doing, considering all the factors in the case.

TALLOW FOR CRACKED SKIN.

Mrs. L. B. G. writes: To Mrs. T. K., whose husband, a lumber worker, is suffering from cracked skin on the fingers, I would say that if she would go to her meat market and get some clean mutton tallow, and try it out, and then use the hot mutton grease in the cracks on his hands, that he will get considerable help and possibly heal the cracks.

ED DUDLEY'S 71 TOPS $25,000 GOLF TOURNAMENT

15 OTHER CLUBS SHOULD HELP PAY RUTH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan. 20.—It is a pleasure to be generous with Col. Jake Ruppert's money and therefore I am strongly in favor of paying Babe Ruth his price of $235,000 for three seasons. It seems to me that Mr. Ruth has a large amount of arrears coming to him, not only from the Yankee firm, but from the stockholders of the other fifteen major league concerns, because it must be conceded that, more than Judge K. M. Landis, more than all the virtuous pronouncements of the magnates in their trouble and doubt, the Babe saved the baseball industry by diverting the press and customers from their suspicious meditations in the delicate time just following the corruption of the White Sox. It has always been an idea of mine that the chaps who took the wage of infamy in that case were condemned a little too thoroughly, because they were not very intelligent people and, unlike baseball magnates, did not have free and continuous access to the papers for the presentation of the grievances which mitigated, although they could not fully justify their venality.

Players Slaves to Owners.

Up to that time in the baseball industry the players were the most thoroughly peonized set of industrial employes in the United States. In all dealings with their employers they were compelled to take precisely what the magnates were pleased to offer and submit to fines and vindictive whimsies in the guise of discipline without recourse to any court of appeal.

After the dismissal of the guilty athletes the attorney for one of the defendants sent me a copy of the pay roll of the White Sox for the year in which they were everywhere acknowledged to be the greatest baseball club in the history of the game and, although I have not this document at hand, it is my recollection that the gross aggregate wages of the entire team was no more than the gross aggregate gate receipts of one well-ballyhooed week-end series with the runner-up in August. The players were never allowed to forget that even though their pictures looked out at them from a hundred sport pages, topped by terse encomiums and heroizing customers were eager to buy them beers at the corner saloons of mellow memory they were just employes working for a business firm and subject to dismissal on ten days' notice, without cause.

Advent of Landis Changes Plan.

The athletes were effectively forbidden to argue their complaints in the newspapers through the exercise of the industrial boycott which is peculiar to the baseball business and not to be duplicated in any other industry in the land, even now. The baseball writers, in season and out, made the firm's headquarters their headquarters, and were unmittingly seduced with hospitality, and so for a number of reasons the ball players' remarks in print were generally limited to discussions of his fast one, his preference to bats and his innocent amusements.

These conditions still prevail, but in considerably modified form. A sort of court has been established, with Judge Landis sitting, to which an athlete may appeal for relief from the more spiteful impositions, and they have been emboldened to talk back, as Ruth has been doing lately, in conflicts of opinion between themselves and their owners on matters of pay.

There has never been any real doubt that the magnates stimulated the official baseball about the time that Ruth came along and began to revive the industry by polling long hits out of bounds. Perhaps 30, or even 50 per cent of his home runs were woven into the ball at the factories as soon as the proprietors perceived how joyously the patrons were responding to the appeal of these tremendous knocks. But even so, it was the Babe who was hitting his 29 and 48 and finally 60 home runs a year and creating such a rumpus in print throughout the land that the late unpleasantness soon became a mere reminiscence.

Yankees Pay Bill, Others Share Spoils.

I do not know by what just clause in the very legalistic agreements which govern this department of the sport industry the proprietors of the other major league firms could be held to owe Mr. Ruth some money for reviving their business and drawing customers by the thousands to their ball parks over a number of years.

Union Admits Scholastic Players

Forney's Suspension Is Shortened; Favor Cincinnati Bouts.

HIGH SCHOOL and college basket ball players are eligible to compete in the District of Columbia Association A. A. U. championship basket ball tournament of The Washington Post, either as representatives of their institutions or of independent clubs, it was ruled last night by the Board of Managers of the District Association upon recommendation of the basket ball committee, headed by F. V. Thomson, of the Boys Club.

The Board of Managers, in order to enable scholastic players who would not represent their schools in the tournament owing to the limitation of ten men to a team, revised the eligibility clause of the tournament. This clause, which provided that players in the tournament must engage in at least one game with the team they will represent in the tourney and that at least one box score attesting the fact be published in The Washington Post, now reads:

Registration Only Requirement.

Resignations of all amateur athletes who desire to compete in The Washingotn Post Basket Ball Tournament must be in the hands of the Registration Committee by midnight January 31, 1930, at which time such applicant for registration must state what team he will represent in these District of Columbia championships and no change in such designation will be permitted thereafter until the close of the tournament."

Thus school players who warm the bench during their teams games will be permitted in the tournament only with the restriction that they declare themselves at registration before February with respect to which team they affiliate themselves with, thus causing all teams to be composed approximately six weeks before the tournament and barring teams gathered by ambitious managers on the eve of the start of play on March 10.

Business Five Again Defeats Gonzaga

For the second time this season Business High Court Team scored over Gonzaga's five, gaining a 21-to-9 verdict over the Purple yesterday in the Ninth street gymnasium.

Unlike the first meeting of the team, Coach Lynn F. Woodworth played his first team throughout the fray and never saw his charges threatened. In the first meeting, Business barely won out, 24 to 23, after starting the reserves.

Besides holding his opponent to one field goal, Spencer Chase, brilliant tap-off man for the Stenogs, led both teams in scoring, four foul tosses giving him a total of 8 points. Bobby Lucas, a teammate, scored more times from the floor, however, with three field goals marking his endeavors. The first half was especially slow, Business leading only 7 to 4 in the intermission period.

Robins' Hope Hinging on Wright

Ownership Row Not Likely to Effect Play of Club.

(This is the sixteenth of a series of stories dealing with 1930 major league prospects).

By BRIAN BELL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (A.P.)—Brooklyn has no manager under contract, but that is not interfering with plans for a bigger and better season in 1930. Contracts have gone forward to some two score players. The 66-year-old Wilbert Robinson, although not yet reelected either as president or manager, still is filling both posts to the satisfaction of 50 per cent of the owners.

Uncle Robby is enmeshed in the throes of a baseball civil war with the Ebbets interests standing solidly behind his administration and the McKeever half of the ownership anti-Robinson all the way from right field to third base.

President-Manager Robinson really has nothing to worry him, his friends say. If a compromise is reached by which a new president is named and Robinson reappointed manager, he will be happy on the bench. If no compromise can be found he can remain as president until a successor qualifies and in the meantime reappoint himself manager, dividing his time between the playing field and the office.

Robins Successful At Box Office.

Brooklyn, although it could finish no better than sixth in 1929, had a successful year at the box office. From a playing standpoint the season brought a series of nightmares. At the outset Glenn Wright, a great shortstop for Pittsburgh, pulled up with a lame arm which did not respond to treatment. The great Dazzy Vance, strikeout king and one of the game's great pitchers, was sick during a part of the campaign and won only one more game than he lost. Other players, too, were indisposed, including D'Arcy Flowers and Del Bissonette, capable infielders.

Wright's status will remain in doubt until he tries to throw at the Clearwater training camp. If his arm has regained its wizardry, the club probably will be made, for a good shortstop to team up with Bissonette. Eddie Moore and Wally Gilbert will provide a satisfactory infield. The outfield is good enough with Babe Herman, runner-up in the league batting race; Johnny Frederick, a youngster who made good in his first year; Harvey Hendrick, jack of all baseball trades, and Rube Bressler, veteran but still an effective batsman.

Lopez to Take Care Of Catching.

Alfonso Lopez, hard-hitting young catcher who has spent the last two years at Macon and Atlanta preparing for his major league duties, is reported ready and may do the bulk of the catching.

The pitching staff should be fair, even if none of the youngsters makes the grade. Vance, who will conduct extended negotiations before signing his contract; Clise Dudley, Wm. Ballou, Watson Clark, Doug McWeeny, Johnny Morrison and Ray Moss comprise the chief pitching assets.

G. U. Five Handicapped For Hopkins Tomorrow

With Walter Morris, flashy little forward, on the sidelines with a sprained ankle, Georgetown University Five will be handicapped in its game tomorrow night with Johns Hopkins at the Hilltop. Morris, already suffering a charley horse in his leg, sustained additional injury in the Temple contest last Friday night, and it is believed he will be out of competition for a week or ten days more.

Johns Hopkins does not figure to defeat Georgetown, judging from past performances, but should prove troublesome with Morris unable to play. Gene DeBuskey, stellar center of the Blue Jays, has rejoined his team after a short absence, during which Hopkins absorbed a terrific beating from Maryland.

Don Dutton, who plays any court position with equal effectiveness, probably will perform in Morris' forward berth tomorrow night, while Paul Dillon likely will substitute for Dillon at center.

Cartoonist Qualifies For Match Golf Play

Special to The Washington Post.

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 20.—H. T. Webster, noted cartoonist for The Post, qualified for match play in the second flight today in the third annual championship tournament of the Artists and Writers Golf Association. Turning in a card of 53—51—104, Webster earned the right to receive a handicap of 30 strokes for his match tomorrow against Maurice Collette, of New York.

Webster was strokes better than his fellow artist, Rube Goldberg, who won the booby prize with a handsome 140. Grantland Rice, president of the association, and defending champion, won the qualifying medal with 40—35—75.

Par Unbeaten On Heavy Course

Macdonald Smith Is Second With 72 for First Nine.

Horton Smith Ties With 8 for Fourth Place in Test.

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN.

AGUA CALIENTE, Lower California, Mexico, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—Blazing a trail through the first round of the world's richest golf tournament, Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., professional, today shot par 71 golf to place himself in a one-stroke lead over the field of 115 starters in the Agua Caliente $25,000 open tournament.

While Dudley was mixing brilliant golf with some rather mediocre play, to match his prowess against the treacherous course, MacDonald Smith, Long Island, N. Y., exponent of the great Scottish pastime, settled to the tedious and nerve-wracking grind to shoot a steady 72 for second place.

Only two strokes behind the leader came Harold Long, Denver, a "dark horse" entrant, and Al Watrous, Detroit, with 73's to their credit.

Nine others, including a pair of amateurs, climbed into fourth position by putting behind them the eighteen holes of play over the course made heavy by rains last night with cards of 74.

Dudley, in turning in his surprise score, displayed a dazzling brand of golf on the trying home nine to come in with a 34, two under standard figures, after covering the out nine in 37, two over par. He collected five birdies in his parade to the top, but had six bogies to counteract these best efforts.

Smith Battles With Par Figures.

Smith went out from the start to match the perfect figures of the course, going out one over par. He came back with the same cautious golf to equal 36. While his card showed only two birdies, he was over standard on only three holes.

In the fourth place tie came an array of those favored to make the strongest bid for the $10,000 first prize and nineteen other money places. Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo.; Al Espinosa, Chicago; Bobby Cruikshank, New York; Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, Calif.; Harry Cooper, Buffalo, N. Y.; Charles Guest, Los Angeles, and Ed Stokes, Denver, all had cards of 74 for their efforts.

Tied with them were two Simonpures, George Von Elm, Detroit, and Fay Coleman, Culver City, Calif. The nearest other amateur, Johnny Dawson, of Chicago, turned in a 78.

The course rose up to smother the efforts of a number of the outstanding golfers under an avalanche of strokes which pushed them far down the list. Gene Sarazen, New York, former open champion, shot a 75, while another former open champion, Johnny Farrell, St. Augustine, Fla., trailed with a 76.

Tied with Farrell were such experts as Leo Diegel, P. G. A. champion, and Denny Shute, young pro from Columbus, Ohio, who recently climbed to fame by winning the Los Angeles $10,000 open.

Walter Hagen Well Down List.

Walter Hagen, British open champion, finished well down the list with a 78. With him was Tony Manero, winner of the Catalina open tourney.

Cooper shot 27 holes of golf today, making a 36 on his second out nine for a 110 total. Tonight he was on his way back to Los Angeles, where tomorrow he will be married to Miss Emma Buchanon, of Los Angeles. The Buffalo pro will return with his bride Wednesday and play the remaining nine to catch up with the field.

Six players were eliminated today while a trio of others picked up after making a bad game of it on the first few holes. Those eliminated were Eddie Loos, Pasadena, Calif.; Herb Walters, Gary, Ind.; Werner Hoy, Los Angeles; Sam Gayer, Chicago; Jim Hines, New York, and Al Albrego, La Jolla, Calif.

The 50 low scorers and ties after tomorrow's round will continue in the final two days of 36-hole play.

WILDERMUTH FORCED OUT OF RACES

Injury Causes G. U. Ace to Withdraw From 6 Meets.

COACH JOHN D. O'REILLY has withdrawn the entry of Karl Wildermuth, Hilltop sprinting star, from six meets scheduled during the next five weeks, following the injury of Wildermuth last Saturday night at the Brooklyn College games in Brooklyn.

Wildermuth pulled a tendon in his right leg while running in the 100-yard dash of the Olympic spring series, and O'Reilly plans to keep the speedy youngster on a diet of rest in the hope of getting him into condition to compete in the I. C. 4-A indoor championship meet, scheduled March 1 in New York City. This meet is the most important of the intercollegiate indoor campaign.

The games from which Wildermuth's entry has been withdrawn are Prout Memorial, next Saturday at Boston; Millrose, February 8 at New York City; Meadowbrook, February 12 at Philadelphia; Crescent A. C. (Metropolitan A. A. U. championships) February 15 at New York City; national A. A. U. indoor senior championships February 22 at Atlantic City.

There is barely an outside chance that Wildermuth will be in condition to race in the A. A. U. senior championships at Atlantic City. He had hoped to regain the 60-yard crown which he lost to Jimmy Daley of Holy Cross last year, after having held it for two years in a row.

Bush Appoints Kelly, Spartanburg, as Aid

Chicago, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—Manager Donie Bush today selected Mike Bernard Kelly, erstwhile pilot of the Spartanburg, S. C., Club, of the Sally League, to help direct the baseball destinies of the White Sox in 1930.

Although his major league career was confined to a short workout with the St. Louis Cardinals as catcher, Kelly is considered as a smart coach and Bush looks to him to help the White Sox in the coming American League race.

Kelly succeeds "Big Ed" Walsh, former White Sox pitching star and coach, who is expected to confine his activities to scouting.

Bush refused to talk on the case of Arthur "The Great" Shires, fighting White Sox first baseman, today other than he expected Shires would be back at his former post when the training season started. Shires still is under suspension by the club and must be reinstated before contract terms are arranged.

G. U. BOXING DEBUT MAY BE LATER

Penn State Match for Saturday Is Not Assured.

MISUNDERSTANDING has arisen between Georgetown and Penn State which may result in delaying the debut of the Hilltop boxing team, which was to have opened its campaign in a match with the Nittany Lions Saturday at State College, Pa.

Word was received from Penn State authorities at Georgetown yesterday which stated the Lions understood the match with the Hilltop had been called off. Georgetown immediately wired the Pennsylvania institution that it desired to go through with the match.

While the exact date of the first match is in doubt, Georgetown's boxers are ready for competition. Those expected to bear the burden for the Blue and Gray are Joe Davis, bantamweight; Mike Tardugno, featherweight; Joe Madden, lightweight; Capt. Charles Fish, welterweight; Jack Tierney, middleweight; Leroy Bordeau, light-heavyweight, and Sam Corodovano, heavyweight.

Four Matches Definitely Scheduled.

Four matches have definitely been scheduled for the Hilltoppers and

Michigan Brands Carnegie Report Wild and "Vicious"

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 20 (A.P.).—Prof. Ralph W. Aigler, of the University of Michigan Law School, tonight told the university senate that "Bulletin 23" of the Carnegie Foundation was "wild, disappointing and disheartening" and "almost vicious."

The statements were contained in Prof. Aigler's annual report to the university faculty as chairman of the board in contrrol of athletics.

Prof. Aigler also is a member of the faculty committee of the Western Conference.

He charged the investigator for the foundation had employed "the methods of a prosecutor," rather than "an investigator" and that certain letters were removed from the files at the university by the investigator and not returned.

Answer Accusation For Michigan.

Direct charges against the University of Michigan were answered by Prof. Aigler. "The charge that athletes are subsidized at Michigan in the guise of 'writers' indicates that possibly there were a great many such cases," he said, "at least a plurality of them. Yet word from Dr. Savage (Dr. Howard Savage, author of Bulletin 23), is that this charge is based upon the fact that Mr. Friedman (Bennie Friedman, football star) wrote an article or articles for Youth's Companion and for some newspaper syndicate. Thus we find that the sweeping charge of subsidizing 'writers' is based upon what was done by one boy in his senior year."

Prof. Aigler said there was no charge that any alumnus or anyone connected with the university had any part in procuring Friedman's contract to write the articles.

Writing under present conference would make Friedman ineligible.

"One of the almost vicious things about the Carnegie bulletin," Prof. Aigler said, "is that in its indiscriminate use of the terms 'recruiting' and 'subsidizing' and its wild charges, all the weight of supposedly impartial scientific study has been put behind what heretofore has been merely the sensationalism of space writers. • • • Apparently it was not the intention of the investigator to do anything other than make out a case. Instead of manifesting the attitude of an impartial and scientific investigator searching for the truth, it seems to have been his intention to try to find something, as if he were a prosecutor or one engaged in writing a series of muck-raking articles, upon which to hang a series of charges."

In the Carnegie bulletin, Prof. Aigler said, "anything ranging from the earnings of an athlete-student, however honest the job might be, to outright athletic scholarships and barefaced financial payments are classified as subsidies and "no particular differentiation is made in condemnation."

Foundation Failed to Discriminate.

"Recruiting," he said, "covers anything from a coach making a speech to high school athletes • • • to practices ordinarily associated with fraternity or sorority rushing or simple kidnaping.

"One of the disappointing and disheartening things about the bulletin is this failure to discrimination between the various types of help and persuasion."

Discussing the severing of athletic relations with State University of Iowa by other members of the Western Conference, Prof. Aigler said the faculty committee of the conference found conditions at Iowa "almost shocking" whereas Dr. Savage "found very little to complain about." He declared this was "an interesting side light on the accuracy of the Carnegie report."

BORIS BEATS ODDS-ON CHOICE IN MIAMI FEATURE

Race Marred By Rough Riding

Boris Is Victim But Proves Much Best of Field.

Favorite Comes From Far Back to Finish in Second Place.

MIAMI RACE TRACK, Jan. 20 (A.P.)—The Harned Stable's Boris, under the popular rider, M. Knight, won the Coral Gables purse, which featured a very ordinary program here today. The Everglades Stable's Dunmore, odds-on favorite, was second and H. C. Fisher's Dail third.

The second week racing at the track was ushered in under more pleasant weather and track conditions. The racing strip was in fast condition and getting better every hour. The warm sunshine was the magnet that drew out a fairly good crowd for Monday. It was estimated that 3,500 persons were in the grounds when the bugle blew calling the horses to the post for the first race.

The Coral Gables purse, a gallop of a mile and a sixteenth, was full of thrills and incidentally there was much rough riding. Boris, the winner, was knocked about during the running, but he was so much the best that he overcame the rough work and taking command in the stretch drew out to win by a length and a half. Dunmore came from far back to take a place by a head over Dail. The time was 1:46.

Campanini Scores Again At Havana.

Havana Race Track, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—Campanini added another purse to the steadily increasing total of H. C. Hatch, the Canadian breeder, when the son of Campfire, ridden by R. Townrow, was a driving winner in the Botanical Gardens purse. H. W. Miller's Stampdale raced to place, with W. W. H. Cain's Eloise third. A field of five started, with Capanini always the ruling favorite. The event was the outstanding feature of today's card.

The start was good. Campini assumed command at once. Stampdale raced after him, while Eloise was third, Perfect Alibi bringing up the rear. Rounding the far turn Stampdale moved up on the outside. Townrow, however, anticipated the move and allowed his mount to swerve out and impeded him slightly. Goodrich took back to escape minor interference and rounding the stretch turn clung to the inner rail through the finish. Stampdale moved up with good courage and was wearing down the winner, although Townrow kept Campini going to the end.

Three D's Entry First, Third At New Orleans.

Fair Grounds Race Track, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The silks of W. T. Waggoner's Three D's Stable were much in evidence in the Gretna Allowance feature today as Panchio and War Time ran one, three, respectively. E. K. Bryson's 5-year-old Scotland split the Texas entry, but only by the smallest of margins.

With O. Laidley in the saddle, Panchio, which was third in the Kentucky Derby last year, was rated back of the pace to the stretch, where he answered the call of his rider and outgamed Scotland to win by a nose. War Time, which was also up with the early pace setters, could not stand the hard drive, but managed to beat out The Southerner by a length for the short end of the purse. Arcturus, with K. Russell in the saddle, was made the favorite, but finished a poor fifth. The Waggoner entry paid $8.20 to win.

FORMER COBBS TO MEET.

EPIPHANY GIRLS WIN.

Epiphany Girl Basketers were returned the victors over the Eaglet Sextet last night, 21 to 16, in the Business High Gymnasium. Miss Dwight was the high scorer for the night, with 16 points.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—EAGER PLAY, $13.70, $7.00, $5.40; BLACK DANCER, $5.40, $3.90; SETH'S BALLOT, $6.60.

EAGER PLAY, rated forwardly during the early stages, moved into the lead rounding the stretch and, responding well to hard riding, outfinished BLACK DANCER. The latter challenged resolutely and just failed to get up in time. SETH'S BALLOT raced forwardly throughout and had no mishaps. LEONARDEAU could not improve his position in the stretch under hard riding. MARABOU tired after showing early speed.

C. U. LACKING RESERVES FOR RING

Mitchell Finds Squad Dwindles After 1st Team Is Named.

ATTRIBUTING lack of proper school spirit as the reason, Ted Mitchell, boxing coach of Catholic University, yesterday stated that the Cardinal ring squad has been greatly weakened by the loss of several candidates who quit when it became known who would compose the probable permanent personnel of the first-string team.

The weakening, asserted Mitchell, lies in the fact that there is extremely little reserve material now available, a condition which he claimed might prove disastrous to Catholic's hopes for success in the fistic sport this winter.

The Cardinals are scheduled to open their ring season Thursday night, meeting the representatives of Temple University in the Brookland gymnasium.

Without sufficient reserve material, the coach pointed out, the first-string boxers can not obtain the proper amount of practice between competitive appearances, and, moreover, in the event of injuries the regulars will have to carry on without relief in the form of replacements.

25 Originally Out For Team.

At the start of training in December the Cardinal squad numbered about 25, but since then, as the process of picking the men for the seven team positions crystalised, it has dwindled to about a dozen. According to Coach Mitchell, those who failed to win positions would have continued to try, nevertheless, had they possessed the right sort of school spirit.

Following is the line-up expected to represent Catholic Thursday night: Capt. Jack Malevich, heavyweight; Ross Zeno, light-heavyweight; Tom "Duke" McCabe, middleweight; Rocco Blaisi, welterweight; Jim McGuire, lightweight; Harry di Giacomo, featherweight, and Johnny de Pasquale, bantamweight.

Malevich, Blasi, Di Giacomo and De Pasquale were members of last year's team. This is the first experience with the gloves for Zeno, McCabe and McGuire.

Despite his worries, Mitchell looks forward to the Temple clash with confidence, as it happens that the Owls also have some untried performers. He does not, however, look so brightly upon the rest of the Cards' matches, which will be fought with George Washington, Washington and Lee and Bucknell.

AIRMEN RALLY TO WIN.

Naval Air Station Courtmen rallied in the second half last night to down the Boys Club Optimists, 33 to 21, at Bolling Field. Breise led the winners with 16 points, to overcome the 11-to-9 lead of the Optimists at half time.

LEADERS CLASH TODAY IN SCHOOL COURT SERIES

Western Five Out to Stop Central

Red and White Can Tie for Lead by Turning in Victory.

Tech and Eastern to Play in Opener of Twin Bill.

ONCE more Western High School will act as the last hope of three other schools against a menace which is threatening to turn the first round of the interhigh series into a runaway for Central.

Last fall the wearers of the Red and White were placed as the final obstacle for the championship-aspiring Tech Football Team to hurdle before definitely assuring itself of the title. It is now history that the boys from across the creek failed to stop the Maroon and Gray, who chalked up a 14-to-0 verdict to practically clinch the honors.

Today is another day, however, and again it is up to the athletes of Western to stop a team wild after a championship which it relinquished last year after copping the same five seasons in a row. To date the Central Five has won every start in the series, knocking off Eastern, Business and Tech, in that order.

If Western can upset the dope and trim the fast-stepping Centralites today it will not only go into a tie with that team for the lead, but at the same time give a renewed hope to the winner of the Eastern-Tech battle, which goes on just before the Western-Central clash today at Tech Gym. The loser of the opening game will fall into the class of the Business team, with three defeats against one victory—just about eliminated from further running in the current race.

Central Gathers Momentum As Season Progresses.

Considered as unimpressive when the season opened, the Mount Pleasant aggregation has gathered momentum in every game, climaxing its string of performances with an astounding 20-point victory over Tech, 1929 champion, last Friday.

Western, always slow to start, will make an added effort to "get going" early today against the Centralites. Thought at first to be a two-man team in Capt. Jimmy Thompson and Bob Freeman, Coach Moore has recently trotted out two first-class performers in Everett Buscher and Paul Chatlen, with the latter coming through in a pinch last Friday to register the goal that defeated Business, 29-28, in the last half-minute of play.

However, Central will be in no mood to have its perfect record tarnished today, and with Capt. Wilbur Cross, who is leading the series in scoring, firing away at the Western basket, may be counted upon to make things just as hot for Western as it has for its other three victims. All of the Blue and White performers showed an accurate eye for the net against Tech, moreover, which spells nothing good for Western's chances today.

One interesting phase of the Central-Western duel today will lie in the activities of the opposing centers, Downey Rice and Bob Freeman. At present, this pair is tied in the matter of points scored with eight field goals and six fouls for a total of 22 points. Moreover, each has played an integral part in the general team play of his team this year.

Tech Faces Eastern With Lassisse Missing.

In the battle to obtain an even break in the first four games, Tech will face Eastern without the services of George Lassisse, who is still troubled with an infected toe. After visiting the doctor yesterday, Lassisse was advised to stay off of the floor for the next few days at least, and consequently will view the game from the sidelines today. Tech, therefore, will take the floor with the same line-up which started the Central game last Friday.

Inactive in series competition since its 56-27 route of Business a week ago today, Eastern will attempt to give a dose of the same medicine to Artie Boyd's henchmen this afternoon. With four of its regulars running wild last Tuesday, the Light Blue and White had little trouble in running up the record score of the series, Capt. Ryan, Kane, Robey, and Shirley taking an equal hand in the scoring.

Susquehannocks Defi Capital Court Teams

The Susquehannock Tribe Basket Ball Team, of Baltimore, winner last year of the South Atlantic championship in their class, has challenged Washington 145-pound and unlimited teams to games in Washington. The Susquehannocks, who are in second place in the Baltimore Amateur League, have been Baltimore's most prominent contenders for the South Atlantic A. A. U. titles for the past several years.

The team is under the management of Ray King, who can be reached by telephone at Woltz 522 or addressed at 3400 East Baltimore street.

HYATTSVILLE FIVE UPSETS EASTERN

Special to The Washington Post.

HYATTSVILLE, Md., Jan. 20.—For the first time in five years Hyattsville High School's basket ball team registered a triumph over a District scholastic five, when it took an early lead, which it held throughout to down the Eastern High quintet, 17-15, in the Hyattsville National Guard Armory.

Underestimating the strength of his opponents, Coach "Chief" Guyon withheld his regulars from the game until midway in the fourth quarter, but when they were finally sent into the game, it was too late. Scenting victory and playing like an inspired team, the Marylanders were not to be denied and although held scoreless during the last ten minutes of play, kept their foes from victory by 2 points.

Stanley Lewis Stars For Winners.

Led by Stanley Lewis, one of the two brothers on the team, Hyattsville got away to an early lead, outscoring Eastern 8-3 in the first quarter and leaving the floor with a 9-7 advantage at the intermission. The last half was played on an even basis, Eastern being outscored 8-5 in the third period, but holding Hyattsville scoreless in the last stanza, while running up 3 points. Eastern used 18 players to stem the tide of defeat.

Ryerson, Veteran Turf Trainer, Passes Away

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Jan. 20.—Many years of service as a race horse trainer and manager ended today in the death in a hospital here of Oscar Ryerson, 60, from complications. A product of the Far West, he managed a large ranch in Montana years ago and took horses to Germany, where they were trained and returned to America. He was later connected with the stables of William C. Whitney in New York, trained at Glen Riddle Farm, Berlin, Md., for A. D. Riddle, Philadelphia; then for the late Henry T. Oxnard's Blue Ridge establishment in Loudoun County, Va.; also at The Plains, Va.; for H. Teller Archibald, of Chicago, and more recently for B. B. Jones at Audley, near Berryville, Va. He came to Audley from Saratoga, N. Y., last fall. A sister, Mrs. Lewis Reese, lives near Chicago.

Staunton Cadets Win From V. M. I. Yearlings

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Jan. 20.—Staunton Military Academy defeated the V. M. I. freshmen in a fast, well played game here this afternoon, 34 to 27.

Coach Summers, of the visitors, held his first team out until the second quarter and V. M. I. took a lead of 10 to 6 in the initial quarter and one of 17 to 16 in the half.

Chapman and McAninch scored heavily in the second half to put S. M. A. out in front but Edmunds cut down the lead with three pretty floor goals.

All Tarheel Teams In Action This Week

Chapel Hill, N. C., Jan. 20.—This week, with four varsity events in store, will find all of the University of North Carolina's winter sport teams in action. The Tarheel basketeers will continue their State and Southern Conference activities with games with Guilford and Washington and Lee.

The boxing and wrestling squads swing into action for the first time this year, the boxers opening with Washington and Lee, and the wrestlers taking on Duke as their first opponent.

The basketeers will set the ball to rolling with a battle with Guilford on the Quakers' floor on Tuesday night. Two nights later the Tarheels will be hosts to the Washington and Lee Generals, reported to have a strong team this year and to be coming to the Tin Can with an intent to reverse scores of other years.

The wrestlers and boxers will both see their first action of the season on Saturday night.

The wrestlers will meet Duke's matmen in the Tin Can here in an all-feature attraction, while the boxers will journey up to Lexington to take on Washington and Lee.

The freshman basket ball team will make its debut during the week also, with a game against Leaksville "Y" at Leaksville on Tuesday night. The basket ball game with Washington and Lee will count in the Southern Conference standings, and so will the boxing and wrestling meets.

GEHRIG ONCE FANNED 17.

When Lou Gehrig, of the New York Yankees, was with Columbia University, he struck out seventeen Williams batters in a game, but lost 5 to 1. "Tried to throw too many balls past the batters" is Lou's explanation. "When they did not strike out they were pasting the ball on the nose."

TIGER TRACK HOPES ARE HIGH

Special to The Washington Post.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 20.—With unusual strength in all events except the weights, Princeton's track team faces a brilliant outlook. Some 100 Tiger varsity and freshmen athletes have been training daily for the coming indoor season, when Princeton will have representatives in engagements in New York, Philadelphia, Brooklyn and in the intercollegiates next March.

The Tiger varsity will be greatly strengthened this year by the sophomore aggregation which proved unbeatable as freshmen in the 1929 spring campaign. Coach Keene Fitzpatrick will also have the majority of last season's team returning, having lost only a few stars by graduation.

Two star Nassau performers, Johnny Gore and Bob Garland, in the mile and half-mile, respectively, were graduated last June, and leave a gap in the Orange and Black ranks which will be taken care of by Hudder Dawson, Otto Rosner and Al Mills.

Rosner and Mills Good at Middle Distances.

Dawson, who is a sophomore, almost defeated Gore last spring, while Rosner and Mills, juniors, specialize in the middle distances. Rosner, former New Utrecht star and holder of several indoor scholastic half-mile records, broke his ankle last year. His return this year has greatly strengthened the middle-distance events.

Capt. Ben Hedges, intercollegiate champion in the high jump and stellar performer in the pole vault, broad jump and high hurdle events will lead the Tiger attack this year. Hedges was high scorer for Princeton in dual meets last spring, and will likely duplicate his feats this coming season. In the international meet with Oxford and Cambridge last July he captured the high hurdles and high jump, and placed in the pole vault and broad jump. He will confine his activities to his specialty, the high jump, this winter.

Hand Tigers' Best Bet In Sprints.

Hollis Hand, a sophomore, who won the 220 and captured a second in the 100 in the meet with the Oxford-Cambridge aggregation last summer, will be the Tigers' strongest representative in the sprints.

Frank Thomson, Rand MacInnes and Andy Andrews, a trio of juniors, will cooperate with Hand in the dashes. Princeton track men are training on an outdoor board track this winter.

Penn Ice Hockeyists In 2 Games This Week

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—The University of Pennsylvania Ice Hockey Team will meet two opponents this week—Clarkton Tech, on Tuesday, and Colgate, on Friday. The splendid performance of the team in holding Amherst, champions of the the Little Three, to a 3-to-2 triumph, ranks the team as the strongest Pennsylvania has ever had.

This is the second season of the sport since its revival after a lapse of eight years.

Carolina State Wins From V. M. I., 29 to 22

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Jan. 20.—Two teams using practically the same speedy passing and dribbling attack met here tonight, with the North Carolina State Wolfpack downing the V. M. I. Cadets, 29 to 22. The great floor game of Capt. Johnson, guard, and the sharpshooting of Forwards Haar and Woodward was the margin of difference in favor of State. Haar and J. Brown gave State a 6-point lead shortly after the game started, and the Wolfpack had the upper hand, 19 to 12, at the end of the period. Bob Brown's shooting from the foul line and goals by Mack Brown and Scott allowed the Cadets to tie the score midway in the first half, but Haar, Johnson and Woodward sent the Wolfpack ahead again.

The teams played on even terms in the second half, alternating at finding the basket. The Cadets had almost three to one the number of tries at the hoop, but the visitors worked the ball for sure shots under the basket.

W. & L. Cub Passers Beat Roanoke, 42-32

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Jan. 20.—Washington and Lee Freshmen tonight defeated Roanoke College Frosh Basket Ball Team in a hard-fought game, 42 to 32. The visitors put up a game battle and at one time near the end of the game were within 6 points of the Generals, after trailing by 14 points. However, Violett and Cummings, Washington and Lee forwards, dropped in five field goals between them, while Roanoke was able to register but three times.

Special to The Washington Post.

Basketball Shots

by TED VOSBURGH

A BIG factor in the success of the world champion Cleveland Rosenblums who have just crashed through again in the first half of the American Professional Basket Ball League race is Dave Kerr, the genial giant who manages the team.

Ever since Kerr brought his towering frame and contagious grin to Cleveland five seasons back the Rosies have been bad news to the other pro clubs. First as player and later as pilot Kerr helped his outfit to ring the bell with championships in 1925-26 and 1928-29.

Kerr's name gets into the box score rarely now as few men of more than 35 can stand the red-hot pace, and the club is well supplied with playing talent. But the stalwart pilot has played an important part in every game with his shrewd handling of the team. Few men know as much basket ball as Kerr, who learned the game in his home town of Philadelphia and played with Reading and the Philadelphia J

PRICES VARY LITTLE IN STOCK TURNOVER

BELLAS HESS ADVANCES

New York, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The stock market began the new week today with a relapse into speculative apathy. Price trends were shifting and indefinite and represented little more than the shifting of accounts of professionals scalping for a point or two. Sales totaled 1,692,640 shares, only moderately above the turnover for Saturday's abbreviated session.

Business news was mixed and manifestly not of sufficient moment to carry the market out of the doldrums. It had its favorable aspects, nevertheless. The Chevrolet division of General Motors announced that dealer demand had caused a revision upward of production schedules. Building contracts let during the past week showed moderate expansion. The estimate of the Secretary of Commerce placing contemplated outlay for public works and utility expansion at $7,000,000,000, while reassuring, was about in line with earlier expectations.

Less favorable was the testimony before the Senate interstate commerce committee to the effect that few radio manufacturers earned a profit in 1929. The Fox imbroglio was complicated further by a second receivership petition.

Bears Prove Active.

The market was subjected to rather sharp bear pressure during the first hour, rallied moderately before midday, and wore a ragged aspect until the last half hour, when prices firmed up under the influence of short covering. Net changes at the close were largely narrow. The price index of 90 leading stocks showed a gain of only one-fifth of 1 point. Credit remained easy, with call loans again renewing at 4½ per cent, and the rate later dropping to 4.

The stock exchange's compilation showing the ratio of member borrowings to the market value of listed shares was issued after the close, showing a decline of only 0.16 per cent. The backing and filling nature of the market during December was reflected in the fact that the average price per listed share rose only 46 cents, to $57.38, as of January 2.

Amusement shares, with the notable exception of Fox Film which sagged close to its low, were sent upward by bulls endeavoring to get a public following on the theory that the industry is depression proof. Radio Keith was again in good demand. Tobacco shares were also bid up briskly for a time, on rumors of higher prices, both retail and wholesale, but profit taking appeared this group before the close. The National Bellas Hess shares were strong in response to association of a former Montgomery Ward official with the management. The preferred jumping 18 points. American Zinc shares turned upward on rumors of a plan to pay off the accumulated preferred dividends.

National Biscuit Advances.

Shares gaining 2 to 5 points included Abitibi Power, American Machine & Foundry, Delaware & Hudson, National Biscuit, United Store preferred, General Railway Signal, American Brake Shoe and First National Stores. International Business Machines jumped 7 points. Crex Carpet and Wextark Radio Stores dropped 5 and 3 points to new lows, and Grigsby Grunow sagged a point to a new minimum. Radio Corporation declined about 2 points to a new low for the movement. J. I. Case lost 2 and Union Pacific nearly 4 points.

Commodities largely moved in narrow ranges, wheat futures lost about ½ cent on reports of good weather and disappointing foreign demand, but regained most of the loss; corn sagged a little, reflecting increased stocks at Kansas City, and large receipts. Cotton closed practically unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were dull and fairly steady, with the exception of the Spanish peseta, which had another sinking spell. The Brazilian milreis was unchanged, although a shipment of gold to New York was rumored.

RISE OF EUROPEAN BONDS MARKS DAY

High Grade Rail and Power and Light Company Shares Are Firm.

MONEY STILL PLENTIFOL

New York, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—Prices of bonds drifted aimlessly today in one of the quietest sessions of the month. The dullness was taken as a normal consequence of the heavy new financing which is still in process of absorption.

Money was plentiful, and some business was done in 30-day loans at 4¼ per cent, the lowest in about a year. The renewal figure on call funds was 4½ per cent, but the charge dropped to 4 early in the afternoon when outside money was quoted at 3½.

Domestic issues of high rating held firm, but there were signs of heaviness in the lower-priced bonds, particularly industrials. Rails and utilities showed little change. Foreign bonds lost some of last week's momentum, yet the European government group and several of the South Americans advanced. French 7½s touched 120, dropped to 118½ and closed at 119⅜, for no net change. There was fair demand for the obligations of Belgium, Norway and Greece, the last-named government's 6s rising 2 points.

U. S. Securities Quite Dull.

It was the dullest day in weeks for the securities of the United States. No transactions were recorded in the Treasury certificates, a most unusual occurrence, and only a handful of the Liberties changed hands.

The high-grade rails were firm. Santa Fe general 4s, Baltimore & Ohio first 5s, Nickel Plate 5½s, Pennsylvania general 4½s and St. Louis San Francisco prior lien 4s gained about half a point each in a slow market. Rock Island 4½s, Missouri Pacific general 4s, Pennsylvania 4¾s, and the Southern Railway group eased.

Telephone and light and power company bonds held up well. The new American Telephone Co. 5s showed no net change, but Consolidated Gas of New York 5½s, Laclede Gas 5½s, Montana Power 5s, New York Telephone 6s and 4½s and Southwestern Bell Telephone 5s made a little progress.

Fisk Rubber Loses.

Most of the consequential fluctuations in the industrials appeared in the lower-priced bonds, including the foreign sugars. Losses of 1 to 2 points came out in Fisk Rubber 8s, Lehigh Valley Coal 5s, Vertientes Sugar 7s and Sugar Estates of Orient 7s. Bethlehem Steel refunding 5s and Inland Steel 4½s, among the high-grade industrials, was soft. National Dairy 5½s equaled their 1929 peak of 99 on a good turnover.

The dullness of stocks caused convertibles to trade apathetically. International Telephone 4½s lost a point, but otherwise final prices varied slightly from the Saturday close.

New financing is expected to maintain a fairly heavy volume, especially in the utility description. The first large issue of the week comes tomorrow in this group. It is a $25,000,000 offering of New EnglandPower Association debenture 5½s, due in 1954 and priced at 95.

Recent reports that United States Steel planned the immediate redemption of the smaller bond issues of subsidiaries met with contraction today. Although it is regarded as probable that most of this indebtedness will be retired eventually, it was said that no such steps were contemplated in the near future.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ARLINGTON COUNTY LODGE IS INSTALLED

STATE LEADER PRESENT

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With 30 charter members, Arlington Council, No. 32, Daughters of America, was instituted by Mrs. Viola E. Dale, State councilor of the organization in Virginia.

The officers are: Mrs. Leona Shaller, councilor; Guy Rogers, associate councilor; Mrs. Ida M. Rowe, vice councilor; Miss Annie Hulme, associate vice councilor; Mrs. Leona Fritter, recording secretary; C. F. Crump, financial secretary; W. T. Miller, treasurer; Miss Alice Hulme, conductor; Miss Virginia Hulme, warden; Miss Vivian Myers, inside sentinel; Eugene Drake, outside sentinel; M. A. Walsh, trustee for eighteen months; A. G. Frey, for twelve months, and John Williams, for six months. Representatives to the State Council, Mrs. Leona Fritter, Mrs. Leona Shaller, and Miss Millicent Maxey.

Following the presentation of the charter by Mrs. Dale, the degree team of Providence Council of Fairfax, No. 9, in charge of Capt. John Sisson, conferred the degrees.

The ceremonies were attended by a large delegation from the following councils: Betsy Ross Council, of Vienna; Old Glory Council, of McLean Ballston Council, No. 11; Martha Washington Council, of Alexandria, and Cherrydale Council, No. 21.

Failure of several citizens' associations affiliated with the Arlington District Council to have delegates attend the council's meeting last night caused the council to postpone the election of officers until the February meeting. In the meantime the president and secretary will write those organizations not represented to learn what action they will take.

C. I. Kephart, chairman of the special committee on the water situation in the county, reported that County Engineer C. L. Kinnier is now preparing a full statement on the subject which will be submitted to the county board of supervisors at its meeting to be held January 30.

The president, in accordance with the passage of a motion that a committee be appointed to appear before the board of supervisors at its meeting to discuss the distribution of the $500,000 to be paid the county by the City of Alexandria announced he will select the committee at an early date.

The birthday anniversaries of Gens. Stonewall Jackson and Robert E. Lee will be jointly celebrated by the Arlington Chapter, No. 1149, United Daughters of the Confederacy, with a program tonight in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce in the Rees Building at Clarendon.

Mrs. C. W. Maffett, chairman of the comittee on arrangements, announces that E. H. Allen, president of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. William E. Martin, president of Arlington Hall College for Girls, will be the principal speakers. The program will include singing by a male quartet, under the direction of Luther Dodd; soprano solo by Mrs. E. L. Nalley, of Clarendon; recitation by Miss Virginia Dye, of Arlington, and piano selections by Mrs. Mary Perkins Snyder, of Clarendon.

In addition to the local chapter and their friends, members of Mary Custis Lee-Seventeenth Virginia Regiment Chapter, of Alexandria, and Robert E. Lee Chapter, of Falls Church, have been extended an invitation to attend the meeting.

The Back to the District Association will hold a special meeting tonight in the association's headquarters in the Rucker Building at Clarendon at 8 o'clock, according to an announcement made last night by Richard L. Eacho, vice president.

Among the speakers will be Judge Charles E. Winters, of Wyoming, and Charles W. Darr, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Eacho announced that a debate is to be planned at the George Washington Law School on the constitutionality of the retrocession act of 1846.

According to reports received last night from J. V. Turner in charge of the distribution of the 1930 automobile license plates, there has been to date a total of 4,950 distributed, which is 200 more than had been sold by the same day of last year. Mr. Turner stated that he is confident that the total this year will at least reach the 7,000 mark.

Contrary to the police records of last year under date of January 18 three days after the 1928 tags were not recognized there were cited in the Arlington County Police Court 125 residents of the county who were operating their cars under District of Columbia tags. To date there have been but three cases cited in court.

Arlington County will within the next week or ten days receive from the City of Alexandria $500,000 with interest dating from January 1 under the decree in the recent annexation proceeding according to an announcement made last night by Albert Smoot, mayor of the city.

The delay now is due to the time required by the bonding attorneys to settle on all points as to the legality of the bonds, Mr. Smoot stated. As soon as this question is settled the money will be turned over to the county.

Judge Frederick Coleman, of Fredericksburg, Va., will come to Arlington County, Tuesday, January 28, for the purpose of holding a hearing in the Circuit Court on the temporary injunction granted restraining the county board of supervisors from removing from the Potomac Firemen's Hall the new American-LaFrance fire engine.

The injunction was granted by Judge Howard W. Smith on complaint of citizens of the town of Potomac which on December 31, 1929, the day the injunction was granted, became a part of Alexandria. They claim the fire engine to be the property of the citizens of Potomac, on the grounds that the engine was purchased from funds of the special fire levy laid by the County Board of Supervisors and paid by the citizens of the town of Potomac.

It has been learned that the engine is not more than half paid for.

Arlington Lodge, No. 193, I. O. O. F., will meet tonight in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon at 8 o'clock. Concluding a short business session the degrees will be conferred upon a class of candidates.

Ballston Council, No. 221, Junior Order United American Mechanics, will meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Firemen's Hall.

The board of governors of the Arlington County Monarch Club, meeting yesterday at the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon, completed its class of classification for membership in the club and also considered a program of activity during the new year. The board will make its recommendations at the meeting of the club to be held on Thursday at the Ashton Heights Women" Clubhouse.

VIRGINIA ASSEMBLY STUDIES NEW BILLS

SENATE HOLDS HEARING

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 20.—Back from a week-end which lasted since Thursday, members of the Virginia General Assembly returned to their desks today and plunged into legislative duties that during the first ten days of the session have ben interrupted by many diversions incident to the inauguration of a new governor and organization. Much legislation was introduced while Gov. Pollard met again with the tidewater seafood committee in an effort to work out a solution to his most perplexing problem. Meanwhile, committees began to function, most of them merely organizing.

The senate general laws committee got away to a flying start with a public hearing on the barber bill, which is opposed by Negro barbers on the ground that the measure, which provides an education standard and an examination board with wide powers, is aimed at them. Proponents contended that it was only a health measure.

Chief Events of Day.

Apart from getting started, chief interest of the day centered in:

1. Pressure being brought to bear, apparently futilely on C. H. Morrisett, tax commissioner, and Leon M. Bazile, assistant attorney general, conceded to be two of the most valuable State officials, to retain their positions, which they have resigned to enter private practice.

2. Introduction by Delegates Daniel Coleman, of Norfolk, and E. C. Folkes, Richmond, of a bill that would limit the interest small loan companies might charge from 3½ per cent a month to 1 per cent a month.

3. Introduction by Delegate John W. McCauley, Roanoke, of a resolution calling for the appointment of two house members, two senators and an assistant attorney general on a commission to study the statutes and recommend laws to be repealed to the next session of the Legislature in line with suggestion from Gov. Byrd and Speaker J. Sinclair Brown.

Would Tighten Auto Law.

4. Introduction by Delegate Allen I. Harless, Radford, of an amendment that would make it mandatory on judges not to suspend sentence in the case of persons convicted of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

5. Introduction by Delegate Farrar Verser, Nottoway, of a bill that would create a commission to study election laws, in keeping with Gov. Pollard's inaugural recommendation, and appropriating $1,500 for expenses incident to the study.

6. Preparation of a bill by Delegates Daniel Porter, Orange, and John Q. Rhodes, jr., Louisa, which would add 1,500 miles to the State highway system, proportioned among the counties on the bases of area, bringing the total mileage to 8,500.

Senator Hill Montague, of Richmond, introduced three companion bills affecting embalmers, the main idea being to provide a more extensive course for embalmers. They would be required to study not less than 24 weeks before taking an examination.

Pharmacist Ratings Affected.

Delegate Earl A. Cadmus, Portsmouth, put in a bill that would provide that, after 1931, the rating of second-class pharmacists be abolished. The bill, he said, will not affect any now licensed.

After a rather short session, both the House and Senate adjourned this afternoon out of respect to the memory of Gen Robert E. Lee. Brief memorial services, at which Gov. Pollard presided and Dr. Douglas Freeman spoke briefly on the life of Lee, were held in the old House of Delegates, where Gen. Lee stood to receive his commission from John Janney, president of the convention, after Virginia had decided to leave the Union.

Col. D. M. Pattie, of Madison, who was with Lee at Appomattox, delivered Lee's farewell to his men, as he has done on every anniversary of his chieftain's birthday for many years. He is the only active Confederate attache of the Senate, where he is employed as assistant doorkeeper.

During the legislative session the Senate and the House both received the appointments of Frank Bane to be director of public welfare; T. McCall Frazier, to be director of motor vehicles; E. R. Combs, to be comptroller; Charles A. Osborne, to be director of purchase and printing, and referred them to the confirmation committees.

Appellate Judges Elected.

The bodies, acting separately, proceeded also to the routine task of electing four justices to the bench of the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals. All four nominees of the joint caucus—Justices Henry W. Holt, to succeed the late Martin P. Burke; Louis S. Eps, to succeed the late Jesse F. West, and E. W. Hudgins and E. B. Gregory, who will fill newly-created posts—were elected without a dissenting vote.

Justices Hudgins and Gregory, who were named Thursday night after much balloting in the joint caucus, will take their posts February 1, it was explained, in spite of the fact that the attorney general has ruled that the posts were open June 19, 1928, when the constitutional amendments were ratified. The terms are for twelve years.

Delegate Wilbur C. Hall, of Leesburg, who has telephoned he will introduce a free text book bill "that will really give them some educational equalization," found an ally when Senator George L. Doughty, of Accomac, announced he would introduce a similar measure in the Senate. It was explained that Virginia is one of only five States which do not furnish free books.

Resignations Prove Perturbing.

By far the most engrossing topic of conversation about the capitol today was the totally unexpected resignation of Mr. Morrisetti and Mr. Bazile to take up private practice with Alfred Kirsh, corporation attorney.

Mr. Morrisetti, it was understood, was called into conference with Gov. Pollard, but the nature of their conversation was not revealed. Members of the Legislature, who consider Mr. Morrisetti too valuable a man to lose, were considering the advisability of raising his salary, now $7,000, and, if necessary, doubling it.

The same general expression was forthcoming with reference to Mr. Bazile, who, since his appointment in 1916, has argued more cases before the Supreme Court than any other living man. His salary is $4,500.

It also was mentioned that Delegate J. Vaughan Gary, of Richmond, an expert in tax matters, might possibly be Mr. Morrisetti's successor.

Upper Marlboro Branch Of Bank Holds Meeting

Stockholders of the Upper Marlboro branch of the Southern Maryland Trust Co., which is in the hands of a receiver, held a meeting yesterday afternoon, and it is understood that they discussed means of separating from the parent bank at Seat Pleasant, Md.

W. T. Brooks, cashier, refused to discuss the meeting other than to say that no definite action was taken.

J. W. Davis Is Inducted Into Legal Fraternity

Lexington, Va., Jan. 20 (A.P.).—John W. Davis, of New York, Democratic presidential nominee in 1924, was inducted into Delta Sigma Phi, National Honorary Legal Fraternity, by the Washington and Lee University Chapter here today.

Mr. Davis, who is a member of the board of university trustees, was in Lexington to attend a trustees meeting. Among his inductors into the order was Judge Louis S. Epes, of the State Supreme Court of Appeals, also a member of the board.

Danville Auto License Plate Sale Is Lagging

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Jan. 20.—Sales of city and State automobile license plates have been large during the last several days, although still slightly behind last year.

To date, 2,220 city licenses have been sold, compared with 3,329 last year. This means that over a thousand car owners are operating without tags or are keeping them in their garages for the time being.

SPEAKERS EULOGIZE LEE AND JACKSON

ROTARY CLUB PLANS FET

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Two members of Congress from the South paid tribute to the memory of Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson last night at the annual banquet of R. E. Lee Camp of Confederate Veterans here. The speakers were Representative Lister Hill, of Alabama, and Representative William J. Driver, of Arkansas.

Although to Representative Hill was assigned the subject of "General Robert E. Lee," and Representative Driver's subject was "General Stonewall Jackson," each paid most eloquent tribute to both these famous Confederate leaders, and Mr. Hill's tribute was also to the South in general, and the great men it produced—Peyton Randolph, Patrick Henry, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, and so down to Lee and Jackson, whom he eulogized as the greatest military leaders of all time, and Lee, in particular, as a man of the highest character as a man and citizen, as well as a military leader. He also paid tribute to the President of the Confederacy, who, he said, was the most maligned and least understood public man of his time.

Mr. Driver spoke of the irreparable loss sustained by the Confederacy in the death of Jackson and related that Lee had said, without criticizing the general upon whose shoulders more than any other, rested the blame for the defeat of the Confederate forces at Gettysburg, that if he had had Jackson at Gettysburg, the cause of the Confederacy would have prevailed.

Representative R. Walton Moore followed the scheduled speakers and also paid tribute both to Lee and Jackson. He told of a visit he paid many years ago to the battleground of Waterloo, and was conducted over the ground by a former British sergeant. This sergeant, he said, spoke of the prowess of the great military leaders of his own and earlier days, but spoke in glowing terms of the greatest leader of them all—Stonewall Jackson. The sergeant, it appeared, had served in Africa under Col. Henderson, whose autobiography of Stonewall Jackson was a rare tribute to the latter's genius.

Mr. Moore compared the two men, who, he said, were "twin brothers in destiny." Born in the same month, although in different years, their natal days but 48 hours apart; natives of the same State, educaten in the same school—West Point; having the same religious and moral standards, unapproachable and matchless in their character as gentlemen, each possessed that chastity of honor that "feels a stain like a woman." Each served in the war in Mexico, and each won distinction there. The opinion of the military critics of the countries of the world, he said, was that there have never been two soldiers comparable to Lee and Jackson. He told of an old Baptist minister, who said, in speaking of Jackson, that "the Lord decided that the Union should prevail, but he came to the conclusion that it could not prevail if Jackson lived, so Jackson was removed."

Lee's Farewell Address to his soldiers at Appomattox was read by Edgar Warfield, adjutant of the camp and commander of Confederate veterans in Virginia. Miss Margar Ogden sang several solos.

Only four Confederate veterans were able to attend the banquet, and only two of these—Commander E. C. Graham and Adjutant Edgar Warfield—were members of Lee Camp The others were Gen. Hawkins, commander of the District of Columbia Camp, and Dr. Russell, of Herndon, who is 90 years old and the patriarch of them all though far from the most feeble.

The banquet was served by the Daughters of the Confederacy under the direction of Mrs. Charles W. Howell, and many of those attending were members of the local camp of Sons of Confederate Veterans.

The Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway Co. will petition the State corporation commission February 4 for authority to abandon its line between Alexandria and Mount Vernon, a distance of 8 miles, and upon the granting of the petition it is understood the Government will purchase the right of way for $150,000 and will use a portion of it for the Mount Vernon boulevard. The rails and other property of the company on this line will, it is understood, be scrapped.

The electric line, which has transported hundreds of thousands of tourists to Mount Vernon, had probably felt the effect of the establishment of bus lines more keenly than most electric lines in the country.

The first car over this line, from Alexandria to the gates of Mount Vernon, was operated May 1, 1902. On June 7, 1896, the line was completed to Washington, and for many years it ran trains to Mount Vernon loaded to capacity with tourists, besides being practically the only means of transportation for the hundreds of Government and railroad employes who lived in Alexandria and commuted to their offices in Washington The company was first known as the Washington, Alexandria & Mount Vernon Railway; later as the Washington-Virginia Railway. Improvement to the roads, which was followed by establishment of bus lines, spelled the doom of the electric line; and in spite of strenuous efforts to bolster its fast-disappearing patronage, the stockholders and bondholders finally admitted defeat.

The Mount Vernon division of the line, between Washington and Mount Vernon, was offered for sale and bid in for $750,000, and has continued in operation, although the portion of the line between Alexandria and Mount Vernon is understood to have been operated at a loss.

While the route of the Mount Vernon boulevard will not follow the line of the railroad the entire distance to Mount Vernon, it will do so in several places, and the land owned by the company at the Mount Vernon terminus will be required for the proposed park in connection with the boulevard.

Commander Howard L. Arnold, of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, has named a special social committee consisting of Herman C. Lemon, chairman; Jones Cox, Sidney Weil, William H. Meeks, John S. Arnold, Harry Davis, Francis H. Fannon, Hollis Nugent and Louis Hoy, who have prepared an elaborate social program for the post for the balance of the season, with the newly acquired Gadsby's Tavern as the center of activities. Harry Davis is chairman of the house committee of the Tavern, and the two committees will work together.

The first of the social events arranged by the committee will be a dance Friday night of this wek, and a Valentine dance will be given in February. A complimentary dance will also be given to the cadets of the Alexandria and George Mason High School, February 28. Col. Deems, instructor of the Alexandria High School, and Maj. Chauncey McNeill, who organized the cadet corps, will be special guests on this occasion.

The Alexandria Rotary Club will stage its second anual ladies' night entertainment at the Belle Haven Country Club, with former State Senator F. W. King as the principal speaker. George F. Downham will act as toastmaster and the invocation will be by the Rev. Dr. Pierce Ellis. Dr. S. Nelson Gray, president of the local group, will deliver an address of welcome, group songs will be led by Norman F. Lawler, and Francis H. Fannon wil present the president's annual gift. The entertainment program wil linclude both local and out-of-town talent. Dancing will follow the entertainment.

On account of this celebration, the usual Tuesday luncheon of the Rotary will be omitted. The committee in charge of arangements for the celebration is composed of George F. Downham, Norman F. Lawler and Francis H. Fannon. It will begin at 7 o'clock.

Fitzgerald Council, No. 459, Knights of Columbus, will hold a council banquet at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening at Hurshey's. State Deputy Samuel R. Kelly, of Richmond, will be the principal speaker, and an elaborate entertainment program has been arranged. George F. Kimball is chairman of the entertainment committee, and is being assisted by George A. Johnson, William J. Creenan, Francis H. Fannon, William J. Nugent and Martin E. Greene.

The Braddock Heights Citizens Association will hold a meeting tonight in the Community Hall of Emmanual Church, to discuss their new relationship as citizens of Alexandria, due to the annexation which became effective January 1. Mauchlin Nivin will preside at the meeting, and he has announced that attendance will not be restrictde to the membership, but it is expected a number of residents of the newly annexed section will be present, as well as representatives from the older portoin of Alexandria.

Twenty-one Negroes, captured in a police raid of a crap game Sunday afternoon on the 500 block Gibbon street, forfeited $5 collateral each when their names were called in police court yesterday. The police seized 69 cents and one pair of "bones," but the net return to the city was $105 in collateral forfeited. The raid was conducted by Sergt. Lawrence Padgett, Detective Sergt. Edgar Sims, and Policemen Curtis, Bayliss and Posey.

A free chest clinic will be held tomorrow afternoon, from 3 until 6 o'clock, in the city health office, for white persons, and a similar clinic for colored persons at the same hours Thursday afternoon. The December clinic was omitted due to the holidays. General public is invited to take advantage of this opportunity for medical examination.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

A MOVIE fan of the first water, Luella is usually satisfied to see a film once; but this time we sat through two successive shows. There seemed to be no way of getting her out in the streets again. Even when we reached the lobby she had to go over and inspect the eight-sheets, or whatever they call those big bill posters outside movie palaces.

"Say," I asked, "what're you gonna do? Write a scenario, or something?"

"Just want to see the cut of that dress," she replied, and went for another look.

"The cut of a dress. Good heavens!" It was right cold outside the theater and I yearned to go home—where the fireplace glowed.

* * * *

"YOU must have liked that picture," I remarked, on the way. "It's a good thing they didn't have another showing, or we'd be there yet."

"I've seen better pictures," she flashed, and I wondered where. Here was her favorite star, and a picture said by critics to be the last word in projection. Yet, Luella had seen better pictures!

"If you ever saw a better picture than that," I told her, "they'd have to burn the theater down to get you out. Imagine staying in there for two shows——"

"I didn't stay in to see the picture," she confessed, arousing my suspicions. Many a tale have I heard about these rendezvous. And that little guy, with a waxed mustache, sitting next to Luella, didn't look so good to me. I think he was one of these here, low, lounge lizards, the shrimp.

"You didn't stay to see the picture? What were you doing?—holding hands with that glove-maker?"

* * * *

"THAT palmist, sitting beside you."

"You were the only palmist I saw," she flashed, recalling how I had palmed her out of the admission price.

She started to sob.

"What's the matter now?" I asked.

"To be accused of something like that, when all I did was——"

* * * *

"ALL you did was—— What did you do? Flirt with that guy?"

"I did nothing of the kind," she cried, threatening to leave me and go home by herself. "All I did was try to make——"

"So you tried to make him, eh?"

"I tried to make a mental pattern of that dress—the one I admired so much—and I had to sit through——"

"You had to sit through what?"

"Through two showings of the film—to see the back of the dress. I got the front on the first showing, but I couldn't remember the back."

So! That was it. These women!

GIRL KILLED IN AUTO CRASH IS IDENTIFIED

Victim in After-Party Wreck Is Mrs. Helen Burleson, of New York.

MAN AND WOMAN HURT

An early morning automobile crash that followed a gay party at a roadhouse near Forestville, Md., resulted in the death of a pretty young woman, identified as Mrs. Helen Burleson, about 25 years old, of New York City, shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Emergency Hospital.

The woman's two companions on the party, Noah Harris Lyons, 48 years old, well-known local real estate agent, of Fairmont street northwest near Fourteenth street, and Mrs. Ward Fletcher, 18 years old, of N street northwest near Thirteenth street, were arrested and given into custody of Maryland authorities.

Lyons was arraigned before Justice of the Peace H. W. Gore, at Marlboro, Md., on a charge of permitting his automobile to be operated by an intoxicated person and liberated under $2,000 bail. This occurred before Maryland authorities were notified of the death.

Under Bond as Witness.

Mrs. Fletcher was liberated under $200 bail as a material witness.

When arraigned Lyons told the magistrate that he met the two young women in this city Sunday night and they drove to the Marlboro Club, near Forestville, where a party was staged. He and his companions consumed a quantity of liquor at the roadhouse, Lyons said.

About 2 o'clock in the morning, Lyons told the magistrate, he was informed that his two companions were attempting to drive off in his automobile, an expensive sedan. Going to the car, Lyons declared, he got in the rear seat and the two young women were in the front, with Mrs. Burleson driving.

Coursing along the Marlboro pike, a short distance from Forestville, the car left the road and plunged down a 30-foot embankment. Mrs. Burleson was rendered unconscious and taken to Emergency Hospital by a passing motorist. Physicians battled throughout the day to save her life, but their efforts were futile.

Refuse Hospital Treatment.

Mrs. Fletcher and Lyons suffered minor hurts, but refused hospital attention and were taken to their homes by passing motorists.

When brought into the hospital, it was reported, Mrs. Burleson was clad only in a coat, a light dress and was without shoes or stockings.

Through the license tag numbers of the automobile police traced ownership to Lyons, and Detectives James Springman and Michael J. Dowd took him in custody at his home. They also found Mrs. Fletcher at her home. The two were turned over to State Policeman W. T. Booker, of the Maryland force, and taken to Marlboro.

Mrs. Burleson remained unidentified until shortly before her death, when a friend, O. J. Bowman, of Thirteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast, called at the hospital, attaches of the institution reported.

VARIATIONS SHOWN IN TAXES ON FARMS

VIRGINIA SURVEY MADE

Blacksburg, Va., Jan. 20 (A.P.).—The lower the net rent, the higher the proportion paid for taxes. This is one of the inequalities of Virginia farm taxation discovered in a survey conducted by Roy A. Ballinger and Whitney Coombs, economists of the United States Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the Virginia agricultural experiment station.

The study revealed as its principal conclusion that taxes on farm real estate in Virginia are regressive in relation to the income produced, being heaviest on those farms where the rent is least and lightest where the rent is greatest. On a single group of 128 farms included, the taxes were greater than the net rent before deducting taxes. The average loss on these farms was 34 cents an acre.

The reversed relation of rents to income was caused, said the survey report, by the system of taxing farm land according to its capital value. There is no constant relation from year to year between the value of any single farm and the rent which it yields, it was pointed out, although over a period of years there may be a relationship.

Selling Value Varies Little.

The rent secured from a farm, particularly if it is a share-rented farm, may vary greatly from year to year while the selling value will vary only slowly over a period of years. These yearly variations in net rent probably account in considerable measure for the tendency of farm taxes to be regressive, the report said.

True Value Varies Greatly.

Another factor regarded as contributing to the regressive character of farm taxes in the variation in the percentage of true value at which farms are assessed. On farms where the assessment is low the taxes were low relative to the farms' true value, and also tended to be low in relation to the net rent of the farm; but on farms with high assessments the opposite tendency prevailed.

The law in Virginia requires that all taxable property be assessed at its fair market value, but, according to the survey report, this statute is widely disregarded. Farms studied were, on the average, assessed at approximately 35 per cent of their estimated true value and town properties at 40 per cent of their estimated true value, but the ratio of assessed to true value was found to vary on both classes from 10 to 100 per cent.

In a group of six counties studied, half the farms were assessed at only about 40 per cent to 60 per cent as high a rate as the other half, and those farms with low assessments were taxed in relation to true value, only about half the rate placed on those with higher assessments. With the single exception of Richmond, the report stated, the situation was the same in the cities under consideration.

Tax Variation Data.

Taxes on the farms surveyed varied from less than 10 cents an acre on 1½ per cent of the farms to over $1.50 an acre on the same number of farms. On 60 per cent the tax was between 10 cents and 50 cents an acre. Only seven and a fraction per cent had taxes of more than $1 an acre.

The net rent per acre varied from an actual deficit on 5 per cent of the farms to over $8 an acre on 6 per cent. About three-fourths of the farms studied had rents of less than $4 an acre and on about 27 per cent it was under $1.

Normally, it was pointed out, it would be expected that farms yielding a high rent per acre would pay higher taxes per acre than farms yielding lower rents, because their value would be higher. During the year studied, however, it was found that there was no general tendency for farms with high rents to have high taxes or those with low rents to have low taxes. This was explained by the fact that, as found in the survey, in a single year the factors which cause high taxes, operated without any direct relation to the factors which cause high or low rent.

FARMER, 70, ADMITS LIQUOR SALE GUILT

Fairfax County Man to Serve Three Months and Pay Fine of $10.

GRAND JURY IN SESSION

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna, 64.

The opening day of the January term of the Fairfax County Circuit Court yesterday was marked by the indictment and sentencing of Davis Gheen, a 70-year-old farmer living near Centerville, for the sale and possession of ardent spirits. Gheen was arrested by Sheriff E. P. Kirby and deputies December 14 in a raid upon his home after several purchases had been made there. A large quantity of alleged wine was seized and the marked money recovered. Yesterday he was indicted and Gheen appeared before the court and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to three months in jail and fined $10 and costs.

Because of the smallness of the criminal docket only a special grand jury was called. This jury, composed of Robert R. Buckley, foreman; Harry Cross, Crockett C. Carr, William M. Williams, Stockton S. Holbrook, Roy Hollis, Beaugard H. Swartz, Robert E. Graham and Ira Hutchison, returned nine indictments, three for statutory assaults, five for prohibition offenses and one for felonious assault. Maynard Zink, Rufus Harris and Warner Turley were indicted on statutory charges. The Turley case was set for hearing for Friday of this week and the Harris case for January 31.

Indictments were returned against Frank Spencer, charging sale and possession of liquor; William and Estelle Bailey, possession of a still and mash; Alma Miles and Eugene Miles, second offense for sale and possession of liquor, and Walter Roberts, sale of ardent spirits. Lum Honesty, James and Bolo Lewis and Milton Wallace, all colored, were indicted jointly on a charge of felonious and malicious assault.

Frank Beach, who was arrested January 7 for driving while drunk, pleaded guilty and was ordered to serve 30 days in jail and to pay a fine of $100 and costs. On motion of Commonwealth Attorney Farr and with the consent of the court, Beach will be released as soon as he has served the 30 days, with the understanding that he will pay his fine as soon as he is able to earn the money.

Robert Smith, who recently completed a term at the State Farm for impersonating an officer and was returned here to face an indictment for driving while drunk, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 30 days in jail with a fine of $100 and costs.

Walter Roberts, alias Walter Cooper, who was indicted on a charge of sale of liquor, was called but did not appear in court. His bond was declared forfeited and a capias issued for his apprehension. In the case of Harry Johnson a capias was issued and a motion for forfeiture of bond entered.

The case of Michael Caetto, alias Ardezzone, who was indicted last term of court on a charge of murder, was continued until the third day of the March term of court, as was the case of Maynard Zine.

A severance of trial in the case of William and Estelle Bailey was asked by the Commonwealth, as William Bailey is not as yet in custody. Estelle's trial was set for January 30. The trials of Alma Miles and Eugene Miles were set for January 30.

The dates of several other trials were set.

A coupe seized for the violation of the prohibition law from D. W. Dukes was ordered sold, subject to the lein of the Industrial Loan & Investment Corporation of South Carolina.

The civil docket was also called yesterday and a number of cases set for trial.

Charles Pickett was appointed trustee by the court to a deed of trust in place of Sue Thornton, who, since her appointment, had become a party of interest to the deed and was not qualified to serve.

R. Walton Moore and H. Rozier Dulany, trustees, were granted relief by the court from taxes erroneously assessed against them as trustees for the Alexandria Island Syndicate.

J. Ramsey Taylor, owner of the Fairfax drug store, was granted a license by the court to sell ardent spirits, fruit
